RADICALS FORCE DEADLOCK IN HOUSE AS CONGRESS OPENS

Four Ballots for Gillett for Speaker Taken Before Adjournment Until Today.

REPUBLICANS ARE 11 SHORT

Seventeen Progressives Stand Solidly for Cooper, While All Democrats Support Garrett.

OLD GUARD HOLDING OUT

Senators, in a Happy Mood, Organize Without Trouble on the Surface.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Four distinct times today the Radical-Progressive group blocked organization of the House of Representatives by refusing to permit the re-election of Frederick H. Gillett as Speaker.

So powerful and determined was the group of the insurgents that after the fourth ballot Nicholas Longworth, the regular Republican floor leader, moved an adjournment until tomorrow, when the struggle will be resumed.

The tactics of Senate Radicals were in direct contrast to those of their House colleagues, for they made no hostile move. While the House was trying to organize so the business of Congress could proceed, the other body met, swore in new Senators, and adjourned out of respect to its members who had died since the last session.

On none of the four ballots in the House did Mr. Gillett come within ten votes of the majority needed for his election. He lacked ten votes on the first ballot, eleven on the second, twelve on the third and eleven on the fourth. This deadlock was brought about by the Radicals, who cast seventeen votes throughout the day for Henry Allen Cooper of Wisconsin, and by five men who voted for Martin B. Madden.

The Democrats kept true to their promise and did not aid the Old Guard to solve the situation. Instead, they backed their leader, Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee, with votes ranging between 193 and 196. At one time Mr. Garrett went ahead of Mr. Gillett in the total.

Result of Each Ballot.

The four ballots on the Speakership resulted:

| | First. | Second. | Third. | Fourth. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Gillett | 199 | 195 | 195 | 197 |
| Garrett | 196 | 193 | 196 | 196 |
| Cooper | 17 | 17 | 17 | 17 |
| Madden | 5 | 5 | 5 | 5 |
| Total | 415 | 411 | 413 | 415 |

Four voted "present" on the first ballot and three on each of the following ballots.

The seventeen men who stuck to Mr. Cooper through all the ballots were Representatives Beck, Browne, Frear, Lampert, Nelson, Peavey, Schafer, Schneider and Voigt, all of Wisconsin; Clague, Davis, Keller, Knutson, Krale and Wefald, all of Minnesota; LaGuardia of New York and Sinclair of North Dakota.

The five who voted solidly for Mr. Madden were Representatives King, Michaelson and Reid, all of Illinois, and James and Woodruff, both of Michigan.

On the second ballot Mr. Yates of Illinois swung to Mr. Madden, but on the other contests he voted for Mr. Gillett.

Representatives Gillett, Garrett and Cooper all voted "present" on the first rollcall, but Mr. Gillett left the House after the vote was announced. Messrs. Garrett and Cooper continued to vote "present," as did Victor Berger, the Wisconsin Socialist.

The only way out of the existing dilemma for the regular Republicans, according to a statement tonight by John M. Nelson, the Radical leader, is for the Old Guard to agree to allow submission of amendments to the present rigid rules under which the House operates. Summed up, Mr. Nelson's position is this:

"It is impossible today to obtain progressive legislation without a liberalization of the rules. If the Republican leaders will allow us to present amendments and give the House an opportunity to vote on them, we will recede from our position and allow organization of the House; but if they carry out their threat to shut off any attempt to amend the rules we will stand where we are.

"All we ask is a chance to submit these changes to the House. We know the House will accept them overwhelmingly. If, however, the House rejects them, we will accept its decision. All we ask is the chance to have them voted on."

Republicans Sitting Tight.

Mr. Longworth, the Republican leader, is sitting tight and apparently expects to make no concessions to the insurgents. He intimated tonight that the country would not long tolerate the tactics of any group which sought to prevent Congress from going ahead and transacting its business. Other Republican leaders shared this attitude, and, so far as could be seen, there were no signs of yielding on their part.

The Democrats are keeping hands off in the matter, taking the stand that it is purely a Republican affair and that if that party is so unfortunate as to have internal complications it is no fault of the Democrats.

"We will stay here four days or forty days—we don't care," said Mr. Garrett, and his lieutenants said the Democratic vote would be "Garrett" every time a ballot was taken.

What the outcome would be no one seemed to know when the unorganized House adjourned. Mr. Nelson and his followers prepared to hold a meeting to talk over the situation; but they said they intended to make no overtures. None had they heard of any that might be made to them. There was, however, an

White House Unsafe; Needs $400,000 Repairs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The White House has been declared unsafe. Conditions there are declared to be such as to require that immediate remedial measures be taken to prevent a possible calamity.

These disclosures were made today by Major Gen. Lansing H. Beach, Chief of Engineers of the Army, in his annual report to the Secretary of War. Congress is asked for $400,000 for the work of reconstruction.

"A preliminary study of the situation in the interior upper portion of the Executive Mansion has indicated a condition which renders the building unsafe, both from the standpoint of security, in the structural feature and the fire hazard present," said General Beach.

BRITISH WANT US IN GERMAN INQUIRY

Consider Assent of France a Step Toward Eventual Settlement of Reparations.

JUDGE WEALTH HUNT FUTILE

French and Belgians Seek a Formula That Will Prove Acceptable to United States.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Some disappointment is felt here in political circles at the way in which, according to Washington dispatches, the United States appears to regard the decision taken by the Reparation Commission with regard to the inquiry into Germany's present financial position and the amount of credits the Germans have piled up abroad. These dispatches appear to indicate that the matter is considered of scant practical importance, offering little or no chance of any good resulting from it.

No one here, indeed, regards the commission's resolution as an adequate substitute for an unrestricted investigation by an international expert commission of Germany's capacity to pay reparations, but it is believed the assent of France to any inquiry is a distinct step forward and that it may prove a wedge which may begin to break up the present deadlock between the British and French Governments.

It is the result of an understanding reached between M. Barthou, President of the Reparation Commission, and Sir John Bradbury, the British representative upon it, and it is in accordance with Premier Baldwin's policy. He has always taken the ground that no effort must be spared to restore Anglo-French amity and has said that he would try one expedient after another to bring about that result.

The plan for an international commission with American participation failed through the refusal of France to open the inquiry wide enough to make it seem worth while to Washington or, for that matter, to great Britain, and so now the British Government has assented to a much modified scheme for a review of the situation.

British Hope for Wider Inquiry.

The resolution adopted by the Reparation Commission had two parts: First, the setting up of an inquiry into German finances, which appeals particularly to this country; second, the instituting of a hunt for German stores of foreign currencies, which is particularly favored by France. Great Britain hopes that as soon as the Reparation Commission begins, however gingerly, to inquire into how Germany is to balance her budget and under what terms she could invite foreign loans, it will inevitably be led on to consider the question of the Ruhr and other matters which so far M. Poincaré has insisted are sacrosanct.

Moreover, Great Britain has not the slightest objection to the French endeavor to locate Germany's private wealth in other countries, though she has little belief in its practicability. For it is pointed out here that the Reparation Commission can only ascertain how much the German industrialists have hoarded away in the United States, England or other countries by examination of their private banking accounts.

Obstacles in the Way.

France takes the view that if the big bankers are willing to co-operate it would not be impossible to arrive at a fair estimate of these, but in this country it is considered that legislation to give the Reparation Commission power to inspect private banking accounts would be absolutely necessary. To make such a law effective in England would be very difficult, but it is held that it would be absolutely impossible in the United States. For in America action by Congress, it is argued, would not be sufficient. As soon as it was

CRIME WAVE RECURS; SPEEDY INDICTMENTS SOUGHT TO CURB IT

A DAY OF DARING ROBBERIES

Woman Bound and Gagged in $20,000 Jewel Theft—Burglary in the Penn. Station.

MAGISTRATES TAKE ACTION

One Denies Bail in Crimes of Violence, Others Raise It to Prohibitive Standard.

While reports were reaching the police that many thousands of dollars had been taken by burglars and hold-up men, General Sessions Judge Cornelius F. Collins yesterday instructed three December Grand Juries to co-operate with the police and prosecutor by returning speedy indictments for crimes of violence. He asserted that the crime wave was so startling as to threaten the stability of official measures to protect life and property.

District Attorney Banton said he expected the usual increase in crimes of violence up to Christmas.

Magistrate Weil in Essex Market Court refused to admit to bail men accused of robbery. In other courts the Magistrates imposed bail so high as to make it impossible for prisoners to raise the amounts.

One of the most daring robberies reported was that in which three men bound and gagged a maid in the Bronx apartment of a jeweler and escaped with $20,000 worth of cash, bonds and jewelry. In a Cortlandt Street building burglars obtained $10,000 from a jeweler's safe after ripping a hole in the ceiling from the rooms above and after, it was believed, working all Saturday night and Sunday.

Robbery in Penn Station.

Robbers obtained $2,300 from a news stand in the Pennsylvania Station. Burglars stole $5,000 from the safe of a Bronx department store. A man captured in Washington Heights admitted that he and another man had robbed between forty and fifty Heights apartments of thousands of dollars' worth of goods. They maintained rooms, said the prisoner, at the Hotels Pennsylvania, Jasper and Martinique.

In Jersey City a man was arrested after an attempt to take $7,000 from a bank messenger.

Judge Collins in charging the December Grand Jury asked aid for the police in stamping out crime by speeding indictments wherever the evidence warranted. He explained that prompt indictment and trial after a particularly daring crime acted as a deterrent to other criminals and potential criminals and said that the Grand Juries could aid considerably in putting a check on the present crime epidemic by setting aside ordinary cases to take up holdups, burglaries and shootings committed in the commission of a crime.

"The so-called holdups of recent times, the breaking into dwellings and places of business, with almost unparalleled audacity, accompanied by assassinations or menace of life, are of such a nature as to call for special vigilance and action," he declared. "With these types of general criminal offenses I advise you to be especially vigilant, and avoiding prejudice or passion or misguided impulse, remember that promptness and expedition are the essence of effective procedure."

Quick Action Necessary.

"Expedition is at all times necessary when the circumstances permit, in the effective administration of justice," Judge Collins began. "There are times when this truth is especially applicable. I think it is wise at this time to call your attention, especially to certain crimes that have of late been prevalent—crimes of violence, the boldness of the execution of which is so startling as to threaten the stability of the effective administration of justice in the protection of life and property. The principal function of organized society is to protect life, liberty and property. When these are threatened, government must step in promptly. There are grades of crimes such as robbery, burglary, felonious assault and, pocket picking, which have, especially in the last few years, greatly agitated our people.

"While the object of punishment of the criminal is not to seek vengeance but to punish him with the object of correcting, and if possible reforming, the additional purpose, namely, of deterring

The first payment represents contributions from New York State.

EX-THIEVES LUNCH WITH CLERGY CLUB

Now "Going Straight," They Tell Ministers How Society Can Reduce Crime.

ACTORS ALSO ARE GUESTS

William Hodge, Introduced as a "Preacher," Says Stage Folk Dislike Unclean Plays.

Old-time robbers and veterans of the stage sat down with members of the Clergy Club at a luncheon at the Hotel Astor yesterday. The luncheon quickly developed into a love-feast and experience meeting at which the ecclesiastical hosts were addressed frequently as "you fellows" and were told how they could help stop the "crime wave" as well as stamp out immorality on the stage.

Men who had served terms in Sing Sing and other prisons were applauded roundly by the ministers for the frank account they gave of their criminal careers and their reformation. Stage folk were praised for clean productions. Playwrights, producers and the public were held more to blame than they for conditions on the stage.

Dr. Milo H. Gates, Vicar of the Protestant Episcopal Chapel of the Intercession and President of the Clergy Club, presided at the luncheon, which, he explained, was given in honor of William Hodge, actor and star, and Alpheus Cole, managing director of the Marshall Hillman Management, whose object is to help criminals to get a "square deal" and "go straight." Mr. Hodge was presented by Rev. George Thomas Dowling, a retired minister, after Dr. Gates had said of the playwright-actor: "If there is any one to whom the clergy owe a debt of gratitude it is to actors like Mr. Hodge, whose plays inspire and elevate the people." Mr. Hodge was invited to the luncheon after the clergymen had attended a special matinee he had arranged for them through Dr. Walter Laidlaw.

Mr. Hodge expressed his gratitude to the Clergy Club and said:

"I seem to have a feeling that there has always been a stone wall standing between the church and the theatre. My being here today with my company seems to have kicked a hole in that wall through which we may now reach and shake hands, and, I hope, finally kick the wall down. It isn't my desire to have you think that the church is not justified in hammering at some things in the theatre, but we all agree at my theatre that when you denounced the theatre you would name your man.

"I hate smut, and I know lots of actors that hate the smutty things they have to play in. I don't blame the actors; they have to work. The fault is first with the man who writes the play, and then the manager. The third and most powerful party is the people who go to see them."

Mr. Gates, speaking of the work of his organization among ex-convicts, said there was no such thing as the "underworld." He maintained that there was "more affection and self-sacrifice among the guerrilla bands than in the upperworld of business in which I was born."

The speaker said there were 900,000 Jews, 800,000 Italians and 600,000 Irish youths in New York City who were potential criminals in the absence of proper treatment. He said that races were mixed in bandit groups, despite popular belief, and students of crime supposed that such combinations were formed by the meeting of criminals in prison. He said that priests and other church leaders admitted that they were unable to check criminally-inclined youth through methods of uplift and reform. He maintained that the only way to stop crime was to convince criminals that they could get more happiness and contentment out of an honest life than out of a life of crime.

Former Criminals Speak.

Mr. Geer introduced among others William J. Stuart, a former highwayman whom he had encountered first some years ago while the latter was on his way to a "fence" to get $200 before starting out to commit another robbery. Their acquaintance had turned Stuart from a crime career to honesty. Stuart said that one reason for the crime wave was the wall society had built between itself and crime. He suggested that crime could be prevented when the wall was torn down and the criminal was given an opportunity to make good.

Samuel Katz, who was introduced as a man in "direct touch with a hundred bandits in New York City," said that he was a baby when his father died and his mother was forced to go out to work. He was 17 when he was convicted as a thief and sent to Sing Sing for two and a half years.

"There I was mixed in with older men—murderers, burglars and every kind of crook. I learned a lot I didn't know before. When I came out I was twice as bad as when I went in," said Katz. "It don't do a man any good to shut him away from God's free air. And when I left prison I had only $3 after paying for my railroad ticket. I told one of the prison officials who was up against it for a job. He said, 'This is no employment agency.'

"I couldn't bear to hear my kids say they were hungry. There was nothing left for me to do but steal. But I'd have to be crazy to go out and steal now. It would break his heart (pointing to Mr. Geer) and it would break mine, too.

"I'm happier now when I go home to my little family with my little weekly pay in my pocket and it's a pleasure to know that no cop can take it away from me."

NAVY TO ORGANIZE EXPEDITION TO FLY TO THE NORTH POLE

Coolidge Authorizes Project to Employ Warships, Airplanes and Dirigible.

SHENANDOAH MAY BE USED

Admiral Moffett Heads Board, Including Captain Bartlett, to Decide Final Plans.

WILL EXPLORE VAST AREA

Expedition Will Be Independent of That of Amundsen, Whom the Navy Is Aiding.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—With the approval of President Coolidge the American navy has decided to send an expedition into the Arctic next Summer for the exploration of the polar region. While naval vessels will be used as auxiliaries, the expedition will be primarily aerial and probably include the giant naval dirigible Shenandoah in addition to a group of airplanes.

When the expedition shall sail and the detailed plans have not been determined. These are to be considered and investigated by a board appointed by Secretary Denby. Rear Admiral Moffett, Chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics, will be senior member of the board.

This decision of the Government will not interfere with the arrangements recently completed with the Navy Department for Lieutenant Ralph E. Davison to take part in the transpolar flight by seaplane under the leadership of Captain Roald Amundsen. Three seaplanes will be used in the Amundsen flight and one of them is to be piloted by Aviator Davison. The navy's expedition will be independent of the Amundsen expedition.

Text of Coolidge Authorization.

President Coolidge's letter of authorization for the flight follows:

THE WHITE HOUSE,
WASHINGTON, Nov. 26, 1923.

My Dear Mr. Secretary:

I desire to confirm by this letter the verbal authorization which I have already given you to proceed with the organization of a naval Arctic expedition which will start in the coming year. The record of the army and navy in this line of endeavor is one of which the American people will always be proud, for it is marked by a spirit of heroism and devotion which is unexcelled in the history of exploration. As it fell to the navy to achieve the final goal, through the efforts of Admiral Peary, it is eminently fitting that the navy should continue the work, and I believe that the expedition which you have in view will be of great practical value and will be carried through with that thoroughness and efficiency which mark every project which the navy undertakes.

Very truly yours,
CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Secretary Denby's order for the creation of the Moffet board was issued today as follows:

"1. You are hereby appointed senior member of a board of which Commander William R. Furlong, U. S. N.; Lieut. Commander Ezra G. Allen, U. S. N.; Lieut. Commander Fitzhugh Green, U. S. N.; Lieut. Commander Robert A. Bartlett, U. S. N. R. F., and Gilbert Grosvenor are members, and Lieut. Commander Harold T. Bartlett, U. S. N., is member and recorder, to convene at the Navy Department to make a thorough study of and to prepare a detailed plan for the exploration of the north polar region. You will convene the board as soon as practicable.

"2. The board will submit its report to the department, together with its recommendations in the premises.

"3. The members have been directed to report to you for this duty when informed by you as to the time the board will convene.

"This is in addition to your present duties."

There were many volunteers for the Naval Air Service for representation in the Amundsen expedition, to which Lieutenant Davison has been assigned. It was stated at the Navy Department today that there will be no difficulty in obtaining the services of naval aviators willing to participate in the navy's own expedition.

There are over a million square miles of unexplored territory in the Arctic regions between the North Pole and Alaska, and as much as possible of this and other polar territory will be explored. An attempt will be made to discover whether or not the theory now held by scientists that a large continent exists in this region is correct. Other valuable scientific data of practical value will be sought, and an investigation will be made of the feasibility of transpolar routes for aircraft flying east and west between Northern Europe and the Pacific.

Bartlett Inspired Project.

COOLIDGE REMITS CRAIG'S JAIL SENTENCE; APPROVES DAUGHERTY REPORT OF CENSURE; CONTROLLER SILENT, COUNSEL SURPRISED

Daugherty Says Craig Might Be More Disappointed And Punished by Not Being Required to Go to Jail

From Attorney General Daugherty's Report on the Craig Case.

"Craig's imprisonment is not the greatest or most important question involved in the controversy. From his attitude he seems willing, if not desirous, to assume the attitude of a martyr, and it is conceivable that he would be more disappointed and punished by not being required to go to jail than he would be by serving his sentence.

"In addition to the foregoing it is urged that Craig's services are necessary for the public service in the position which he occupies and that his imprisonment will have an injurious effect upon the administration of the affairs of the City of New York. I am not impressed by this argument. He claimed he had time to be co-receiver. There can be no affairs of any municipality in any way comparable to the importance of maintaining the dignity, honor and usefulness of a Federal court, nor is any local, State or municipal officer of sufficient importance to make him immune from punishment when he vilifies, attempts to coerce and create public sentiment against a United States court.

"On the whole, however, in view of the considerations above suggested and taking into account the official position which Craig holds, his sentence may seem rather severe. In addition to this, the fact that, though by his own fault, no court has had opportunity to review the case on its merits is a matter to be considered.

"My conclusion is that, irrespective of what Craig, by his arrogance personally then and now, justly deserves, the situation would best be met by a remission of the imprisonment imposed by the sentence.

"I advise that this be done."

BILL BY LAGUARDIA DEMANDS JURY TRIAL

Also Requires That Judge Not Connected With Contempt Case Shall Preside.

STENGLE FILES ANOTHER

Declares Congress Must Act to Prevent Bench From Becoming Throne of Despots.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 3.—Representative LaGuardia of New York, after hearing of the action taken by the President and Department of Justice in the Craig case, said that he would submit a bill to Congress as soon as the House organized, to provide for jury trial in contempt cases. He gave the text of his bill as follows:

"Bill providing a trial by jury for acts constituting contempt of court.

"Section 1. No person shall be fined for contempt of court in the Supreme Court and in such inferior courts ordained and established by Congress except in cases where the contempt consists of an overt disorderly act committed in the actual and immediate presence of the Court, unless found guilty of the act or acts constituting the contempt after a trial by a jury; and such trial by jury shall be held in the State where said contempt shall have been committed.

"Section 2. Such jury trial shall be provided by a Judge not connected in any way with the case, trial, motion or other proceedings in which the contempt is charged."

Representative Charles L. Stengle of the Sixth New York District filed with the Clerk of the House a bill providing that no Federal Judge shall determine the guilt or innocence of any person he has ordered up for a contempt committed outside of his courtroom.

"In my opinion," said Representative Stengle, "the hour has arrived when Congress should speak in no uncertain language against the growing and outrageous tendency on the part of some of our Federal Judges to transform the judicial bench into a despot's throne, before which all knees must bend and concerning whose occupant none dare to speak except in words of praise and laudation.

"The sentencing of Controller Charles L. Craig of New York to a felon's cell for a term of sixty days by Judge Julius M. Mayer, because, per se, he saw fit to criticise said Judge is to my mind the last straw necessary to break the camel's back and I don't wonder that throughout the entire country there has arisen a cry of protest against this attack upon the constitutional rights of American citizenship.

"It is my hope and prayer that the cry shall continue and grow in volume until Judges who seek to punish respectable citizens for criticising their official acts shall come to a thorough realization that they are still the servants of the people and not their masters."

He have today introduced a bill which, if enacted into law as it should be, will prevent in the future any Judge becoming at one and the same time accuser, Judge, jury and 'executioner.'

"With me, this is neither a personal nor partisan matter, but simply a great desire to restore our courts to their former honorable status, namely, the bulwark of our liberties and the safeguard of our institutions, as well as the guarantors of our hard-fought rights as defined in the Constitution of our beloved country."

CRAIG AND MAYER SILENT ON DECISION

Controller's Attorney to Look Up the Law on Remission of Sentences.

JUDGE MAYER IS SATISFIED

Feels That He Has Been Upheld, Friends Say—Craig May Answer Daugherty.

President Coolidge's order remitting the sixty-day sentence imposed on Controller Charles L. Craig by Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer for contempt of court was generally accepted here last evening as definitely ending the Craig case in the belief that Mr. Craig could not refuse to accept the remission of the penalty.

As interpreted here, the President's action in approving Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty's recommendation for a remission of sentence instead of granting a pardon served a double purpose from the Administration's point of view. It upheld Judge Mayer in adjudging Mr. Craig guilty of contempt and censured Mr. Craig for what Mr. Daugherty in his report to the President characterized as a "libelous and false" statement concerning the Court. The granting of Executive clemency in the form of a remission of sentence rather than in the form of a pardon was considered to be designed to prevent Mr. Craig from being in a position to refuse clemency, as some authorities held that he would have been if a pardon had been granted.

Neither Mr. Craig nor Judge Mayer would comment upon the President's action nor upon Attorney General Daugherty's report to the President.

Mr. Craig received the news that the President had remitted his sentence about 4:30 o'clock at his office in the Municipal Building. He called in his attorney, Edmund L. Mooney, and Deputy Controller Charles F. Kerrigan, until recently secretary of the Finance Department, for a conference. Mr. Craig received the full text of Attorney General Daugherty's report over the telephone from Washington, but was unable to learn the exact form of the President's order.

To Look Up the Law.

It was learned that Mr. Mooney would start at once to look up the law regarding remission of a prison sentence. Mr. Craig did not indicate in any way whether he contemplated refusal of the remission of his sentence, if that should be found to be legally possible, and left his office at 7:30 for his home at 120 Riverside Drive.

Mr. Craig refused to discuss the Attorney General's report to the President and Mr. Daugherty's criticism of him, and indicated that he would have nothing at all to say until he had the text of the statement, which was expected from the President. When informed later that the President had merely approved the Attorney General's report and did not intend to make any statement Mr. Craig still refused to comment, but indicated that he would have something to say today.

Judge Mayer received the news of the President's action at his chambers in the Federal Building, and also refused to discuss it. Judge Mayer was said by his friends to feel entirely satisfied with the way the application for Mr. Craig's pardon had been disposed of and to feel that his position had been upheld fully by the Attorney General's report, which the President approved.

Judge Mayer's position in the matter, it was explained, was that the dignity of the court must be preserved from attacks upon it like that of Mr. Craig and that the latter must be shown that the local Federal judges were not afraid of him. As expressed by his letter to the Attorney General, Judge Mayer's position has been that he would be opposed to any action by the President which would condone the offense against the court which he believed Mr.

NOT TAKEN AS A VINDICATION

No Intention That It Should Be, Department of Justice Officials Say

JUDGE MAYER IS UPHELD

Controller Is Declared to Have Been Guilty of Criminal Contempt.

NO STATEMENT BY COOLIDGE

Content With Endorsing Findings—Board of Estimate Plea Influenced Decision.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—President Coolidge today remitted the sixty-day jail sentence imposed upon Charles L. Craig, Controller of New York City, by Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer of the United States Court for the Southern District of New York, for criminal contempt of court.

This action was recommended by Attorney General Daugherty after consideration of the case by the legal staff of the Department of Justice. The Attorney General and his advisers opposed the granting of an outright pardon and severely criticised Craig, and the President approved the department's recommendations for only a remission of the sentence.

Under the action taken Controller Craig will not be required to go to jail. If a pardon had been granted it would have carried vindication of the Controller. Officials of the Department of Justice explained that since the jail sentence has only been remitted by the President there was no vindication, and there was not the intention that there should be any.

At the White House it was asserted in response to inquiries that the President did not contemplate issuing any statement whatever in connection with his action in the Craig case. It was explained that the matter had been handled by the Department of Justice, that the President had given his full approval of the Attorney General's opinion and recommendation and that the Executive had authorized the Attorney General to make the only formal announcement in connection with the decision reached.

Action Caused Surprise.

The action of the President was a complete surprise to those who have been following the case in Washington, where it appeared to be a foregone conclusion that the President would grant a pardon. There was no doubt, once the right of the President to pardon or remit the sentence in such cases was determined clearly by the Department of Justice, that the President would take such action as was necessary to save New York City the inconvenience that would flow from jailing its Controller. No intimation had been given, however, that the President would not give Mr. Craig full pardon, or that the action of the Federal Administration would carry with it a sweeping criticism of the New York Controller.

Attorney General Daugherty's recommendation to the President—which has been approved in its entirety by the Chief Executive—charges that Craig deliberately and stubbornly contrived technicalities which Craig knew would preclude proper consideration of his case on its merits alone, and that his motive was to interfere with the course of justice and law.

Judge Mayer's Position.

Judge Mayer, when asked by the Attorney General for an opinion on the application for pardon, had replied:

"I oppose any Executive clemency to this defendant which would have the effect of approving, or seeming to approve, his conduct toward the Court and the due administration of justice."

In the face of this recommendation by the Court, it is stated, it was practically impossible for the President to pardon without violation of precedent. The custom in all pardon applications is for the Department of Justice never to recommend a pardon by the President when the trial Judge objects or fails to give his consent to such pardon.

It was emphasized at the Department of Justice that the opinion of the Attorney General took into consideration the representations of United States Senator Copeland and high officials of the City of New York that the vast financial affairs of that city might, through the imprisonment of the Controller, suffer serious consequences. The remission of the sentence is based on the desire of the Administration that the welfare of New York City's financial administration be not interfered with and not because Administration officials concerned in the action taken today have any desire to condone the alleged offense for which Mr. Craig was sentenced.

Attorney General Daugherty said he was further of the opinion that there must of necessity be a spirit of comity in our American dual form of government, "though Craig himself apparently little recognized that fact when he so wantonly attacked a United States court."

Senator Copeland, who made the application for Executive clemency in behalf of Controller Craig, said tonight:

"I do not care to make any statement

Athletic Records Should Count for Degrees Says University of Illinois President

URBANA, Ill., Dec. 3.—Recognition of athletics as an integral part of a college education was recommended to the Senate of the University of Illinois by President David Kinely today in submitting the report of a committee which has been formulating a definite athletic policy for the university.

Compulsory participation of every student in some form of athletics or physical education through all four years of his college career, with credit toward a degree for playing in an intercollegiate contest or taking corrective gymnastics, is one of the provisions of the plan. At present all freshmen and all freshmen and sophomore women are required to take physical education with participation in athletics of the school on a voluntary basis. Last year more than 6,000 men and 1,500 women were engaged in sports.

The report also recommends a closer relation between the athletic association of the university and the general scholastic organization. Faculty members are included in the provisions of the recreation plan, which provides that "facilities for corrective work and physical exercise be provided for members of the teaching and administrative staff."

Intercollegiate athletics would not be expanded beyond their present basis for the time being. But participation in such sport "would be retained as a proper stimulus and reward for success in athletic sports."

Marconi Extends Radio Control System To Fix Direction of 2,000-Mile Messages

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Signor Marconi, pioneer in the field of wireless communication, today declared his belief that a revolution in the methods employed for communication with distant countries would be possible as the outcome of important tests carried out by himself and C. S. Franklin, the British expert. The inventor made his announcement at a meeting of the Wireless Telegraph Company, over which he presided.

Signor Marconi said that, according to the new system, the electric waves carrying the messages were projected and propagated in a beam which was turned in any desired direction, as opposed to the present system, whereby the waves are sent out in all directions.

Communication had been successfully carried on by the new system between England and St. Vincent, one of the Cape Verde Islands, a distance of 2,250 nautical miles, he reported. Only a fraction of the electrical energy hitherto found necessary was employed.

Senator Marconi gave a demonstration before 1,000 engineers in New York on June 20, 1922 of the apparatus whereby he was able to project wireless waves in a chosen direction, like the beams from lighthouses, so that time be saved a "baby" set and in short wave length accomplishing transmission straight in the direction of a receiving set twenty feet away.

"The purpose I had in view when I sent my application to the President—that of keeping the Controller of the City of New York from going to jail—has been accomplished."

TEXT OF THE OPINION.

Following is the full text of Attorney General Daugherty's opinion:

In the matter of the application for pardon in behalf of Charles L. Craig.

The President

Sir: Charles L. Craig, Controller of the City of New York, was convicted before Judge Mayer in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, on an information charging him with contempt of the court, and was sentenced by Judge Mayer on Feb. 24, 1921, to imprisonment for sixty days in the jail of Essex County, N. J.

Craig applied to Hon. Martin T. Manton, United States Circuit Judge, for discharge on a writ of habeas corpus, which petition was granted by Judge Manton April 29, 1921. An appeal was taken to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, which court sustained the jurisdiction of Judge Mayer and reversed the order of Judge Manton discharging Craig. The matter was then taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, which upheld the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals and the jurisdiction of Judge Mayer in the premises.

Craig has made no application for executive clemency and declares that he will make none, preferring to serve his sentence than to do so. Application has been made, however, in his behalf by Senator Copeland of New York and by the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for the City of New York, including the Acting Mayor and Chairman of the board, the Acting President of the Board of Aldermen and the Presidents of the Boroughs of Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and Richmond, and in addition a number of appeals have been made by fellow-citizens of Craig asking that clemency be extended to him.

It Was Criminal Contempt.

Craig was guilty of criminal contempt. It is well established that the power of pardon covers sentences for criminal contempt as distinguished from those commitments to jail which are only for the purpose of compelling a person to comply with the order of a court in the course of a litigation.

The prosecution for contempt in this case grew out of a suit for liquidation of the affairs of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Railway Company, pending before Judge Mayer in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. It was found necessary to have a receiver for the operation of the railway and Lindley M. Garrison was appointed. Craig, as Controller of the City, had applied to be appointed a co-receiver, as a representative of the city's business. This application was denied. Thereafter the Public Service Commissioner of New York, Lewis Nixon, called for a conference of representatives of the Federal receivers of this and other city railways to meet himself and other municipal authorities to bring about co-operation between them all in meeting the serious problem of maintaining the transit system, including the adjustment of fares.

Controller Craig was invited to attend this conference but, instead of doing so he sent to the Public Service Commissioner a letter, the publication of which was the cause of the prosecution. The Controller in this letter declined to take part in any conference until Judge Mayer should change his policy in respect to the city. He attacked the Judge's refusal to appoint a receiver for the City of New York and asserted that by his court orders he had barred the city from getting information of the affairs of the company and stood between the city and truth and had done a monstrous thing. He closed the letter with the following statement:

"As a first and preliminary evidence of good faith those who desire such a conference and a reasonable solution of existing complications should procure the entry of orders by Judge Mayer putting the City of New York on an equal footing with the private interests now in his receiverships. A refusal to do this can but prolong and embitter the controversy and it will not in the end procure any advantage whatever to the traction interests."

Craig's Statement Untrue.

The statement that the Court had denied to the city information, or access to information, in respect to the affairs of the railway company, was untrue. The city had never applied for such information or access. After a full hearing, and giving the defendant an opportunity to retract the unfounded statement, which he failed to do, the Court held that the letter was written and published to intimidate the Court in its order by misrepresentations to the public of its attitude and threats of a lack of the needed co-operation by the city authorities in the maintenance of the traffic service of the railway and that this was contempt, and accordingly Judge Mayer imposed the sentence under consideration.

If the defendant had desired to test the legality and correctness of the Court's action he could have applied directly to the Circuit Court of Appeals to have the correctness of the sentence on the facts and law re-examined by a court of three judges who had nothing to do with the proceedings, and after that an application could have been made to the Supreme Court of the United States for a similar review on the merits.

Instead of taking this plain course, the defendant and his counsel sought to avoid a review on the merits by this court by submitting the case on petition for writ of habeas corpus to Judge Manton, alone, a Circuit Judge then exercising District Court powers. On this writ the sole question was whether Judge Mayer had authority to consider the question involved and not whether he had correctly decided it. Judge Manton held that Judge Mayer had no such authority and released the defendant.

Craig and his counsel took this course because they thought that Judge Manton's release of the defendant could not be appealed from, but in this they were wrong. As the above indicated, the release was appealed from and both the Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of the United States have held that Judge Manton committed error in ruling that Judge Mayer had not the authority to consider and decide the question contempt and to sentence the defendant. Both courts have also decided that in the appeal from Judge Manton's release of the defendant they had no power to examine the question as to finally whether Judge Mayer rightly decided the question of contempt, as they could and justly would have done had the defendant applied to them directly from Judge Mayer's decision.

The failure to take this course left Judge Manton's futile release the only basis for final release. Craig and his counsel let the time go by for a direct appeal from Judge Mayer's sentence, and unless clemency is now extended by the Chief Executive the sentence must be served.

Defiance and Serious Question.

The question presented is a very delicate and an extremely serious one, involving the line of demarcation between the right of free speech and publication concerning the conduct of the courts and their judgments, and such publications as well, and as are intended to, obstruct the courts in their present and immediate conduct of judicial business in hand, and the enforcement of their orders and judgments therein. Also it involves the protection of our courts from unwarranted assault, insult and false and malicious accusation, calculated to impede and hamper, and interference with and influence, the action of courts respecting matters pending before them, resulting, also, and necessarily, in bringing our courts into contempt and disrepute among those who, through ignorance and lack of information, may accept as true the unfounded and false accusations of contemners of our courts.

For this reason it becomes necessary to review and consider the grounds upon which clemency is asked, and also the attendant circumstances bearing upon the case which should be taken into consideration in passing upon the question whether or not clemency should be extended to Craig.

Basis of Pardon Application.

The reasons advanced in his behalf are substantially as follows:

(1) The Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York deplores that one of its members, the Controller of the city, though guilty of no act involving moral turpitude, may be incarcerated in jail because the Supreme Court of the United States finds itself unable to do anything for his relief, since it had to confine itself simply to the question of procedure and could not look into the merits of the case.

(2) That as chief financial officer of the city and a member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment Craig exercised an opinion through a letter to a State official and not in the presence of the Court which he undoubtedly believed was warranted under the circumstances.

(3) That the rational presumption is that such a communication was prompted by a desire to protect the public interest in the administration of his office.

(4) That the board is impelled by a deep conviction that a great injustice has been done to one of its members.

(5) That the enforcement of the sentence might impair the powers and impede the work of the board as well as the financial administration of the City of New York.

(6) That the precedent of summarily committing to jail an outspoken public official without the benefit of a trial by jury might operate to deny the right of open criticism of official acts and instill fear instead of courage in the administration of public office and lead to a widespread popular misconception of the integrity of officials who may incur the displeasure of judicial tribunals because of criticisms which in themselves may be strictly within the bounds of truth and justice.

(7) That the board feels that the condemnation and incarceration of the Controller may work irreparable injury to the name and credit of the City of New York and to the administration of justice.

(8) That because of the procedure in our system of jurisprudence the Controller was not permitted to have a trial by a jury of his peers or to have the facts considered by some one other than the Judge who was his accuser.

(9) That because of technicalities the Supreme Court found itself without power to dispose of the case on its merits.

(10) And, therefore, that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment requests a review of the case in the belief that such a review will result in the correction of a grave injustice.

Representations Misleading.

The foregoing reasons in many instances intermingle and are repetitions in slightly different form of the same arguments and are in substance that a State official though guilty of no act involving moral turpitude who merely expressed an honest, sincere opinion to associate officials in a matter concerning which he and they had an official interest is about to be imprisoned through no fault of his own, without the benefit of trial by jury or review on the merits by any one except the Judge by whom he was sentenced; that this is due, in a measure, to the fault of our judicial system and that the right of freedom of speech under the Constitution is involved.

The fact is that such representations are as unfounded and misleading as was the false, malicious and libelous attack of the defendant upon the Court, which he broadcasted through the public press. The publication of falsehood, calculated and intended to reflect upon the honor and integrity of a court and which, though known to be false, the contemner declines to retract but reiterates, is an act involving moral turpitude.

In such an attitude no question is presented of legitimate criticism of a court. No person claims that a court is exempt from proper criticism. Proper criticism, however, means honest, truthful criticism, and no thinking person will claim that such freedom of utterance carries with it the right of criminal libel, to falsify, defame and circulate false, malicious and untruthful statements reflecting upon the rectitude of a court in a matter pending before it, which must tend to destroy its usefulness and bring into disrepute and contempt our judicial system.

Such was the offense of Craig, in which he persists.

If a person who has caused to be circulated a false or malicious statement retracts when shown his error, his moral turpitude is no longer in question and belief may be retained in the sincerity of his utterances, though shown to be incorrect; but where, as here, the falseness of the contemner's statements is proven without fear of him to be untrue, and he still refuses to retract and persists therein, what shall be said of his moral rectitude and the sincerity of his intent?

Not Craig's First Offense.

This is not Craig's first offense. He was adjudged guilty of contempt of court by Mr. Justice Manning in the case of Schiefflin vs. Hylan, Craig et al., Second Department, Appellate Division, New York Supreme Court, and on refusal to retract was sentenced, Dec. 2, 1919, to pay a fine. Craig appealed to the Appellate Division, which affirmed the judgment without opinion and the Court of Appeals refused to review. He finally paid the fine but not, so I am informed, until an order to commit him to jail for failing to do so had been submitted to the Court. This contempt also was in connection with his office as a Controller and because of his determination, in contravention of a restraining order by the Court, to put into effect a resolution adopted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which board now so strongly urges the pardon of Craig for his contempt of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York.

Craig, therefore, is no novice in the matter of contempts. He is a lawyer and it cannot be fairly thought that when he resorted to habeas corpus proceedings in the present instance he did not know and realize that he was thereby preventing any possible review of his case on its merits. This is a complete reply to the claim advanced that owing to technicalities the Supreme Court was unable to dispose of the case on its merits and that no court or other tribunal than the sentencing Judge himself has had an opportunity to examine the case on its merits. It was not the fault of our judicial system that his case was not reviewed by an entirely different tribunal; in fact by two such tribunals; but, because he deliberately placed himself in a position where, by no possibility, could his case be thus reviewed. If there have been technicalities it is because he raised them and sought to escape under them.

Judge Mayer's Views.

Regarding the question of an extension of Executive clemency to Craig, I have communicated with Judge Mayer and received an expression of his views which, because of the great and far reaching importance of the matter under consideration, I quote in full:

"I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your telegram of Nov. 28, 1923.

"It is unnecessary for me to recite the details of the cases because the Department of Justice has presented it twice from the beginning, when the information was filed by Hon. Francis G. Caffey, United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York.

"Pursuant to my direction, defendant, with others, was invited in September, 1919 to investigate the grave problems of the Public Utility Corporations then in receivership and to that end the freest access to information and records was offered to him and to all public officials. Instead of availing thereof, he sought to obstruct the administration of justice at a time of intense public suffering by, on Oct. 6, 1919, charging the Court with refusing him and other public authorities free access which had been extended to him and them.

"He stated in respect of the desired conference looking toward co-operation between the received appointed by the Court and the public officials:

"'Before any such conference can be usefully considered * * * there must be a disposal of the policy for which the Public Service Commission and its Finance Department. Now would I oppose Executive clemency after the defendant shall have retracted the false statements for which he was adjudged guilty."

Agreed With Judge Mayer.

I thoroughly agree with Judge Mayer's attitude that whatever action may be taken it should not have the effect of approving, or seeming to approve, the conduct of Craig toward the Court, and should not be in any sense a vindication.

The serious point in the situation presented is the apparent willingness on the part of many, thoughtless, uninformed and misinformed persons to turn anything of this character into a question of freedom of speech and personal liberty. That many people have been thus misinformed as to the present case is undoubtedly the primary object of punishment, for violation of law is its effect, not only on the culprit, but upon the public generally, and when, as here, it seems apparent that the enforcement of a sentence may have a far-reaching injurious effect, it is obviously the duty of the Executive to take that element into consideration in reaching a determination.

There is also involved in this case the question whether Craig's criticism constituted an attempt to obstruct the administration of justice rather than a mere ill-tempered attack upon the Court for its failure to appoint him a co-receiver. The fact that some of his statements were made about not to be confused with the primary issue whether there was any real obstruction to the future conduct of the case in the court, intended or attempted, by the defendant.

The letter was undoubtedly a libel upon the Judge, but that wrong could have been met by civil or criminal action, and there is a wide divergence of thought as to whether the situation justified the proceeding for contempt. I have no doubt whatever on that point and believe that the Court's action was fully justified in order to protect the honor, dignity and usefulness of the Court.

Says Craig Hatred Serves.

The further fact is presented that, whether or not Craig chose the right course of procedure, the courts did not have opportunity to pass upon the important question involved, which is a matter of great and growing interest throughout the country. Craig is solely responsible for the Court and the Supreme Court not being permitted to pass upon the merits of the case.

Craig's imprisonment, therefore, is not the greatest or most important question involved in the controversy. From his attitude he seems willing, if not desirous, to assume the attitude of a martyr, and it is conceivable that he would be more disappointed and punished by not being required to go to jail than he would be by serving his sentence.

In addition to the foregoing it is urged that Craig's services are necessary for the public service in the position which he occupies and that his imprisonment will have an injurious effect upon the administration of the affairs of the City of New York. I am not impressed by this argument. He claimed he had time to be co-receiver. There can be no affairs of any municipality comparable to the importance of maintaining the dignity, honor and usefulness of a Federal Court, for any local, State or municipal officer of sufficient importance to make him immune from punishment when he vilifies attempts to coerce and create public sentiment against a United States Court.

On the whole, however, in view of the considerations above suggested, and taking into account the official position which Craig holds, his sentence may seem rather severe. In addition to the fact that, though by his own fault, no court has had opportunity to review the case on its merits, is a matter to be considered.

My conclusion is that irrespective of what Craig, by his arrogance personality then and now, justly deserves, the situation would best be met by a remission of the imprisonment imposed by the sentence.

I advise that this be done.

Respectfully,

H. M. DAUGHERTY,
Attorney General.

CORTELYOU ON GILBERT FEE

Gas Company Awaiting Supreme Court's Decision, He Tells Merrill.

George B. Cortelyou, President of the Consolidated Gas Company, replied yesterday to the letter of William Bradford Merrill demanding that the company take steps to recover approximately $28,750 from Abraham S. Gilbert, special master in the gas rate cases, that being the difference between the fee allowed by Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer and that fixed by the United States Supreme Court in the Consolidated Gas Company case. The letter follows:

Consolidated Gas Company of New York.
No. 4 Irving Place.
New York, Dec. 3, 1923.

William Bradford Merrill, Esq., of the New York American, 228 William Street, New York City.

Dear Sir:

Your letter of the 30th ultimo, addressed to the Presidents and Trustees of the Consolidated Gas Company of New York and published in The New York American on the morning of Dec. 1, 1923, was not received by us until after its publication in The American.

The next meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held on Dec. 27, 1923. In the meantime the matter will be brought to the attention of the Executive Committee and a formal answer to your request will be given to you later.

The question of proceeding against Mr. Gilbert before a decision is rendered by the Supreme Court in the appeal taken by the defendants with respect to the items of the costs taxed against them by Judge Hand does not differ materially from the question of proceeding against the defendants, the public authorities, in regard to the claims which the company has against them for the items of the costs taxed against them, which they were directed to pay and which they have not disputed and have not offered to pay, and which is nearly twice the amount of the claim against Mr. Gilbert. The officers of the company have not considered that it was important, pending such decision by the Supreme Court, to take legal action against Mr. Gilbert any more than against the defendants, as, in both cases, the claims carry interest.

Very truly yours,
GEO. B. CORTELYOU,
President.

CRAIG AND MAYER SILENT ON DECISION

Craig committed, but that he would not be opposed to clemency otherwise. Judge Mayer was said to have had no desire at all to see Mr. Craig go to jail and to regard the question of his sentence taken in connection with the Attorney General's condemnation of Mr. Craig, with approval.

Consider Craig Checkmated.

Some amusement was expressed by friends of Judge Mayer and in political circles generally over the way the Attorney General and the President had found to prevent Mr. Craig, as they phrased it, from "breaking into jail," and thus keeping "the sixty-day sentence alive as a political issue." In the view of these persons, Mr. Craig might have refused a pardon, and there was recalled in this connection an opinion by Chief Justice John Marshall, of the United States Supreme Court, in 1833, in which Andrew Jackson, then President, pardoned a man who had been found guilty of murder, with certain conditions. The man refused the pardon, and Chief Justice Marshall said:

"A pardon is an act of grace proceeding from the power entrusted with the execution of the law, which exempts the individual from the punishment the law inflicts. It is the private, though official, act of the Executive Magistrate, * * *. A pardon is a deed, to the validity of which delivery is essential, and delivery is not complete without acceptance. It may then be rejected by the person to whom it is tendered, and it is rejected as to him if he chooses to prefer to a court to force it on him. It may be supposed that no person being condemned to death would reject a pardon, but the rule must be the same in capital cases and misdemeanors. * * * In 1890 the Circuit Court of Maine relied the foregoing decision in the case of a United States Marshal who sued for fees for delivering a pardon to a convict who refused it. This Court said:

"It was essential that the warrant of pardon, granted by the President, should be delivered and should be accepted by the convict."

Lawyers conversant with the case said that delivery of the order remitting the imprisonment imposed on Mr. Craig was not essential, and that he would therefore have no way of refusing it if he wished to do so. It was explained that no court, or court would issue a commitment for Mr. Craig and that no warden of a jail would receive him without a commitment. The effect of the President's order, it was said, was simply to wipe out the sentence imposed upon him without relieving him of the judgment of guilt on the contempt charge.

Craig's Friends Not Pleased.

Mr. Craig's friends were not inclined to be satisfied with the way the application for his pardon, made by United States Senator Royal S. Copeland and fortified by a letter from the members of the Board of Estimate, had been dealt with.

They were especially resentful of the condemnation of Mr. Craig by Attorney General Daugherty, which they declared to be partisan support of the position taken by Judge Mayer. In their opinion, the conclusion of Mr. Daugherty's report recommending remission of the imprisonment was not logically justified by the rest of the report, which condemned Mr. Craig on practically every point of his controversy with Judge Mayer.

The future course of President to make any statement in connection with his action was also a disappointment to Mr. Craig's advisers. It was said that any statement that Mr. Craig may now make will be in reply to criticism of him by the Attorney General.

Mr. Craig's friends were said to hope that the publicity obtained by his case would bring about a Congressional investigation of Federal receiverships. Mr. Craig has offered to give information to any members of Congress which he believes will convince them that such an investigation is desirable.

FIVE CONFEDERATES TURN ON DIAMONDS

Men Held as Material Witnesses Say Both Brothers Were at Murder Scene.

GRAND JURY ORGANIZED

Judge Taylor, in Addressing Body, Pays High Tribute to Police and Dodd.

Police Headquarters yesterday revealed that every one of the five men held as material witnesses in the case has made a statement declaring that both Joseph Diamond and his elder brother, Barlow Morris Diamond, were at the scene when William S. Barlow and William B. McLaughlin, messengers of the West End Bank, were shot to death and robbed of $43,607 at the B. M. T. elevated station at New Utrecht Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, Brooklyn.

Both brothers have insisted that while Joseph turned the murder car over to three men, the actual slayers, he did not remain for the attack, and that Barlow Diamond was a block away in another automobile.

The police and District Attorney Charles J. Dodd of Kings County believe that these stories are upset by the signed statements of Angelo Farini, Michael Mezzano, Edward Capobianco, Nicholas Luciano and Willie Fried, and that the charges by Anthony Pantano, originator of the plot, further nullify the defense of the two brothers.

The authorities disclosed that Farini, Mezzano, Luccano, Capobianco and Pantano, all of whom participated in numerous conferences and rehearsals before the robbery, have given evidence that the plans, made out on paper, delegated to Joseph Diamond the job of driving the murder car. This evidence dovetails into testimony of a friend of Joseph that he, Stool, Sands with the younger Diamond at the elevated station a few minutes before the crime, despite his alibi story, and with the information given by an eyewitness that Joseph shot one of the messengers.

Still Searching for Three Men.

The evidence made known yesterday also explains the indifference of the police to the story of the Diamonds that there were three men, now fugitives, in the group described by the brothers as the slayers. The police are now proceeding on the theory that the third man is the chauffeur was Joseph. They are, nevertheless, searching for all three men named by the Diamonds, believing them to have been deeply involved in the plot.

District Attorney Dodd was unable yesterday to begin presentation of evidence in the case to the December Grand Jury, because most of the day was taken up in its organization. He issued subpoenas for many witnesses, requiring their appearance today. The prosecutor and police thought it possible that the testimony of a few of these witnesses would be all the Grand Jury would require and that indictments for murder in the first degree might be returned this afternoon against the Diamonds and Pantano.

Clarence Seward, advertising man, was chosen foreman of the Grand Jury. In his address, County Judge J. Franklin Taylor said: "We have heard a good deal recently about a so-called crime wave. There have been several spectacular instances of crimes of violence, among which was the murder and robbery of two bank employes. This crime, which shocked the entire community, apparently has been solved, in a large measure.

"Credit must be given to the police, to the District Attorney and to his aids in this case. With practically nothing to offer as a clue, the investigation of this crime brought out examples of police efficiency that are unparalleled in the annals of criminology in Brooklyn. The work of the police and the District Attorney in this case put a quick and complete quietus upon the lawless element. Take it will be presented to you. The District Attorney has informed me that he has much evidence to submit to you and a large number of witnesses to call before you. I hope you will give the matter your prompt and careful attention."

Prisoners' Examinations Delayed.

Because of the prospect of immediate indictments, Magistrate Louis Reynolds, in the Flatbush Court, yesterday postponed the scheduled examinations of the Diamonds and Pantano, arraigned on charges of murder in the first degree and robbery. The examinations of the Diamonds were put off until Dec. 10, and that of Pantano until tomorrow. They were remanded to the Raymond Street Jail. They were taken to and from the jail in the same patrol wagon, but Pantano was kept in the front part of the vehicle and the brothers in the rear, because of the conflicting stories from their various confessions. Indictments by the Grand Jury would take the cases automatically from the Magistrate's hands.

Ex-District Attorney John H. Hylan of Kings County and his partner, Marshall Snyder, of 50 Court Street, a former Assistant District Attorney, were attorneys for Pantano.

Over the long-distance telephone the New York police learned yesterday from the Cleveland authorities that Mrs. Margaret Gordon, alias Stein, 30 years old, of Detroit, arrested for forging a check for $10, was lying when she said that she had gone to Cleveland at the request of Barlow Diamond. She admitted yesterday that her story of having had luncheon with him in Cleveland was false and that she had built up the story after reading of his arrest.

LUDENDORFF ASSAILS FRANCE AS DESTRUCTIVE

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

MUNICH, Dec. 3.—Nothing can now prevent France from breaking up Germany, General Ludendorff declared today in an interview with The Tribune correspondent.

A list of questions was submitted to him asking the program under which General Ludendorff would lead Germany out of the present catastrophe, how he would liberate the occupied regions, what he considers the ultimate objective of France, how he thinks Germany could have avoided the Treaty of Versailles and its dependent obligations, and what policy Germany should adopt for the future.

His statement follows:

"The questions you ask are on the surface. They are in accord with the usual understanding of events of the world and historical matters which are everything else but real. Nothing can now hinder or prevent France in its directing of international forces from breaking up Germany, firstly Prussia, and thereby the Germanic outlook and attitude toward civilization, which consists of truth, honor, trustworthiness and the highest moral idealism. Only the unscrupulous American people would deny these facts.

"France is trying to stop up at the fountainhead the greatness of Germany and a people who have had the most important place in the world by regarding Germany as the most dangerous enemy in all things (culture, trade, commerce and influence). France is making her powerless, but Germany herself, and not France alone, can make us powerless."

CRIME WAVE RECURS; RUSH INDICTMENTS

others from committing similar crimes is of outstanding importance. I believe that where the commission of one grave crime of felony, such as robbery or burglary, is successfully carried out, it acts as an encouragement to other criminals and is an incentive to them to attempt similar acts.

"This results in what is sometimes called a 'crime wave.' Capture, prosecution, and, if warranted, prompt execution of sentence, deters more powerfully than any other course of action in preventing the commission of such offenses. The Police Department of this city has been particularly active in detecting and in the pursuit of such criminals. The District Attorney of this county has for some time past, with crimes of the nature referred to, when in his judgment such a course was warranted, gone directly to the Grand Jury with his evidence, thus avoiding the necessity of arraigning before magistrates, with incidental delays, attending hearings, postponements or adjournments.

"The Court of General Sessions stands ready to fully co-operate with the Police Department and the District Attorney, consistent with the due administration of the conduct of trials. You are a constituent part of this Court, and you can readily appreciate the importance of your co-operation in this regard. Without an indictment there can be no prosecution of a felony. You are the instrument of government through which accusations must come preliminary to trial by petit jury.

"I feel, therefore, warranted in urging upon you such co-operation to the end that justice is promptly vindicated and law and order maintained. The Police Department, the District Attorney and the Grand Jury and the courts should properly and promptly co-operate in the performance of their duties, and the highest standard of the administration of criminal justice may best be secured."

District Attorney Banton had a conference with Judge Collins before the Grand Juries entered the latter's court. He admitted later that they discussed the new outbreak of crime, and concurred in the belief that with speedy co-operation by Grand Juries terror would be put into the hearts of criminals.

"We can expect an increase in crimes up to Christmas," declared the prosecutor. "Crime comes in cycles—the first in the Spring and the second right before the holidays. It can't be explained, except that more temptation is offered through people being more careless in the handling of money and thus giving thieves the opportunity they seek.

"All the Judges of the Court of General Sessions have volunteered to cooperate with the Police Department and this office in speeding trials of persons arrested for crimes of violence. In such cases, as heretofore, the police will bring the case to this office before 11 o'clock on the morning following the commission of the crime, and by 2 P. M. the Grand Jury will have decided whether to indict or not.

Immediate Arraignment Planned.

"In cases where indictments are returned, the prisoner or prisoners immediately will be arraigned before a Judge and, at my request, especially high bail will be demanded. Where the bail is not forthcoming the prisoners, of course, are sent to cells in the Tombs to await trial. Where the accused does furnish bail he does not gain much advantage, because I will move to have him brought to trial within ten days or two weeks to prevent, if possible, the indicted persons from committing other crimes in order to pay for their defense at the trial on the first indictment.

"Of the 'questionable third' of prisoners arrested in this city in connection with recent crimes of violence is that four of every five of them are newcomers and without criminal records. That is the thing that speedy indictment and trial will check. We must let thugs fellows know that this city is prepared for them. The co-operation of the Grand Juries with the police and this office will strike terror to the hearts of the invading criminal element and force them to seek other fields."

Mr. Banton added that his assistants had reported that investigation of many recent robberies revealed that the criminals were even more frightened than their victims.

"There is amateurishness in the holdups of the present time," he said, "and there is great danger of a victim being unintentionally shot by the robber because of the nervousness of the latter."

Three men entered the apartment of Max Krayzler, a jeweler, living at 923 Simpson Street, the Bronx, just before noon yesterday, bound Krayzler, a maid and after drilling a heavy steel safe, escaped with nearly $30,000 in cash, bonds and jewelry.

Although the robbers were in the apartment two hours, their operations were so well timed that not a person in the vicinity had any suspicion a robbery was in progress. The apartment house is two blocks from the Simpson Street Police Station.

Maid and Child Alone in House.

Krayzler, owner of a jewelry store at 1,510 Broadway, left home about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. His wife went to her millinery shop directly under their apartment. Mrs. Barbara Kubat, the maid, and the Krayzlers' 6-year-old daughter Madeleine were left in the apartment.

About 10 o'clock Madeleine started to leave the apartment. At the door she met two men who asked her if she knew where "Benny" was. Madeleine replied that she had never heard of any such person living in the apartment house, whereupon the men left. She followed them as far as the street, then went to play.

An hour later, while Mrs. Kubat was in the kitchen, the bell sounded. Thinking it was Madeleine, she opened the door. Two men seized her. One placed his hand over her mouth and, warning her not to cry out, led her to a room in the rear.

Burglars, believed to have worked all Saturday night and on Sunday, took $10,000 in jewelry and diamonds and $100 in cash from the jewelry store of R. R. Fogel on the third floor of 9 Cortlandt Street. Detectives were of the opinion that the burglars slipped into the salesroom in the clothing store of Moe Levy & Son, occupying the first two floors, after pretending to seek suits, and made their way to the fourth floor, occupied by the Barton Manufacturing Company, maker of rubber stamps. How they tried ineffectually to open a safe. Failing in this, they ripped a hole eight feet long by two feet wide in the floor and dropped to the Fogel store, where they opened the safe. The floor was found strewn with papers and books.

The robbers took rings, bracelets, watches, chains, gold pens and pencils, diamonds and other articles. On each floor they left three pairs of gloves and in the Fogel store a complete set of burglars' tools.

Thieves entered the Pennsylvania Railroad Station between 10 o'clock Sunday night and early yesterday morning and stole $3,300 from one of the stands of the Union News Company. The stand, to which the receipts of the seven or eight others in the station are brought each night, is on the Long Island concourse.

Burglaries in the Heights.

The suspicions of Harry McQuestion, superintendent of the apartment building at 27 Audubon Avenue, in which several robbers had taken place recently, resulted in the capture of Charles Duffy, 21, an ex-sailor, who said he maintained rooms at the Hotels Pennsylvania, Imperial and Martinique, and who, according to the police, confessed to between forty and fifty robberies of Washington Heights apartments in which he and another man obtained many thousands of dollars' worth of clothing and jewelry.

Duffy entered the building, dapper and refined in speech and announced himself as a truant officer. Unable to produce credentials, McQuestion refused permission to go upstairs. Duffy left. Suspicious, the superintendent followed. At Edgecombe Avenue and 155th Street, McQuestion called to Traffic Policeman George Horner. Duffy took to his heels, drawing a pistol. When the policeman drew a revolver, Duffy surrendered. In the West 153d Street Police Station he gave information which resulted in the finding of four suitcases filled with clothing at the hotels and many pawntickets. He gave the name of his partner in crime.

Sometime between Saturday night and yesterday morning burglars stole $5,000 from a safe they ripped open on the second floor of the department store of William Bauman at 2,063 Third Avenue, the Bronx. They left behind a set of burglars' tools.

Shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday afternoon two armed men entered the grocery store of Max Goldberg at 707 De Kalb Avenue, Brooklyn, and took $20 from Goldberg's pockets and $140 from the cash register. They escaped.

It was learned yesterday that burglars broke into the jewelry store of John Engledrum at 281 Highland Avenue, Jamaica, while the family was out.

Detectives yesterday arrested Owney Madden, 30, of 426 West Thirty-fifth Street; Henry Jacobs, 40, of 260 West 128th Street, and James Lange, 30, of 30 Charles Street, accusing them of a robbery in the Liberty Storage Warehouse at 48 West Sixty-fourth Street Sunday, in which 200 cases of whisky were stolen after a watchman had been bound and gagged. Madden is a notorious gangster who was released recently from Sing Sing after serving seven and one-half years for killing a man in an altercation over a girl.

No bail was permitted Benjamin Gordon, of 19 Willett Street, a chauffeur, when held by Magistrate Weil on a charge of suspicion of robbery. He was suspected of acting in concert with two men who Sunday night held up Solomon Shapiro of 300 Lavonia Avenue, Brooklyn, and Miss Casper of 2,035 West Twenty-ninth Street, Coney Island, at Forsyth and Canal Streets. The robbers obtained $4,000.

Magistrate Weil held the same attitude toward William Hoffman, 36 years old, laborer, of 40 Avenue B, accused of taking $21 from Michael Kitluk of 212 Eldridge Street, near the latter's home. The alleged robber made the mistake of attempting to escape by leaping into a taxicab on which Patrolman David Simpson of the Clinton Street Police Station, on duty in civilian clothes, was riding. Miriuk was held without bail for examination Friday.

In Long Island City Court Magistrate Doyle held Vincent Rasparni, 19, of 180 Allen Street, Manhattan, in $10,000 bail for examination tomorrow on the charge that last Saturday he held up and took a $1,800 payroll from Max Cohen, paymaster of the Hill Button Company, near the company's plant at 126 Paynter Avenue, Long Island City.

Robbery of $1,000 worth of a Greenwich Village party was disclosed yesterday in West Side Court when Mrs. Gladys Wagner, hostess in a restaurant at 58 MacDougal Street, charged that John Dempsey, a waiter, of 2,044 Ogden Avenue, the Bronx, forced her on Sunday last to yield two rings and a bracelet, valued at $1,500, threatening her with death if she called help. She added that when she encountered Dempsey recently he said he had lied to her and had obtained for her rings and bracelet in a dice game in which he had been "trimmed" by two women. Dempsey denied the charge, though admitting he was with the two women in the apartment. Magistrate Frothingham held him in $5,000 bail for examination Thursday.

INDICT 7 BROKERS FOR STOCK FRAUDS

Action Follows Inquiry Into $4,000,000 Failure of Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell.

HEAD OF FIRM IS MISSING

McQuade Brothers, Curb Brokers Named in Indictment, Also Have Disappeared.

Seven stock brokers were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury yesterday in connection with the failure in April, 1922, of Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell of 42 Broadway, who were members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Those indicted were De Witt C. Raynor, Blaine J. Nicholas and Earl H. Truesdell, members of the firm; C. Peter Ovens, office manager; John H. McQuade, Edward A. McQuade and Francis X. Quillan, curb brokers.

The indictments, were based partly on evidence adduced at bankruptcy hearings which have been carried on for months past before Referee Harold P. Coffin. Assistant United States Attorney Peter J. McCoy presented the evidence to the Grand Jury, and the indictments were handed up to Judge Julian W. Mack.

Raynor disappeared from New York after the failure and has not been seen here since. The McQuade brothers also are out of the jurisdiction of the courts of this Federal district. The other four defendants are expected to appear to plead to the indictments next Monday. The authorities say they know where Raynor and the McQuades are and may send warrants for their arrest unless they surrender.

The indictments charge the brokers with a conspiracy to use the mails to defraud. Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell had branches in several cities outside of New York. The McQuade brothers were traders on the curb and were used, it is alleged, in the purchase and sale of securities for Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell.

In some cases, according to the indictment, Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell actually executed buying orders received from customers, but then ordered the McQuade brothers to sell the securities immediately. The customers were told that the securities were being bought on margin, according to the indictment, which accuses the brokers of converting the margins put up by customers to their own accounts. In other cases the brokers are alleged to have simply taken the money without troubling to use the ruse of effecting the buying orders with selling ones. The fourteen counts in the indictment are based upon the mailing of letters in the New York Post Office to various customers.

Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell failed for $4,000,000 in April, 1922. The affairs of the firm figured in the Consolidated Stock Exchange "housecleaning," which resulted in the resignation of William R. Silkworth as President of the exchange. Testimony at the bankruptcy proceedings before Referee Coffin tended to show that the Ways and Means Committee of the exchange was informed of the difficulties a few weeks before it failed, but that President Silkworth, after receiving the accountant's reports, told Raynor that he was not charged with being insolvent.

CHURCHILL APPEALS FOR SECOND PLACE

Admits That Liberals' Best Hope Is to Be Next British Opposition.

LLOYD GEORGE ON QUACKS

Says Protectionist Nostrum That Helps Others Might Be Fatal to Englishmen.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Speaking at Walthamstow, on the outskirts of London, tonight, Winston Churchill admitted that the Liberals did not hope to capture the Government bench in next Thursday's election, but asked the voters to put the party in the place of the chief Opposition, where it could fight the Conservatives' effort to "wreck free trade, on which our commercial greatness is built," and prevent this "quack cure by an unknown Prime Minister, assisted by Cabinet members who could not be Under Secretaries in any other Government."

As I cabled last night, the indications still point to the Conservatives winning by a reduced majority, but reports from the four corners of England tend to show that the Liberals will win more seats than the Laborites, which will mean that Lloyd George will be the leader of the Opposition in the next House, in which position he may be expected to rebuild his political power, which the events of the past two weeks show had by no means waned so much as his opponents declared. In fact, the greatest asset the Liberal Party has this week is the personal popularity of the little Welshman.

Churchill Invades Labor Territory.

With Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Baldwin both out of town today, Mr. Churchill was the centre of interest. Half American as he is, he compaigns in the real American style and knows how to play his points. At Finsbury Park this afternoon, invading Labor territory, he had a strenuous time of it. A group of Communists in the gallery had organized hostile demonstrations and time and again heckled him about his Antwerp expedition and wanted to know what he had done for the country. Mr. Churchill retorted that he had done as much as the young men who were working for Moscow.

An hour later at the Shepherd's Bush Empire music hall, he also encountered hecklers, but easily came out on top. Here he made a heavy artillery attack on the Baldwin Government. In the first place, he found fault with the debt settlement with America. He thought the Conservatives had acted in too big a hurry. "A tactful and wise policy carried out by experienced statesmen," he said, "would have led to the United States being brought into a general plan of European settlement, so that we would not have been the only nation to pay."

The mere announcement of the protectionist policy, he said, had resulted in the fall of the pound sterling and the loss of a hundred million pounds' value in British securities.

The Lausanne Treaty, he found to be nothing less than a disgraceful surrender to the Turks.

I went to hear Mr. Churchill at Walthamstow tonight and was impressed by the fact that every mention of Lloyd George's name brought repeated cheering. Reviewing the Liberal record, he made the point that it was due only to Liberal reforms that there existed a Labor Party in England today. Both the Conservatives and Laborite, he said, were trying quack remedies.

Mr. Baldwin was seeking to tax trade while Mr. Macdonald sought to tax capital. Both, he declared, had already provided for spending the money they would get, so that the realization of their reforms would mean nothing to the country. Noting the fact that the Conservatives said they would have to study protectionism before shaping any law and that the Laborites said they would propose no capital levy act until the move had been more closely studied, he concluded that the men and women of England would follow the path of safety in voting for the Liberals.

Lloyd George as "Quack Remedies."

In his speech at Norwich tonight Mr. Lloyd George ridiculed the Conservative claim that protectionism would make England stronger commercially and economically. Because protectionism was good for other countries he thought it did not follow that it was good for England.

"Assuming that this patent medicine, this quack remedy, does no harm to Frenchmen, Germans or Russians, it might kill the Englishman," he said.

England had built up and retained the greatest exporting and shipping business of the world on a policy of free trade, and he opposed deserting a policy which had done so much for Britain.

He scored heavily by pointing out the financial conditions in protectionist Continental countries as compared with those of England, with free trade.

"In a weak moment," he said, "we loaned them £2,000,000. They promised to pay us back, those honest tariff reformers; but when we ask them now they say: 'We tariff reform countries cannot pay.'"

He argued that under free trade England had made the most remarkable recovery among European nations after the war.

"The sovereign got better and better," he said, "and was looking the dollar in the eye and almost face to face until Mr. Baldwin got into office. It is a little lower now, but better off than the money of any Continental protectionist countries."

Pointing out that England was the only debtor to America which was paying, he asked:

"If protection enriches a country and free trade ruins it, why are we the only country which could pay our way through the war and at the end restore our credit?"

Baldwin's Last Formal Appeal.

Premier Baldwin made a supreme appeal to the voters tonight in Liverpool in his final set speech of the campaign. His special effort was to refute Mr. Lloyd George's charge that he was proposing a vague, general plan without knowing in advance just what the application of it would be. Pointing out that all the schemes of all the Governments in England since the war had not solved the unemployment problem, he said he presented a bold new plan to meet this condition. He saw the Conservatives as the party of progress rather than the Liberals.

"They don't know it," he said, "but they are a relic of early Victorianism and are picking their way in pattens and crinoline overmiidewed."

The Prime Minister answered squarely one question which has been asked hourly for the last two weeks, namely, if the Conservatives were returned with a reduced majority would they regard that as approbation by the country of their protectionist policy, especially since it now appears likely that they will receive less than a majority of the vote cast.

"It stands to reason under present conditions with three parties in the field that whichever one gets in must have no majority of total votes polled," said the Premier, "but that does not mean that the party which wins will not control a majority vote in Parliament. I have appealed to this country for a mandate, and if I get it shall exercise it to the full."

Mr. Baldwin ridiculed the charge that the Liberals would wreck the British merchant marine, declaring that it was built up in the days of Free Trade and protection. With regard to the charge that he was changing the eighty-year-old policy of England, Mr. Baldwin said that what he proposed was not a policy of protection just to have protection.

"I said in the House of Commons," he said, "that we were facing a position of emergency; that we were proposing a radical and drastic measure dealing with this emergency situation, with full knowledge that if the circumstances which caused this condition changed it would be open to the House of Commons to review the fiscal policy of the country.

"What I propose is to put a tax on manufactured goods, and in all cases where the import of these goods throws our men out of work a tax sufficient to meet the unfair advantage the foreigner gets through currency and wages; so that our own people may have a fair chance to compete and earn a livelihood. We do not propose to tax simple articles of food." He made it plain that the dumping of cheap steel from the Continent would be prevented.

Turning to matter interesting to the United States, he said:

"We propose to stimulate the growth of cotton in the empire. We are confronted now with a shortage of supplies due to bad harvests and increasing demand in America, and we must turn to the development of our own estate. The imperial estate is one of unlimited potential resources. It contains millions of customers for Lancashire goods, and if Liverpool and England will only devote to the development of the empire some of the brains and capital that you devoted to the development of the United States of America in the past you will find in your imperial estate a far richer reward."

Summing up, the Premier said:

"Our policy is threefold: First, at home, to protect our own producers, masters and men, and to help our farmers and laborers; second, abroad, negotiations for the conclusion of more favorable terms for the exchange of goods; third, within the empire to seek to quicken production by means of preference. And the supreme object of this policy, and the reason you are asked to support it, is the gravity and urgency of the problem of unemployment. If we had seen any prospect of a revival in Europe of peace and stability, economic and otherwise, there are those who might have reached other conclusions. But there is no such prospect at the moment, and it is better and wiser to face facts squarely and face them before it is too late.

Subsidizing Allies' Industry.

"We have emerged from a titanic struggle victoriously, but at what a cost! We have to pay off between seven and eight thousand million pounds. We are repaying our debt to America. We are the most heavily taxed country in the world. We are paying for loans made our allies, and they have not even paid us interest, and we are thus indirectly subsidizing their industry and commerce and we have between one and two millions out of work.

"That is a situation so grave that, in my judgment, it calls for something more than 'wait and see' or a string of jests through a megaphone. There are grave symptoms in the body politic, but this country is not played out."

Addressing an overflow meeting, Mr. Baldwin said:

"There is no reason why the British Empire market and those of the Dominions should not be as great as those of the United States. I believe that if you do not bind the economic interests of the Dominions by an economic arrangement in a few years they may become convinced that you are not going to do anything for them, and I cannot see what is to prevent them being drawn—it may be against their will—into some greater economic orbit than their own, by which they may develop and find markets. It would be an act of the wildest folly if we let the opportunity go by. Let us take it now in both hands in the hope that it may be the beginning of a vastly increased trade in vastly increasing markets and will in time make us comparatively independent of those European markets which during the last two or three years have wrought such havoc in the happiness and prosperity of our people."

DISORDER MARKS BRITISH CAMPAIGN

Traditions of Fair Play Shattered by Tactics of Communist Hecklers.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—As the electoral campaign proceeds instances of gross rowdyism become more frequent. The worst case has occurred in the North Battersea division of South London, where H. Hogbin, the Liberal candidate, alleges that he has been threatened by gunmen and is receiving special police protection. This is the constituency which was won for Labor at the last election by Mr. Saklatvala, a Parsee. It has a number of violently red electors, whose conduct at Mr. Hogbin's meetings has been so bad that he was obliged last week to give up all idea of making public addresses.

At Edmonton the conservative candidate, R. S. Brown, has also had to suspend his meetings for the same reason, while in the Strollox division of Glasgow another Conservative candidate, Councilor Violet Robertson, had the experience of being spat upon and kicked as she went through the crowd to the platform. Disorder nearly as bad has occurred in the east end of London, and it has become an experience for candidates in all parts of the country to be howled down by organised gangs.

When Winston Churchill left a meeting he addressed at Walthamstow tonight he was escorted from the hall to his car by mounted police, who surrounded the vehicle; but a crowd surged around the car, hooting and booing him. Despite the vigilance of the police, a man broke through and smashed one of the windows of the car. The police took the man into custody. When this fact became known there was more booing, and many people spat on the car as it drove away.

Such incidents are occurring practically only in districts where Communistic views are held. The regular Labor Party no more stoops to them than the Liberal or Conservative Parties, but they have introduced a very sinister feature into British political life.

In very many cases the disturbances are caused by alien elements of the population, who are deliberately abusing one of the most valuable devices of the British electoral system. "Heckling" candidates has always been recognized here as it has never been in America. It is a recognized part of the game for the opponents of a candidate to attend his meetings and to ask awkward questions, and one of the chief qualifications of a platform orator is to know how to take these interrogations and turn them against his foe.

At Leicester Winston Churchill has proved himself especially good at repartee. He has learned to recognize some of his regular hecklers and has given them nicknames. One especially prominent Socialist he calls "Trotsky," and as soon as he sees him preparing to shout he breaks in with: "Now, then, Trotsky! Out with it! You want to know about the Dardanelles, don't you?" Taken in that way, the heckler has found himself doing far more good than harm to his opponent.

Sir Robert Horne has adopted a different line. When a Socialist at a meeting in the Hillhead Division of Glasgow began shouting vile abuse at him from a place close to the platform, the ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer leaned over the press seats and, shaking a brawny fist under the interrupter's nose, shouted at the top of his voice: "Get out of this or shut up!" The Socialist did both.

So each candidate meets his own troubles in his own way, but in certain districts the insensate violence of the extremists has reduced electioneering to a farce. No speeches can be made; house-to-house canvassing is too dangerous to be worth while, and the practice of democratic methods has become impracticable. Fortunately the constituencies are large and the number of extremists is small, so that tactics of disorder generally recoil on the heads of those who indulge in them.

YOUNG GERMAN PRINCE A SUICIDE FOR LOVE

Alexander of Schaumburg-Lippe Found in Woods at Family Castle in Austria.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—Young Prince Alexander of Schaumburg-Lippe killed himself today because he could not marry the girl he loved. This scion of one of the oldest German ruling houses was found dead with a revolver in his hand in the woods of the family castle at Mattighofen, near Salzburg, Austria, at daybreak this morning. The Prince was twenty-two.

Prince Alexander was born at Wels, Jan. 28, 1901. His mother was Elisa, Duchess of Wurttemberg, who was married at Stuttgart, May 6, 1897. The dead Prince was their third son and a second cousin of Prince Adolf, the reigning Prince, who abdicated Nov. 16, 1918, a week after the German Revolution.

3 DIE AS NAVAL PLANES MEET 1,000 FEET IN AIR

Crossed Courses at Fifty-Miles-an-Hour Speed Over San Diego Harbor.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 3—Three naval airmen were killed today when two airplanes were in collision at an altitude of about 1,000 feet at a point almost directly over the bridge between Coronado and North Island.

The dead are:

BYERS, Lieutenant F. B., 29, of Coronado.
JACKSON, WILLARD B., 26, aviation chief machinist mate, of San Diego.
ENTWISTLE, THOMAS B., aviation chief machinist mate, 28, whose widow resides at Pensacola, Fla.

Jackson and Entwistle, flying about fifty miles an hour, were nosing down preparatory to landing when Lieutenant Byers swung along the same course. The airplanes crashed together and plunged downward.

SAYS RED ARMY IS 740,000.

Dispatch to Paris Paper Declares Trotsky Deceived.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—The Moscow correspondent of a Paris newspaper says that Trotsky's recent statement that the Red Army's strength was 600,000 men was a diplomatic lie. In reality, he says, the Soviet forces number 740,000, divided as follows: Infantry, 300,000; cavalry, 60,000; artillery, 75,000; irregular formations, 150,000; marines, 25,000; guards, 50,000, and foreign troops, 70,000.

This is the first time it has ever been charged that the Soviet authorities deliberately underestimated the number of troops. At the time of the Genoa conference it was charged, on the contrary, that they overestimated it 100 per cent in order to make propositions for halving the armies of the various European countries without themselves losing a single man.

BRITISH WANT US IN GERMAN INQUIRY

threatened German depositors would transfer their accounts from national banks to State trust companies, and to deal with these legislation in each of the States would become essential.

To bring all the States into line would in itself be an impossible task, it is thought, but even if it were accomplished it would still not cut off all the lines on which German financiers could retreat. They would still have power to transfer their funds to countries less amenable to allied public opinion, and they could, moreover, hide their real ownership by a dozen different methods well known to bankers.

So Great Britain is skeptical of anything practical resulting from an attempt to discover where German private wealth is, but she is quite willing to help France in trying it as long as France will assent to any form of investigation of the present condition of German public finance.

Poincare Seeks to Satisfy Us.

PARIS, Dec. 3 (Associated Press).—Premier Poincaré, Louis Barthou, head of the Reparation Commission, and M. Delacroix, the principal Belgian member of that body, were in conference today endeavoring to prepare a satisfactory "formula" for the examination of the German situation. The effort is to find a wording which would avoid infringing the French Premier's declaration that France could not engage in an inquiry in which Germany's liabilities as previously fixed at 130,000,000,000 gold marks could be questioned, and yet would satisfy Secretary of State Hughes that the proposed investigation by experts would have ample range.

The desire of the French and Belgian Governments, it is explained, is to place the negotiations with Washington as nearly as possible in the positon they were in before the declination of the American Government to accept the French invitation upon the Inquiry. It is hoped that by carefully omitting "capacity to pay" or similar phrases Premier Poincaré will not be put in the position of appearing to abandon his declaration and that adequate assurance will still be given Secretary Hughes that the projected probing into German finances will indirectly bring out fully all the facts pertinent to Germany's paying capacity. The British and Italian Governments are still strongly desirous of reaching this result.

It is not expected in France-Belgian quarters that the formula can be immediately devised, the idea being that several exchanges of telegrams with Washington will probably be required before it is determined whether an agreement can be reached. If this question is decided in the negative, then unofficial American representation on the committees will be sought.

The State Department, it is well understood here, could not consider as official the invitation from the Reparation Commission, extended last week, which is explained as designed to sound out Washington as to the probable reception of an official invitation by the allied Governments if one be sent. The unofficial response of the Washington Government, it is stated, was in effect a desire to know more about the plan, and is asserted to leave the door ajar, so that in any event unofficial American representation could be invited.

The judgment of the French delegation on the Reparation Commission is that the presence of unofficial American representatives on the committee would be sufficient to assure the success of their inquiries. Thus it is probable that there will be no undue insistence upon the American authorities for official nominations.

The British delegation points out that the experts, in any case, would not be official representatives of their respective Governments; they would simply be eminent persons acting under the authority of the Reparation Commission, without direct official instructons or connections.

Washington Without Official Word.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The American Government, it was stated by officials today, still is without any communication from any of the European powers represented in the Reparations Commission regarding the unofficial suggestion for participation by this country in a new proposal for investigation of German financial affairs by expert committees.

Officials reiterated that as there was no proposition before this Government there was nothing for it to decide. The only advice the State Department has received regarding the new plan of the Reparation Commission for two committees of inquiry aside from press news have been informal reports from Colonel James A. Logan Jr. of the American unofficial observer with the Reparation Commission.

Officials here have indicated their desire to see a way opened by which this Government could render some assistance to Europe in an effort to reach a final and definite solution of the whole reparations problem, and it is hoped that further concessions may be made to the American attitude until a point is reached where this Government will be willing to participate in the investigation.

RUHR IS AWAKENING TO NEW ACTIVITY

Industrialists and Workers Are Seemingly Eager for Full Production.

POLITICAL AIR ALSO CLEARER

Plan of Rhineland Government by Committee May Evolve Into Definite Autonomy.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUESSELDORF, Dec. 3.—The Ruhr is returning to work. That is the sure impression gathered in a trip embracing the industrial centres and the important cities of Essen, Steele, Bochum, Gelsenkirchen, Hamborn and Muhlheim. Everywhere one finds evidence of not only a desire to return to normalcy, but a real strenuous effort to insure that return by the rapidest possible roads. No time is being wasted either by masters or men.

It is true it was once before possible to record a similar movement toward awakening the Ruhr from its slumber which lasted so many months and bring back to active life the country which was lying waste as though striken by a strange plague. That was when Berlin, two months ago, abandoned the policy of passive resistance, or at any rate made a pretense of so doing. Then, however, it was a mere spasmodic effort on the part of the men who, frightened by the announcement that the unemployment doles would cease, were anxious to make a quick beginning to earn wages. The masters had no intention of starting their plants and Berlin stood firm fully backing them in their struggle to evade paying the French.

Change In Situation.

Since then, however, the situation has changed considerably. The Separatist uprising on the one hand frightened Berlin into concessions which were unthinkable a few weeks ago, while on the other hand the Ruhr magnates were faced by an organized movement on the part of the workers to take matters into their own hands and work for the French instead of for them. The result of these developments has been the signing of a series of contracts with the French, culminating in the agreement between the Franco-Belgian régime and the German State railroads assuring a modus vivendi and facilitating transportation not only in the Ruhr and Rhineland but between the Ruhr and Rhineland and unoccupied German territory, without which a return to normalcy in the Ruhr was impossible.

Pending the re-establishment of normal traffic conditions there is every visible sign of a general return to work. The problem of making the men work longer hours has received temporary solution by an arrangement for overtime for which extra money is paid. Finally the men will probably give way or some permanent compromise will be reached, as it is unlikely that the dispute will be allowed to come to a head, which might finally retard production for a further long period.

Politically, too, the atmosphere is much clearer. The Separatist movement as it manifested itself during recent weeks is definitely dead. That Herr Matthes himself has admitted to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent. The only man of action who belonged to the provisional cabinet disappeared when Matthes left Coblenz. His opponents there are hardly expected to achieve what he could not. The movement has shown that if the Rhineland desires a large measure of self-government, it does not want to be ruled by Dr. Dorten and his supporters.

Committee of Sixty Plan.

Government by a committee of sixty, which is the Berlin plan approved by such important local leaders as Burgomaster Abenauer of Cologne and Herr Louis Hagen, head of the Cologne Chamber of Commerce—seems likely to prove the first step toward a yet more radical separation from the Reich. This may come within the next few days.

The strength of the movement lies in the fact that while possessing the approval of Berlin it also has the backing of the very men who are negotiating for a gold issue bank with High Commissioner Tirard's approval. The statutes of this bank will, it is understood on excellent authority, most likely be agreed upon between the French and Germans next Thursday at Bonn, and the new money issues within a month from then—the time necessary to order and make the paper and print the notes.

Already there is a distinct demand for something more than a mere business administration. It is openly voiced by the local press. "Rhinelanders do not want to be run like a limited liability company, their weal or woe depending on a majority of the shareholders," is the trend of these articles. The next meeting of the local Landtag, which will probably be called in Düsseldorf within the next few months, may therefore bring something fresh.

A general plebicite may, it is thought, be possibly found to be the best solution. But if that comes then the Rhineland will have to reckon with the new movement started in the Ruhr by Herr Matthews. His position may prove strong enough to enable him to form something in the nature of an extreme Left party in a democratically governed autonomous State.

Mark Up 50 Per Cent. in Occupied Areas.

COLOGNE, Dec. 3.—The most important feature of the day in the occupied territories is the rise of the mark. In the middle of last week it had reached 40,000,000,000 to the pound sterling. Today it has gone back to 20,000,000,000. This presumably is due to the measures taken by the Government in Berlin to end the output of the old paper currency.

The rentenmark is not current in occupied territories where the old mark has been worth far less even than in occupied Germany, where it has been practically worthless, so that prices have risen to most absurd levels. Dr. Adenauer, the chief Burgomaster of Cologne, showed a day or two ago that Cologne prices were at least three times as high as those in Barmen, just outside the occupied area.

Though very awkward to holders of foreign currency, recovery in the mark should help relieve the food situation.

'TAY PAY' URGES IRISH TO BACK FREE TRADE

Calls on Those Voting in Britain to Rebuke 'Attempt to Rob the Poor.'

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—T. P. O'Connor, the lone survivor of the once powerful Nationalist Party in the House of Commons, still strives to direct the Irish vote in Great Britain. He issues today, as President of the Irish Democratic League, an address to "the Irish electors of Great Britain," in which he tells them how to cast their ballots and, not uncharacteristically, is "again the Government." He reminds Irishmen that this is the first time they have had an opportunity to record their votes on a purely British issue.

"Your country," he says, "is now mistress of her own destinies; her future rests with her own people and her own electors, and she does not enter into this contest. We must therefore record our votes as residents in Great Britain and in accord with what we think are the best interests of ourselves and our fellow-citizens."

The President of the Irish Democratic League still calls for the preservation of "the Irish vote" and declares: "The first duty of our people in each constituency is to have meetings of men and women representing all sections of our people with no regard to and no recollection of past differences as to the internal politics of Ireland." Then "Tay Pay" discusses protection and free trade and on the authority of the executive of the Irish Democratic League declares absolutely for free trade.

"In my opinion," he says, "no real Irish Nationalist could have any doubt as to his choice between these two policies. By tradition and condition Irish Nationalists are in favor of liberty, and by class they belong in the main to the working masses of the people. Any one of them, therefore, who would support protection would be working against the principles, traditions and interests of his race."

So Mr. O'Connor bids Irish voters, if there be two candidates on the Irish Democratic side, to give preference to the man who is better calculated to win in the cause of free food and free institutions, and he adjures them "not merely to vote but also to work in union and in enthusiasm for the cause of the people against this last audacious and dishonest attempt to rob the poor of their bread and their liberties."

NAVY TO ORGANIZE NORTH POLE FLIGHT

Bartlett, the explorer who sailed with Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary in the steamer Roosevelt on the expedition of 1908-1909 which saw the Stars and Stripes raised over the North Pole, again to make that journey. Mr. Bartlett proposed to Secretary Denby some months ago that the Roosevelt, now in commercial service, be repurchased and equipped for Polar work.

Discussion of the possibilities of a new Polar expedition was immediately begun in the Navy Department. It was pointed out by naval aircraft experts, however, that if a new "drifting" expedition were organized by the navy, others, perhaps under another flag, might attempt and complete a journey to the Pole by air before the Roosevelt party could make half the distance. The decision to employ naval aircraft followed.

Mr. Bartlett, who is a lieutenant-commander in the Naval Reserve Force, for the purposes of the Polar expedition, has already been called to active service in that rank and appointed to the special planning board, of which he will also be recorder.

MAUD PLANE WRECKED IN FLIGHTS IN ARCTIC

Norwegian Expedition Encounters Bad Weather in Attempt to Drift Near North Pole.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Dec. 3.—Two reports have been received from Captain Wisting, in command of the Maud expedition. The Maud is now in the Arctic engaged in an attempt to drift across the polar basin. The reports, sent out by the Maud by wireless, have been received by the Spitsbergen radio station. The first report sent off at the end of June but not dated is as follows:

"From March on we have drifted slowly toward northwest and are now at 73 degrees 25 minutes north latitude and 25 degrees east longitude.

"There is not much living here now. Yet we are satisfied with the result of our hunting. The dogs are again in excellent condition, and we ourselves have had plenty of fresh meat. The Summer came suddenly. During May we had for a long time glorious but chilly weather. In the first days of June the weather changed to real Arctic Ocean weather, with zero point Celsius, on the thermometer, and a mist. This mist was very unfortunate for flying.

"In the last part of May, while the temperature was still low, we had leveled a great ice flake about one kilometer from the Maud and made our airplane ready, but then the mist came. On two tolerably clear days, June 8 and 12, trial flights were made with a good start and under good conditions for landing. It became apparent, however, that compasses were untrustworthy and that the surface of the ice, even from low heights, appeared to be so level that any orientation was very difficult.

"Under these conditions it would be unjustifiable to proceed far from the Maud, because it might be impossible to find the way back.

"Besides this there is hardly a single natural landing place in the district where we are now staying. Seen from the air, it is level enough, but in fact there is hardly one flat surface of 100 feet length. Therefore forced landings are dangerous.

"However, we determined that on the first day of fine weather we would try to get as far northeast as possible. On June 22 the weather turned out brilliant, but we found our starting places destroyed by a break in the ice close to it. We cleared a new line just beside the Maud.

"However the start was not a success. A pond of water reduced the speed just at the critical moment with the result that the machine was forced into severing the ice. The plane was partly damaged, but not so badly that it cannot be made ready for flying in some weeks. We then hope to be further north and thus be able to proceed further into the unknown districts to the northeast.

"The Maud rests safely between ice floes. All is well."

The second report, which was apparently sent out at the end of October, follows:

"Summer time in the ice has been most unfavorable. Few days have passed without our having experienced severe cold and mist. The ice has formed big irregular floes with numerous ponds.

"In these conditions flying was very difficult and was, unfortunately, entirely unsuccessful.

"At the beginning of July our airplane was repaired and ready for the new trials. July 16 brought fine weather. Our starting point was useful, but very small. The engine of the airplane ran well before the start but something went wrong immediately after the machine began ascending. If there had been more space for the airplane to get off this most probably would not have happened.

"The airplane had to land on the ice with the result that the body and one wing were badly damaged. The airman and his assistant were unhurt. The damage to the machine is too great to be repaired, therefore our plans for aerial exploration must be abandoned.

"During the Summer the drift of the Maud continued slowly northward, but the Autumn months have brought us great disappointment. On Sept. 6 our position was 76 degrees 16 minutes North latitude and 168 degrees 20 minutes East longitude, but then we met with a fierce northwest gale of long duration which in the following four weeks drove us southward, our present position being 75 degrees 10 minutes North latitude and 159 degrees 30 minutes East longitude.

"This hunting trip has been most successful, the seals generally sinking after being shot.

"Scientific observations have been retarded difficult owing to weather conditions, but on the whole have advanced fairly well. An extensive investigation of tide currents has been made, chiefly by means of the log working on a new principle. Sverdrup is of the opinion that the tide currents here are coming from the north-north east. If this theory holds there is no ground for the assumption in regard to the extensive land territory northeast of the De Long Islands.

"The Maud is lying safe at the old base."

SOVIET GIVES GRANT OF STAMP MONOPOLY

Maurice Sherman of New York Gets Sale Rights in the New World and France.

20,000 EXAMPLES INCLUDED

Among Them Are Those of the Empire as Well as the Revolutions.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Dec. 3.—One of the largest postage stamp deals on record has been concluded between the philatelic department of the Soviet Government and a New York business man, Maurice Sherman. The contract, ratified by the Council of Commissars Saturday, gives Mr. Sherman a monopoly of the sale in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Central and South America and France of all the stamps ever issued on Russian soil, amounting to upward of 20,000 different varieties.

The stamps include not only the various revolutionary or counter-revolutionary issues, but stamps of the former empire and some 5,000 varieties issued by the Zemstvos, or Provincial District councils, prior to 1885, after the manner of the Wells Fargo and other express companies in the United States in the middle of the last century.

The contract, made for three years and renewable by mutual consent, further gives Mr. Sherman monopoly for the same countries of the sale of all bank notes issued in Russian territory and all catalogues of literature dealing with stamps published here, as well as of foreign philatelic catalogues, literature and accessories in Russia.

Mr. Sherman will leave Moscow for Paris and New York within a few days with several thousand samples of stamps and banknotes which, taken jointly, give a picture of the history of the Russian dismemberment and recovered unity of Russia in the past six years.

There are stamps of Kamchatka's first revolutionary Government, which was so short lived that they were issued only for three days; stamps of the Kerensky régime surcharged with the red star of the Soviets; stamps with the Czar's head half obliterated by the Soviet hammer and sickle in grim presage of the harvest of royal heads the revolution was soon to reap.

The early Soviet issues went in for propaganda—a hand with a sword cutting the workers' chains or the Communist St. George killing the dragon of capitalism. Later came the famine series, one large oblong stamp, showing the food pouring down the Volga, and another a skeleton putting a hand on a peasant's shoulder. In the series issued to commemorate this year's exhibition appear the Fordson tractor, harvesting machines and a birdseye view of the exhibition itself, with the pavilions of the chief component countries of the Russian federation. It is notable that there are no stamps bearing the heads of Lenin or other Soviet leaders, whereby hangs a tale.

A year or two ago Lenin learned that such an issue was being prepared, and immediately ordered the dies destroyed, saying angrily:

"Do you think I am the Czar that I want my head on the stamps of the Russian republic?"

This led to the detection of several gangs of forgers flooding the European market with spurious Bolshevist stamps. The Soviet representative in Vienna a few months ago secured the conviction of eighteen persons concerned in the production and sale of a forged series bearing the heads of Lenin, Trotsky, Budyonny. The money ranges in denominations from the single ruble issued in Petrograd in the Winter of 1917 to the 10,000,000 bill current in Moscow in the early part of last year.

The series shows the fall of Russian currency to "astronomic" figures; then its slow recovery as the zeros were cut off succeeding issues up to the present "thousands," representing the old thousand million, and finally the 10-ruble chervonets, whose gold value has been maintained above sterling for the last six months.

Established primarily to aid destitute children, who receive a large proportion of the profits, the Soviet Philatelic Association has lately received thousands of letters from stamp collectors abroad to promote relations with whom it has opened large officesand showrooms in the centre of Moscow. The sale and exchange of stamps and literature with private foreign collectors on a small scale are not excluded by the monopoly given Mr. Sherman.

Maurice Sherman, representing an American fur concern in Moscow, last February made a contract with the Foreign Trade Monopoly Bureau to buy $1,000,000 worth of furs in the open market and agreed to pay the bureau upwards of $750,000, which included export duties. He has never engaged in the stamp business, so far as could be learned last night.

CAPETOWN, Dec. 3.—General Smuts returned home this morning and left immediately for Pretoria. He was very well satisfied with the result of the imperial conference, and admitted his speech at the South African dinner was considered the view of the conference and embodied the policy on which he had concentrated. "I had made up my mind Europe was drifting into a desperate position," he said, "and that a great effort must be made to influence American opinion."

OTTO H. KAHN URGES PROPOSED TAX CUTS

Present System Is a War Measure Not Fitted to Survive, He Says.

SEES HARM TO THE NATION

Irving T. Bush and Professor Kemmerer of Princeton Take Same View at Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Three experts in finance tonight gave approval to the Mellon tax reduction plan in addresses at the Academy of Music before the Philadelphia Forum. They were Otto H. Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Irving T. Bush, President of the Bush Terminal Company, and Dr. E. W. Kemmerer, Professor of Finance at Princeton University.

Each speaker declared that a cut in the tax on large incomes is necessary if capital is to be sent back into channels which will insure the development of the nation's resources.

Mr. Kahn spoke as a financier who daily is called upon to decide whether funds available for investment will go into business ventures where their profits will be subject to tax or into tax-exempted securities.

Mr. Bush spoke as the head of a vast business institution which must compete for capital with securities free from taxation, and Professor Kemmerer as one who has devoted his life to the study of financial problems and has acted as financial adviser to Governments throughout the world.

Mr. Bush, who followed Mr. Kahn, declared the income tax had made business men chary because, "if I lose, I lose all; if I win, the Government takes half."

"The tax drives courageous money out of business," he said. "We have gradually been working toward a system which would take from capitalists a just share of the expense of Government. But Government should not take enough to kill ambition.

"Industry will gladly and willingly pay a 25 per cent. surtax under the Mellon plan, but a 50 per cent. tax, now in effect for some incomes, means destruction."

Professor Kemmerer said the present tax system accomplished one proper purpose in that it gained adequate revenue, but its burden, he said, was distributed unjustly.

"A tax which appears to a considerable portion of the public as highly inequitable becomes increasingly difficult to enforce, and when it is enforced it becomes increasingly inequitable. Thus, the men who pay it are placed at greater disadvantage when compared with the men who do not."

Mr. Kahn said, in part:

"Our existing taxation system was adopted in the urgency and the stress of war. It is not more fitted to be perpetuated in times of peace than any other war measure. It has caused, and is causing, much harm to the nation. It is gravely faulty, and the effects of faulty taxation are all-pervasive, even though the true cause for such effects is not always plainly apparent to the superficial view.

"If taxation has become—as indeed it now is—one of our major problems and a matter of universal complaint, the reason is to be found far less in the increased revenue requirements arising from the war than in the stubborn adherence since 1917 to ill-judged methods of taxation. * * *

"If the argument for a reduction of surtax rates is to succeed, it must be based not upon the plea of consideration for the rich, but upon proof that the existing schedule results in harm to the country as a whole.

"That proof has been given repeatedly. So far as I know, it has never been contested by serious arguments. A Democratic President and a Republican President, three Democratic and one Republican Secretary of the Treasury have advocated an adequate reduction of our surtaxes and have given uncontrovertible reasons for that recommendation.

"Only prejudices so reckless and stubborn as to run counter to the very interests it seeks or professes to aid can any longer stand in the way of an adequate reduction of the surtaxes in the face of the experience obtained through the test of the past six years.

"The observations which I have submitted in respect to extreme surtaxes hold good equally in respect to unduly high inheritance taxes. I am convinced that progressive inheritance taxation ought to, and will, continue as a permanent feature of our fiscal policy, but, as in the case of surtaxes, the rule of reason and moderation must be applied in determining the limit to which such taxation can be imposed without defeating its own productivity and causing serious harm to the community at large.

"Just as the purpose of punishment is to deter, so the purpose of reward is to stimulate. The community must stimulate men, and especially men of productive ability, to work to the full measure of the capacities they possess. * * *

"It is a well-known fact that one of the most powerful inducements for men to work and save is the thought of those whom they will leave behind, and the desire for the perpetuation of that which they have built up.

"The whole science of taxation is condensed, applied and exemplified in the few hundred words of Secretary Mellon's letter to Congressman Green. It is the emanation of a clear brain, a straightforward character, and a trained business mind. It is the conclusion of a man who has behind him a highly honorable and eminently successful business career, who has come to a stage where self-interest has ceased to be even a temptation, who is utterly free from consideration of politics; in short, who has no axes whatever to grind and who calmly, wisely, truthfully and courageously fulfills the tasks and duties of his high office in the service of the American people.

"What the politicians will do with his tax revision proposals I do not know. That the adoption of these proposals, amended perhaps in a few minor respects, would confer an immense boon upon all the people and usher in a great era of enterprise, progress and prosperity all along the line, I have not the slightest doubt."

FLOOD OF BILLS OFFERED.

Hundreds of New and Old Measures Introduced in House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The deadlock in the House over the Speakership did not deter members, both old and new, from dumping hundreds of bills into the legislative hopper today. The measures must remain there, however, until the House is organized and their reference to committees is possible.

Several of the bills embodied new ideas in legislation, but a majority were revivals of proposals which failed to receive attention in the last Congress. In the latter class were the Anti-Lynching bill of Representative Dyer of Missouri, the "Blue Sky" bill of Representative Denison of Illinois and various proposals for a soldiers' bonus, including that of Representative Hill of Maryland, to finance the payment with a tax on light wines and beer.

Representative Treadway of Massachusetts offered a measure for the establishment in the Interstate Commerce Commission of an anthracite bureau, at which all persons engaged in the industry would be required to register and there authority over shipments of cars and quality of anthracite entering into interstate commerce would rest.

Several bills dealt with immigration. Chief among these was that of Chairman Johnson of the Immigration Committee, for a tightening of restrictions. He also proposed that aliens convicted of violating the narcotic and prohibition laws be deported. Representative Griffin of New York proposed admission of all aliens now detained at American ports because of the exhaustion of their nations' quotas, providing they were otherwise eligible.

Representative Thacher of Kansas put in the bill to abolish the Railroad Labor Board.

FORD SEES COOLIDGE ON MUSCLE SHOALS

Appears Pleased Over Talk With the President, but Won't Revise Bid.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Henry Ford called on President Coolidge at the White House today in connection with the Muscle Shoals project and later conferred with Secretary of War Weeks. Upon leaving the White House Mr. Ford found his way blockaded by a battery of news photographers and movie men, who demanded that he pose.

"You fellows are a darned nuisance," said Mr. Ford, who was in a hurry to step over to the War Department to see Mr. Weeks.

"So are your flivvers, Mr. Ford," retorted one of the photographers, and Mr. Ford surrendered and posed.

His original offer for the big Alabama power project still stands, Mr. Ford let it be known. He has no intention of revising that offer nor of making a new one. This offer was for $5,000,000, but because he wanted a ninety-nine-year lease and because he would not specifically guarantee to manufacture fertilizer, Secretary Weeks submitted the offer to Congress without endorsement.

The President, it is understood, outlined to Mr. Ford the details of the plan conceived by Representative Martin B. Madden of Illinois for making the property more attractive to the Ford interests through the reproduction of the Gorgas plant, recently sold to the Alabama Power Company, together with a new transmission line to the upper dams and steam plants.

Mr. Ford was apparently well pleased with his audience with the President. The President previously had placed himself on record as favoring development of Muscle Sheals for the purpose of manufacturing nitrates, even going so far as to advocate Government operation at a loss should the efforts to sell to Mr. Ford be unsuccessful.

Mr. Ford was extremely reticent regarding the reports that he would run for the Presidency. Asked for a statement, he replied:

"That would be funny, wouldn't it!"

Mr. Ford will appear before the Interstate Commerce Commission at two hearings. Tomorrow he will express his views on the proposed railroad consolidations as they affect his road, the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, and he also will testify at the assigned car hearings.

Accompanying Mr. Ford to the White House were E. B. Mayo, one of the Ford engineers interested in Muscle Shoals; C. B. Longley, one of his lawyers, and E. G. Liebold, his secretary.

DEMOCRATIC SENATORS POSTPONE OPEN FIGHT

Caucus Decides to Leave Initiation of Legislation to the Republicans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The Democratic minority in the Senate will for the time being leave to the Republicans the initiative respecting details of legislation. At the same time the Democrats will take advantage of every opportunity to support a substantial reduction in taxes and a material reduction in Government expenditures.

This was the program agreed on by the Senate Democrats in caucus this morning. The caucus was entirely harmonious and was addressed by each of the new Democratic Senators—Copeland of New York, Edwards of New Jersey, Bruce of Maryland, Neely of West Virginia, Ralston of Indiana, Ferris of Ohio, Wheeler of Montana, Dill of Washington, Adams of Colorado, Mayfield of Texas and Stephens of Mississippi.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas was unanimously elected floor leader to succeed Senator Underwood of Alabama, Senator Gerry of Rhode Island was re-elected whip and Senator Walsh of Montana is the new Chairman of the Conference Committee.

The new minority committee assignments probably will be announced tomorrow. Three of the new Democratic members of the Committee on Foreign Relations are expected to be Underwood, Robinson and Walsh of Montana. Senator Ralston may be one of the fourth Democrats assigned to that committee.

Senator Harrison of Mississippi probably will succeed his former colleague, John Sharp Williams, as a member of the Finance Committee.

"The action of the Democratic caucus today," said Senator Robinson, "was confined to matters relating to organization. While we are not prepared, and do not propose at this time, to assume the responsibility which devolves upon the majority to take the initiative respecting the details of legislation, it is expected that our organization will stand for a material reduction in taxes and for aggressive measures to effectuate retrenchment in public expenditures.

"The transportation question, particularly as it relates to freight rates and the standardization of cars and parts, including a better system of interchange in the use of the same, is worthy of careful study and decisive action. Practical and well considered measures for the relief of conditions among farmers will receive sympathetic attention.

"Proposals advanced for the adjustment of international conditions, for disarmament and the promotion of world peace, especially as the same relate to the interest and safety of the United States, are to be disposed of without partisanship.

"The message of the President to the Congress is expected to indicate in some detail the subjects upon which the Administration invites legislative action."

The Democrats will make no move to tie up the Senate organization. Following the address of the President they will move the election of a new President pro tem., but this will be only a formality as the program now stands. Senator Key Pittman of Nevada was the caucus choice for the office.

RADICALS RETRACT CHARGE.

Apologize for Attack on Publisher of Washington Star.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—In a recent statement the Radical-Progressive group in the House attacked the proprietors of two Washington newspapers as favoring the Mellon plan because of their financial interests. Representative Nelson gave out tonight a copy of a letter which he had sent to Frank B. Noyes, editor of The Washington Star, in which he says:

"On behalf of the Executive Committee I wish to express to you our profound regret that we erroneously included The Star and its publisher in the statement, and I herewith tender you the sincere apology of the Executive Committee for the mistake."

OTHER FIGHTS FOR SPEAKER

Two Precedents Cited for Present Situation in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The situation developed today in the House by the speakership row has two precedents. The first was in the thirty-sixth Congress, the House taking fifty-four ballots between Dec. 3, 1859, and Feb. 1, 1860, before the deadlock was broken.

The second was in the Fifty-second Congress, which convened in 1891. The House failed to organize on the first day, but elected a Speaker on the second day of its session.

Probably the most spectacular fight in Congress waged in the House was that in 1910, which resulted in the shearing of many powers from Speaker Cannon.

ENGINEERS SUPPORT MELLON ON TAX CUT

Council of Mechanical Society, Speaking for 20,000, Solidly Favors Plan.

TO PRESS CONGRESS TO ACT

Rhode Islander Wins Medal for Developing Rules for Fire Prevention.

Secretary Mellon's tax reduction plan was endorsed yesterday by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, by unanimous vote of its council, at the opening of the society's annual meeting in the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street. The council, composed of leaders in engineering, industrial activities and education, is the governing body of the society, which has a total membership of 20,000.

General approval of the council's action was voiced by members attending the meeting, of whom about 3,000 were in the city yesterday. Every member will be asked to request his representatives in Congress to support the proposed cut in taxes.

A formal resolution, introduced by W. S. Finlay Jr., Vice President of the American Water Works and Electric Company, said the council "heartily endorses and strongly urges upon Congress the amendment to the Internal Revenue act proposed by Secretary Mellon in his letter to the Acting Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, dated Nov. 10, 1923, and, in particular, recommendation 1, in which it is proposed to make a 25 per cent. reduction in the tax on earned income."

Mr. Finlay and John L. Harrington of Kansas City, Mo., were among those who urged affirmative action as a national duty.

The meeting, which is being held coincident with the Power Show at the Grand Central Palace, will cover a wide range of engineering subjects, including hydro-electric development, reforestation, ordinance and industrial preparedness for war, management, education, textiles, aeronautics, water measurement and steam power.

In an address last night Mr. Harrington, the President, declared that America must look to the engineer to allay unrest among the workers. False social ideals and dominance of the military and legal professions, he declared, have retarded political development. "The engineer, with his constructive, creative, scientific mind, is sorely needed," he said.

The society's medal for notable invention or striking improvement in connection with industries was awarded to John R. Freeman of Providence, R. I., "for eminent service in engineering and manufacturing in fire prevention and the preservation of property." Mr. Freeman's development of a system of rules and inspection have saved industry millions of dollars, it was said. Another medal was awarded to Frederick A. Halsey of this city for a treatise on "The Premium System of Wage Payments."

Endorsing the Mellon plan, Mr. Finlay said:

"Even if Congress finally decides to compromise between the bonus and tax revision, if sufficient pressure is brought to bear by income earners, the reduction of the tax on earned incomes will be retained, notwithstanding that all other recommendations of the Secretary of the Treasury be sacrificed in the effort to provide some form of bonus."

The society will hold a joint session today with the Society of Refrigerating Engineers. There will also be sessions on power test codes and a report of a special research committee on fluid meters.

LUXOR, Egypt, Dec. 3.—No work was done today in the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen, the morning being taken up with the showing around of a party of four journalists, representing British and American newspapers. It has been arranged that there shall be a press view every fortnight, and today's was the first.

As mentioned yesterday, it has been found impossible, unfortunately, to complete the demolition of the partition, so the wooden screen covering the gilt and faience shrines had to be left in position. The party, therefore, could only be admitted to the ante-chamber, which is still encumbered with débris and tools, and all that were to be seen were the remains of the partially demolished wall with the wooden screen behind it and the tray containing the plaster paintings saved from the inner surface. This painting, it may be added, is exceedingly crude and has no artistic value.

Tomorrow there will be no work in the tomb and the demolition of the wall will not be resumed until Wednesday.

Wholesale Beef Costs Drop 30 Per Cent.—Profiteer Police Precipitate Reductions.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—The first drops in prices today thrilled residents of Berlin. Wholesale beef prices declined 30 per cent. Retail meat and vegetables likewise are cheaper today.

The drop was precipitated by the action of the profiteer section of police headquarters, which reasoned with the dealers' associations, threatening sharper action. Among the police orders was one that dealers must give a rebate when payment was tendered to them in fixed value money. Today's declines in prices merely represented the topping off of the paper mark depreciation as a risk factor in dealer's calculations. The basic goldmark prices are still considered excessively high.

Meat today could be bought at from 50 to 75 cents; margarine at 25 cents; apples, 25 cents a pound, and eggs at from 7½ to 10 cents a piece. Ten to 12 per cent. reductions are promised by authorities all along the line.

The German People's Party introduced an interpellation in the Reichstag regarding conditions in the food market and the calculations on gold prices.

RADICALS FORCE DEADLOCK IN HOUSE

intimation by Mr. Nelson that "something will happen at the right time," although he declined to interpret this remark.

Insurgents Hold the Reins.

If the insurgents hold their seventeen votes—and there is no doubt that they will—they can do whatever they want so far as House organization goes, for Mr. Gillett must get a majority of the quorum present to gain re-election. The Wisconsin-Minnesota men are bound fast and hard together, and they say they can swing most of the five men who voted for Mr. Madden to their ranks. This probably is true. Mr. Woodruff is the secretary of the Nelson bloc, and Mr. Michaelson and Mr. Reid are said to have strong sympathies with it.

Definitely, what Mr. Nelson wants is an assurance from a responsible Republican leader, presumably Mr. Longworth, that if the election of Mr. Gillett is allowed, probably through the radicals voting "present," Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, coming Chairman of the Rules Committee, will not squelch all chance to amend the rules.

In the ordinary course of events, Mr. Snell would rise and move that the rules of the old Congress be adopted and move the previous question, meaning that no discussion would be allowed. Mr. Nelson does not want the previous question moved, for he fears that if this is done the House will approve it at once.

Representative Woodruff of the Nelson camp said tonight he had asked Mr. Longworth to grant a request not to move this "previous question," but had received no satisfactory reply. Mr. Woodruff also that Mr. Snell told Mr. LaGuardia the previous question would be moved as usual and if any request for rule revision were made it should go to the standing Committee on Rules. This did not satisfy Mr. LaGuardia, for the request would go to a committee acting under the strict rules against which the Radicals protest.

Not a Fight on Gillett.

Mr. Nelson said again this afternoon that the fight by his group on Mr. Gillett was in no way personal, but that, as the Radicals had practically abandoned their demands for greater committee representation, it was more urgent than ever that the rules be loosened.

"We don't want anything that a majority of the House don't want," interjected Mr. Woodruff. "All we want is a chance for these reforms to be voted on. Granting that request would solve the whole matter."

In connection with their insistence on rule revision, the Nelson bloc desires either a special or a continuous committee appointed to work over the present House system. Mr. Nelson said the Democrats were cold to any talk with them in the proposition to remove "gag" procedure.

With a wave of his hand the insurgent chief dismissed Mr. Longworth's intimation that the country would hold the Radicals guilty of preventing organization.

"We are not trying to hold up anything; as soon as this is settled there will not be any holding up," he declared.

Radical-Progressive Issue Statement.

The following statement by Representative Nelson, leader of the Radical-Progressives, was approved at a meeting of his group held tonight:

"The Republican leader, Mr. Longworth, is quoted in an evening newspaper as saying that the balloting would proceed Tuesday under the regular order and the Progressive bloc as such would not be recognized, but that of course the party leaders would deal with individual members just as they would with any other Republicans.

"I have further been informed that Mr. Longworth told members of the press that he had no idea what the Progressives wanted.

"He must have overlooked or been unaware of the fact that Roy O. Woodruff of Michigan is a member of the liaison committee appointed by the Progressives and authorized by us to confer with him, and that Mr. Woodruff did inform him that what we desire is an opportunity to debate the rules without any intervening motion that would cut off all chance for submitting proposed changes to the House for consideration and for a record vote thereon.

"It is well known in the House that the rules need amendment, and if the Republican floor leader continues to refuse to discuss the revision of the rules with us and to give us an assurance that we will have a chance to offer amendments to the rules for discussion and a record vote, without being shut off by some move, the balloting will continue under the regular order and will continue indefinitely because this is not only a matter of principle upon which we cannot surrender, but is vital to the enactment of greatly needed constructive legislation."

At the same meeting at which the Nelson statement was approved the insurgents talked over the House situation, but said afterward there were no developments, and that "if anything happened it would be tomorrow. They had no overtures that had been made to them by the Old Guard Representatives, nor had they made any approaches to the regulars.

Candidates Put in Nomination.

When the House members met today to try to organize 417 responded to the roll call, including the one woman member, Mrs. Nolan of California. After the roll call Sidney Anderson of Minnesota nominated Mr. Gillett in a few words, while Republicans stood and applauded the Speaker heartily. The nomination of Mr. Garrett was made by Henry T. Rainey of Illinois.

The next nomination was that of Mr. Cooper by Edward E. Browne of Wisconsin. Mr. Browne made an extended speech, saying that if Mr. Cooper were nominated he would stand for rule revision, that the present system was hidebound and much of the work was done in secret, affording no real chance for the House to pass upon it.

"Mr. Cooper may not be elected, but we nominate him as a protest against the rules," said Mr. Browne.

The nomination of Martin Madden was on the initiative of Frank R. Reid of Illinois, the latter said, and he had barely finished speaking when Mr. Madden told the House he was not a candidate.

Although the voting began before 1 o'clock it was almost 3 o'clock when Mr. Longworth rose and said he regretted that the House's hands were so tied it could not even adjourn out of respect to its dead colleagues. In lieu of this formal motion, he moved informally to adjourn until tomorrow.

Fifteen members of the House were absent today, including six Republicans—Christopherson, Johnson and Williamson of South Dakota; Mudd of Maryland, Westwood of Vermont and Thompson of Ohio—and nine Democrats—Gallivan of Massachusetts, Hudspeth and Williams of Texas, Park and Wise of Georgia, Johnson of Kentucky, O'Brien of New Jersey, Mead of New York and McDuffie of Alabama.

Everybody Happy in the Senate.

The first session of the Senate reminded one of the first day of a country school. Everybody was happy.

Senators Ferris of Michigan and Ralston of Indiana were the first of the newcomers to appear. Everybody noted the striking resemblance of the Indiana Senator to Grover Cleveland. Magnus Johnson, in a new suit and spotless linen, slipped quietly into the chamber, and was followed by Lodge and Watson of the Republican Old Guard. Mayfield from Texas also was an early arrival.

Then in quick succession appeared Underwood, who received a warm welcome from both sides of the aisle; Reed of Missouri; Pat Harrison, "the troublemaker," as President Harding once called him; Wheeler, the Democratic Radical from Montana; Hiram Johnson, who looked his candidacy; Pepper, Moses, Norman, Simmons, Warren, the last of the Civil War veterans; Borah, who led Mr. Gore, the blind ex-Senator from Oklahoma; Glass, McLean, Wadsworth, Brandegee and all the others save Senators La Follette, Caraway, Sterling and Norbeck. Mr. La Follette was reported too ill to be present, while the three others did not arrive in time for the opening.

As the minute hand of the new electrically controlled clock pointed to noon Senator Cummins rapped for order. Dr. Muir, the Chaplain, offered a short prayer, in which he alluded to the deaths of President Harding and Senators Nelson, Dillingham and Nicholson.

Then followed the introduction and passage of the formal resolutions providing for notification of the President and the fixing of noon as the convening hour.

The new Senators and the old members who were re-elected in 1922 were sworn in in alphabetical order, and after them Magnus Johnson, Mr. Dale of Vermont and Mr. Adams of Colorado, who were elected or appointed to fill vacancies caused by the deaths of Senators Nelson, Dillingham and Nicholson, subscribed to the oath.

The entire session lasted just forty-five minutes. The adjournment was out of respect to the memory of the late Senators from Minnesota, Colorado and Vermont.

MARX FACES CRISIS IN REICHSTAG TODAY

Opposition to Demand for Dictatorial Powers Involving the Constitution.

MAY SUPPRESS VORWAERTS

Socialist Organ Refuses to Comply With Order to Divulge Source of Military Information.

By CYRIL BROWN.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—Germany is in the throes of a new political crisis. The Marx Cabinet, after four days of existence, is in Parliamentary hot water and dissolution of the Reichstag and new elections are once more predicted as the only solution.

The crisis was precipitated today by study of the text of the bill to be submitted to the Reichstag tomorrow conferring dictatorial powers on the Cabinet which contains this: "A departure from the provisions of the Constitution is not permissible," thus making it appear that the exercise of dictatorial powers would be constitutional.

If the Cabinet's interpretation had been accepted only a simple majority would have been required for passage. But the clause is held to involve alteration of the Constitution, and constitutional amendments necessitate a two-thirds majority, and furthermore two-thirds of the Reichstag membership must be present. Reichstag President Loebe, a Social Democrat, today came out with interpretation that the Marx measure constituted a constitutional amendment. The Social Democratic faction can kill it off singlehanded. Political circles tonight count upon the measure being beaten.

It is not thought that in this event Chancellor Marx will draw the usual parliamentary consequences and resign. It is believed that before accepting the Chancellorship he obtained from President Ebert as a condition for acceptance a promise of being empowered to dissolve the Reichstag should that body balk at passing the dictatorial power emergency measure.

The next move is up to the Socialists and it is hard for observers to see how they can practice either tacit support or desistence from opposition to the bourgeois coalition. Their position has been made more difficult by several factors. First is the Government's intention to extend the eight-hour day to fifty-four hours weekly for State officials, employes and workers.

Secondly is a peremptory letter sent by General von Seeckt to the Socialist Democratic organ Vorwaerts demanding that it furnish the sources of the information about the Reichswehr it recently printed and threatening to exert his dictator's powers in the eventuality of non-compliance by tonight. Vorwaerts has answered that discloding news sources is contrary to journalistic ethics and suppression of the Socialist organ is practically certain.

Thirdly, Saxony's Social Democrats convening in Dresden have roundly denounced the Federal Government.

COPELAND MAY JOIN IN TRIBUTE TO BRYAN

Tammany Stirred by Report That Senator Will Preside at Dinner.

SEE A SLAP AT SMITH IN IT

The Function Is Not Sure to Be Held, However—Commoner Speaks in Brooklyn.

Tammany politicians were stirred yesterday by a report that United States Senator Royal S. Copeland was to preside at a dinner to be given for William J. Bryan at the Hotel Commodore on Dec. 11. It seemed strange to them that Senator Copeland, elected with Governor Smith on a "wet" ticket, should take a stand against what was termed the best interests of the Governor by presiding at a dinner given to the Governor's bitter enemy.

It was explained last night, however, that the announcement of the dinner was premature. A number of Mr. Bryan's friends in New York City discussed some time ago the feasibility of giving him a dinner or a reception. These friends formed a committee and broached the matter to Mr. Bryan last night when he passed through the city. Mr. Bryan was agreeable to a function of any sort in his honor, but asked that it be held after the holiday, some time in January. Mr. Bryan said last night that he would be glad to meet the committee then.

A member of the committee explained last night that no attempt was being made to inject politics into the affair, and that if the dinner—if it takes that form—would be merely a tribute to Bryan by his numerous friends in the city. They said it had not been determined whether Senator Copeland would preside. Some one else, they said, might be selected. In any event, it is expected that the Senator will be present as an admirer of Bryan. He is a member of the committee making the arrangements. Others on the committee are George Gordon Battle, Earl Harding, John W. Hughes, Robert Adamson and Robert F. Woolley.

Mr. Bryan spoke last night on "The World's Greatest Need" at the Forum of the Brooklyn Jewish Centre, 667 Eastern Parkway, and said that the revenue, industrial, law enforcement, profiteering and war questions were the five great problems now before the National Administration. He entered the hall wearing a skull cap and was enthusiastically greeted by the 2,000 persons present.

BRYAN SEEKS UNION WITH THE RADICALS

Urges Democrats to Join Insurgent Republicans for Control of the House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—William J. Bryan, who was here today trying to influence the Democratic Party's course as to organization of the House, declared in favor of joining forces with the Radical Republicans and electing a Radical Speaker.

Mr. Bryan said such a combination should be perfected, and the Progressives of both parties should take charge of committees and enact progressive legislation. Such an outcome, in his opinion, would lead to the certain election of a Democrat as President.

"I am expecting this Congress to decide the election next year," said Mr. Bryan. "It will without doubt shape the issues, and as issues determine candidates, it is likely to determine the candidates for President. The tide is running in favor of the Democratic Party, as was shown by the increased number of Democrats elected to this Congress and the strength of the Progressive Republican vote. These two elements are nearer together than the Progressive Republicans are to the reactionary Republicans or the Progressive Democrats to the reactionary Republicans.

"I believe that the Progressive Democrats and the Progressive Republicans ought to organize both Houses, take control of committees and proceed to enact remedial legislation. A majority of the voters are Progressive and a majority in each House is Progressive. Why should not a Progressive majority carry out its wishes as to Progressive legislation?

"The desirable thing from the Democratic standpoint would be for the Progressive Republicans to support the candidates of the Progressive Democrats for officers of Congress, because they outnumber the Progressive Republicans. But this may not be possible, because the Progressive Republicans may feel that support of Democratic candidates would weaken their fight against reactionary Republicans. The Democrats, being in the minority and being unable to control either house by themselves, can better afford to support Progressive Republican candidates for Speaker and President pro tempore of the Senate than to compel a union of Progressive Republicans and reactionary Republicans.

"If the Progressive Republicans cannot form a combination with the Democrats they will be compelled to form it with Republicans of the reactionary wing, and such a combination will weaken the Democratic Party in the next campaign, while a combination between the Democrats and Progressive Republicans will divide the Republican Party and increase the Progressive element in the party. It is to the Progressive element in the Republican Party that the Democrats must look for votes. The Democratic Party cannot expect to get votes from the reactionary side without taking a position so revolting as to drive more Democrats away than it can win Republicans."

"Do you favor Secretary Mellon's tax recommendations?" Mr. Bryan was asked.

"I notice the Democrats and Progressive Republicans have a tax program very similar," he replied. "Both programs include re-enactment of the excess profits tax, the most just tax there is. I hope by a combination they can restore this tax. The excess profits tax is not only the easiest tax paid, because paid out by men who "profiteer" and ought not to have these profits at all. While it penalizes the profiteer, it gives some protection to the public. It is not only protection the public ought to have, but it is a step in the right direction. If the Progressive Democrats and Progressive Republicans can agree upon a program that restores excess profits, it will raise the most acute issue for the session."

Mr. Bryan said he was opposed to reduction of the high surtaxes, and he believed both a cut in taxes and the soldiers' bonus could be accomplished.

"I am for the bonus," he declared, "and I would like to see it paid by a tax on the profits made during the war. It is only fair that those who grew rich out of war should pay the boys who made the sacrifices. Such a tax is legal and can be collected. I am opposed to a sales tax because it is a consumption tax."

Van Zile Joins Johnson Forces.

Arthur B. Murtha, President of the Hiram Johnson-for-President Club, announced yesterday that Edward S. Van Zile will be in charge of the Eastern publicity for Senator Johnson at the Johnson headquarters in the Knickerbocker Building, Forty-second Street and Broadway. Mr. Van Zile was associated with the Leonard Wood preconvention campaign in 1920 and later with the Harding campaign in the same year.

"FIRED"!

"The Viewpoint of the Employee Is the Most Neglected Asset in Industry."

THIS man has just been "fired" from your plant. You may not know the reason. You may not know the man. You may not know, even, that he has been discharged.

BUT—he may be one of your most valuable employees. As he stalks out your factory gate he takes with him a considerable share of your rightful profits. The wages paid him while he was "green"—the money you would have received from his skill; all this becomes an irretrievable loss the moment he is "fired." And these cuts in your profits are multiplied by perhaps scores of similar dismissals each year.

Maybe this man was "fired" because he misunderstood himself and his job. Perhaps you must suffer this loss because a foreman misunderstood him. Whatever the reason, we can engage to correct this and similar conditions that are causing losses of one-fourth the payroll in even supposedly well-managed plants, with serious damage to employer and employee.

Executives, everywhere, have evidenced unusual interest in our booklet, "Stopping Payroll Losses." We will be glad to send any executive a copy, gratis. Simply write us on your business stationery. Please address Dept. L 11.

PLAN MASS MEETING TO PROTECT PARKS

Individuals and Civic Organizations Consider United Action.

LEADERS ARE TO CONFER

George Gordon Battle Says He Is Greatly Disturbed at Threatened Invasions.

A mass meeting to protest against what is termed "a new wave of attacks against the integrity of the parks" is being considered by individuals and organizations interested in the protection of the parks against encroachments. The proposals recently made include cutting up Central Park for the construction of the Washington Heights extension of the B. M. T. subway, taking four and one-half acres of the park for a music and art centre, cutting a strip off the southern edge of the park to build a mall, building a memorial structure on the site of the lower reservoir and moving the city radio station into Central Park.

Leaders in the fight, including officers of the civic organizations interested, are expected to confer on the mass meeting suggestion next week. Immediate action is prevented by the necessity of meetings of the different organizations before any concerted plan can be adopted.

George Gordon Battle, President of the Parks and Playgrounds Association, has called a meeting of his association for Saturday to take action on the proposal for the music and art centre. The plan has been offered by the Mayor's Advisory Committee, of which City Chamberlain Philip Berolsheimer and Joseph Haag, assistant to the Mayor, are the members. The committee is preparing a report to the Board of Estimate asking that four and one-half acres of Central Park at the south end be given as a site for the music and art centre.

The New York Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects is also planning to meet late this week or next to take action on a report which is being prepared by the society's Committee on Parks on the Berolsheimer-Haag project. Other organizations which are making a study of the project are the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association and the Women's League for the Protection of Riverside Park.

Mr. Battle said yesterday that he was "greatly disturbed" at the recent series of threatened invasions. He said that a study would be made of the latest plan to build a radio broadcasting station in Central Park. Application for permission to build the radio station on top of the workshops at Eighty-sixth Street has been made to Park Commissioner Frank D. Gallatin by Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures.

AUTOS KILL TWO CHILDREN.

Girl Run Down on Way From School and a Baby in Front of Home.

Marie Cicchelsi, 11 years old, of 400 East Forty-seventh Street, was returning to her home from school yesterday afternoon when she was killed by an automobile at First Avenue and Forty-seventh Street. Angelo Perno, 23 years old, of 95 Orchard Street, Orange, N. J., driver of the automobile, later was held in $2,500 bail for examination on Dec. 6 when arraigned before Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb in the Homicide Court.

At about the same time John Taupruskawilski, 3 years old, was run over and killed by an automobile in front of his home at 135 Twentieth Street, Brooklyn. The car was being operated by Arthur Sliter of 125 Noll Street, Brooklyn. He was held to be blameless for the accident by the police.

A man believed to be J. Overdoode received a fracture of the skull shortly after dawn when he was knocked down by an unidentified taxicab at Eighth Avenue and Fifteenth Street. He was removed to Bellevue Hospital, where it was reported last night that his condition was critical. Witnesses told the police that the driver increased speed after the accident. The name Overdoode was found by the police on a card in the victim's pocket.

Magistrate Norman J. Marsh made public figures in the Traffic Court yesterday showing that 1,014 out of 4,763 cases arraigned in that court in November were based on speeding charges against first offenders. The figures also revealed that 73 second offenders and 9 third offenders were arraigned and that 34 persons were convicted of operating cars while under the influence of intoxicants, an increase over preceding months. One hundred and five persons were sent to jail for terms ranging from two to sixty days for infractions of the traffic regulations and 681 taxicab chauffers were convicted of various offenses. Three drivers' licenses were revoked. The total in fines collected by the court in the month was $33,227.

P. A. S. FRANKLIN RETURNS.

He Is Very Pessimistic Over the Shipping Outlook Abroad.

P. A. S. Franklin, President of the International Mercantile Marine Company, returned yesterday on the White Star liner Baltic from a six weeks' business trip to England. He appeared to be in the best of health, but was very pessimistic over the shipping outlook in Europe.

Mr. Franklin said there was nothing new regarding the offer made by the International Mercantile Marine Company to the United States Shipping Board for the charter of the steamships President Roosevelt and President Harding. Mr. Franklin visited Belfast and inspected the new Atlantic transport liner Minnetonka, which will be ready to enter the New York-London service next May with her sister ship, the Minnewaska. Another passenger on the Baltic was 6-year-old Donald Alexander Thomas, who traveled alone from Liverpool to join his mother, Mrs. Mary J. Thomas of 175 Locust Avenue, Rye, N. Y., who met him at the pier.

On the Baltic were 700 prize canaries from Norfolk and Yorkshire, England, which were valued at $4,500. The birds got seasick and so low in spirits it was necessary to feed them bread sop sprinkled with cayenne pepper to cheer them up, their attendant said.

The liner also brought 100 selected pheasants for various game preserves in America.

EX-SOLDIER KILLED AS A HOLD-UP MAN

He Was One of Six in Taxi Who Had Tried to Cut Off Truck After Row With Driver.

POLICEMAN FIRED THE SHOT

Thought It Was a Robbery—Two of Party That Had Been at a Wedding Held.

Harry A. Crabtree, 26 years old, of 456 West Eighteenth Street, a chauffeur and World War veteran, was shot and killed by Patrolman Michael Topf of the West Thirtieth Street Station, early yesterday morning, in the belief that he was a hold-up man. Topf learned soon afterward that Crabtree was one of a taxi party of six men, who, after taking four pints of milk from a milk wagon, had an altercation with the driver of a motor truck.

Three of Crabtree's companions escaped. The others were arrested. They were John Joyce, 26 years old, of 554 West Eighteenth Street, a chauffeur, and Charles Monahan, 25 years old, of 426 West Nineteenth Street, a chauffeur. Magistrate Corrigan in Jefferson Market Court later held Monahan in $5,000 bail for the Grand Jury for felonious assault and robbery. Joyce was held for violating the hack ordinance in allowing Crabtree to operate his car and for giving him his license and operator's card and for intoxication.

Because Crabtree, the driver of the taxi, had Joyce's credentials, the police believed at first that Joyce had been killed. Another erroneous version given out by the police before they had completed their investigation was that the men were gangsters. Investigation by Deputy Inspector Cornelius Cahalane and detectives of the West Thirtieth Street Station established the fact that the six men had attended a wedding in Newark.

At the Hoboken slip of the Lackawanna Ferry, according to the police, the men took four bottles of milk from a milk wagon, standing in line, for which they refused to pay. A quarrel followed, in which Thomas Horner, chauffeur of a truck owned by the New System Oil Company, Tenth Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street, took the milkman's part. As the taxi and truck swung into Twenty-third Street, on leaving the ferry, Crabtree repeatedly tried to cut off the motor truck and force it onto the sidewalk. As Patrolman Topf approached, at Tenth Avenue, two men from the taxi jumped into the driver's seat of the larger vehicle. Topf thought it was a hold-up. He pulled out his pistol and ordered the taxi to stop. Instead of complying, the police say, Crabtree headed the car directly toward Topf. He jumped to one side and fired. The bullet hit the driver and he died soon afterward in the French Hospital.

Crabtree leaves a wife and three-year-old son. The police say he fought with the Twenty-seventh Division and had a good reputation. Topf's police record was said to be excellent. He has been on the force a year and a half.

IGNORE CHAPEL AT TRINITY.

Hartford Students Act on Vote Against Compulsory Attendance.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 3.—The student body of Trinity College here today voted to ignore the ruling of the Board of Trustees that compulsory attendance of chapel should be continued.

The students petitioned the trustees when they met here Saturday, declaring that compulsory chapel was contrary to the principles of the Christian religion, but the trustees voted that the system should be maintained.

Today the students decided not to accept attendance slips in the future. An attendance slip is a small card given by a monitor to each student as he enters chapel, signed by the student and passed back to the monitor on leaving chapel.

Is the Logical Place to Buy Your Christmas Piano

For here is probably the most complete showing of good pianos and player-pianos under one roof in America. And included in the list is the incomparable AMPICO.

For those who are thinking of buying a piano as a Christmas gift there can be only one decision: Wanamaker's is the place to buy the piano, for here are the lowest prices consistent with quality, combined with the widest range of choice.

The Chickering

The guiding idea in making the famous Chickering Piano is to produce a perfect medium for the expression of music and to put it into a form that will always be a delight to the eye.

Chickering Upright, $875.
Chickering-Ampico Upright, $1,800.
Chickering-Ampico Grand, $2,850 up.

The Schomacker

The first Schomacker Piano was made seventy-six years ago. For forty years, since Washington's time, it was given preference in the White House. A fine instrument, in Art Models.

Schomacker Upright, $750 up.
Schomacker Grand, $1,225 up.

The Emerson

Since the Emerson was first made, in 1849, it has ranked as one of the leading pianos of its time. It is still one of the very best pianos obtainable today at these prices.

Emerson Upright, $585 up.
Emerson Grand, $985 up.

Marshall & Wendell

The wonderful AMPICO re-enacting device is obtainable in the Marshall & Wendell piano. The AMPICO does not merely reproduce; it re-enacts the performance of the artist. This is the lowest price genuine AMPICO piano.

Marshall & Wendell AMPICO Upright, $985.
Marshall & Wendell AMPICO Grand, $1,975.

Our Idea

This is rather an unusual announcement about GOOD pianos. It also sounds a word of warning that seems quite apropos in the light of present-day events.

* * *

Hundreds of new homes are now being opened in Greater New York and the immediate vicinity. Most (perhaps all) of these homes will want some kind of a piano, because everybody in this age recognizes the uplifting influence and the positive need of good music in the home. So the Wanamaker Store has this to say:

* * *

We have made an iron-clad rule here that a piano must be a musical instrument—not a mere article of furniture. In other words, it must be the best piano at the price that is obtainable today, and it must conform to certain well defined standards that will insure the fullest measure of service and satisfaction.

Look Sharply

—at many piano announcements that are now going the rounds. Read the impossible claims, the exaggerations, the meagre details. Any picture of a piano can be made to look good, but only an expert can tell whether the instrument is really worth buying.

* * *

Here, as we say, there is a standard of quality. It never varies. It is, in truth, a guarantee that you will get all that you expect to get out of the piano. And in addition to that, you will have the largest variety of high-grade pianos, player-pianos, and reproducing pianos to choose from in all New York.

The Terms

—of payment offered by the Wanamaker Store are always so fair, so reasonable and so convenient that we seldom emphasize them. If you now have an upright piano that you would like to exchange for a player or an AMPICO, a liberal allowance will be made.

* * *

If you cannot conveniently come in person, the coupon will bring detailed information without obligation on your part.

The Autopiano

This, in our opinion, is the best player-piano at a moderate price obtainable today.

Autopiano Upright, $550 and $650.

Piano Salons, First Gallery, New Building

J. C. Campbell

This, without question, is one of the best upright pianos at a moderate price obtainable today. We guarantee it.

J. C. Campbell Upright, $365.
J. C. Campbell Player, $575.

The Brambach
The Ideal Baby Grand

Likewise, the ideal home piano—a Baby Grand that occupies no more space than an ordinary upright, and still has that rare combination: tone quality, volume, artistic appearance. Where is the housewife who would prefer an upright to a grand piano—when the price is so moderate?

Brambach Baby Grand, $835.

Celebrated Knabe

Endorsed by many of the greatest artists the world has ever known—from Saint-Saens to Godowsky. With or without the wonderful AMPICO re-enacting device.

Knabe Upright, $875 up. Knabe Grand, $1,225 up.

Hartford Officers Take Students and Faculty Before Grand Jury

AT SPECIAL NIGHT SESSION

Legislators Listed in Medical Bill Slush Fund Inquiry—Gov. Smith Acts on Situation Here.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 3.—On orders from the Extraordinary Grand Jury investigating medical frauds in Connecticut, County Detective Edward J. Hickey and a dozen deputies tonight descended on the Blumer College of Naturopathy at 400 Ann Street, this city, arrested the President, Louis Blumer, four of his faculty and twenty-seven students.

After searching the college and seizing all diplomas and records, the officers marched the student body, headed by President Blumer, to the Court House, where the Grand Jury had assembled in a special evening session to interrogate them.

The Blumer College is said to follow the theory of letting nature take its course without medicine or surgery to effect cures.

Late tonight the Grand Jury was still questioning President Blumer and his staff. One point of the inquiry is said to involve how long it takes to make a naturopathic doctor of a trolley car operator, for many of the students are alleged to have been enrolled from the ranks of Hartford armen.

Missouri Witnesses Testify.

William P. Sachs, former Missouri State School official, and Dr. Fred C. Waite of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, went before the Grand Jury today and are understood to have revealed the inside workings of the so-called degree mills of Missouri.

It was said that about seventy quack doctors in Connecticut had been named in evidence showing probable cause for fraud actions. Quick action against every quack remaining in Connecticut was promised tonight by Foreman Benedict M. Holden of the Grand Jury.

Three of those listed by Mr. Sachs were called before the Grand Jury when he was excused. They were: Dr. William Feldman, St. Louis, graduate of 1918, and Dr. Julius P. Karp and Dr. Etamar A. Mower, a Kansas City alumni. They have been practicing in Hartford, and Mower was named in the Doctors' Validating bill, which Governor Templeton vetoed.

Just before the adjournment this afternoon the Grand Jury received an official list of members of the joint legislative Committee on Public Health and Safety, which handled the medical bills in the last Legislature.

Fifty More Deaths Under Suspicion.

County detectives continued today to investigate suspicious deaths in Connecticut, and the State Department of Health submitted fifty more death certificates in addition to the 200 already culled from the State records and handed to the Grand Jury. Dr. James W. Bush of New Britain, where some of these deaths occurred, has been subpœnaed to tell how he got his Missouri diploma.

State's Attorney H. M. Alcorn today dismissed the Connecticut Eclectic Board of Examiners, with instructions to return to the court house tomorrow afternoon, when he will give them another list of physicians to be repudiated like the first batch of eighteen last Wednesday.

SMITH CALLS CONFERENCE.

Governor Seeks Means to Protect State From Medical Frauds.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 3.—Recent disclosures relative to illegal practice of medicine today caused Governor Smith, upon recommendation of Dr. Matthias Nicoll Jr., State Commissioner of Health, to call a conference in the Executive Chamber at noon Friday to discuss measures that may be needed for further protection of the people of the State.

He invited representatives of the State Medical Society, Attorney General Carl Sherman, State Commissioner of Education Frank P. Graves, Deputy Commissioner of Education Augustus S. Downing and Dr. Nicoll.

At a conference of physicians called in the Executive Chamber last February one of the subjects discussed was the strengthening of the Medical Practice act, and recommendations made at that time will be considered at Friday's conference, as well as other matters relating to medical practice.

Yugoslav Cities Take Stand for Unemployment Crisis.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—A dispatch from Belgrade says that the unemployment crisis has caused several municipalities to take work from the women and give it to men. In Serajevo, the dispatch says, women are expressly forbidden to work.

Women factory workers of all types, clerks, and even domestic servants, have been given twenty-four hours to leave their places. The day following the promulgation of this order the police made organized raids throughout the city, and where a woman was found still working she was sent to the municipal jail.

Health and Happiness

There is a Way—Will You Take it?

A MAN who is sound and healthy steps out on life's highway with a song in his heart, looking forward eagerly to life's adventure, anxious to see what is around the next corner. To him life's struggle is stimulating, attractive.

The man who is out of health fears every turn in the road. There is no song in his heart but a continual flutter of apprehension. He avoids rather than seeks life's struggle.

Good health is the foundation not only of business success but of successful living. That is why we need continually to inspect the foundation of our life structure.

What have we to suggest? The simplest thing in the world. Make a scientific search for any factors which may be causing a present lowered condition of your health or may be threatening your future. Correct any physical defects discovered and try to follow the pathways of healthful living which science will point out to you. Make arrangements now for such a thorough examination either by your family physician or by the Life Extension Institute.

The Institute is looking far ahead into your future. Its service is designed to ascertain any physical defect or diseased condition that may exist in order that the Institute may point out to you your present physical trend, intelligently inform you of your immediate needs and guide you away from future illness and suffering.

Write, telephone or visit the Institute for information about its different services and for free booklets on the prevention of disease and the prolongation of human life.

What the Institute's Health Service Includes:

The Institute's service includes a standardized physical examination of the whole body—extensive detailed reports covering your exact physical condition and needs—education in all phases of correct personal hygiene—suggestions as to any needed form of medical treatment—educational health literature—monthly health bulletins, keep-well reprints and other valuable privileges. No medical treatment is included in the Institute's work. There is a separate department for women at the Head Office in New York, with both men and women examining physicians in attendance. Outside of New York City the Institute has examining physicians in about every town and city in the United States and Canada and in most of the foreign countries. Over 250,000 men and women have already been examined by the Institute and in this group are included every type of citizen in the world. Are you among them?

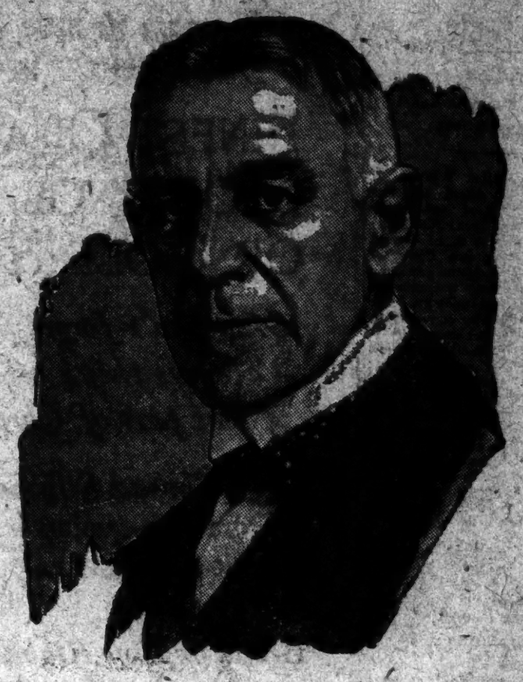
One Man's Ideal for America – Expressed in Two Ways



One of them is the $100,000 peace-prize offer by which Edward W. Bok has focussed the attention of the nation on his ideal for world peace. More than 22,000 men and women have submitted plans for the award. Millions will be reached by the coming referendum.

The other is a book—a book whose wide influence upon American thought cannot be questioned, for its hold on popular favor constitutes a record which has not been equalled. It is called

The Americanization of Edward Bok

For forty months it has held its place in the sun as one of the ten books most in demand in bookstores and libraries, a record which, as The Bookman points out, no other book or author has ever attained. Now it has appeared in a new one-dollar edition, which promises to make this year its biggest.

"The Americanization of Edward Bok" was first published in September, 1920. Its success in the five-dollar form and later in the three-dollar form, which appeared in the summer of 1921, was considered a publishing phenomenon. But apparently these two editions did no more than scratch the surface, for the largest sale still lies ahead in the form of the new One-Dollar Edition.

"I rank it with Franklin's autobiography," says William Lyon Phelps

The One-Dollar Edition

of "The Americanization of Edward Bok" was issued as the 25th printing, in response to the demand for a strictly popular edition which could be bought in quantity for gift distribution. Employers have purchased this book by the hundred lot. Schools and churches have recognized the power and influence of its ideal of service. And every reader, young or old, whatever his station in life, has declared that it is one of the most interesting books that has ever come into his hands.

"The Americanization of Edward Bok" is also published in a larger size for $2.50.

One other amazing feature of Mr. Bok's record as an author remains to be pointed out—the fact that since last spring he has been running competition to himself in the best-seller lists with another book,

A MAN FROM MAINE

This is Edward W. Bok's story of the romance of business as he has seen it revealed in the life of Cyrus H. K. Curtis, who is perhaps the most powerful figure in the whole world of publishing. Two weeks after publication, a second edition of this book was required, and it is now in its fifth very large printing. And no wonder—for, as the Boston Post points out, it is "remarkably fascinating . . . As full of romance as a novel and inspiring from beginning to end." It is published at $3.00.

TWO PERSONS

A little gift-book by Edward W. Bok in which, in the words of the New York Times, "in twenty-five pages he accomplishes 'the amazing task of compressing a hundred pages of human idealism and human achievement.'" 75 cents

DEMANDS APOLOGY FOR SLUR ON COURT

Justice Hagarty Declares Dolphin's Charges of 'Protection' for Gambling Contemptuous.

CALLS STATEMENTS FALSE

Criticism Supplemented Enright's Comment on Supreme Court to the Same Effect.

Supreme Court Justice William F. Hagarty yesterday declared contemptuous a statement issued Nov. 14 by Assistant Corporation Counsel M. Martin Dolphin assailing what he termed protection by the Supreme Court of manufacturers of slot machine gambling devices. Justice Hagarty demanded a written repudiation and apology. He directed that his views be conveyed to Corporation Counsel Nicholson.

Justice Hagarty's denunciation of the statement was during proceedings on the application of Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles J. Druhan, in charge of the Brooklyn office, for a reopening of the case in which, by failure of Assistant Corporation Counsel Goldstein to present opposing affidavits, the Court was compelled to grant to the Triangle Novelty Company, manufacturer of the slot device, an injunction restraining the police from interfering with its operations.

In a statement on the injunction, Police Commissioner Enright, Nov. 14, said that because of the injunction "gamblers are operating in defiance of police authority under protection of the Supreme Court." Dolphin, who had been assigned to Police Headquarters, made this additional statement, after having helped prepare the Enright statement:

"When a big gambler with sufficient influence and money to employ high-priced counsel wishes to secure an injunction to restrain the police he usually gets it. It is done frequently. The protection of gamblers and gambling generally has reached such a procedure that lawyers engaged by the gamblers no longer have to use legal procedure to restrain the police from interfering, but merely draw up 'form' papers. This ties the hands of the police. It merely requires a little political influence and some standing among the gambling fraternity and sufficient money to retain high-priced counsel to obtain one of these orders."

Asks for Repudiation.

Addressing Mr. Druhan, Justice Hagarty, now sitting in Queens, said yesterday: "I want to say this: I want to ask the Corporation Counsel, in view of the affidavits submitted in support of the order, to show some cause why the injunction should not be granted, and in view of the affidavits attached to it, verified in August, and which were not submitted to the Court (referring to affidavits made by detectives for the Corporation Counsel), does the Corporation Counsel repudiate the statement issued by one of the assistants, supplementing a statement issued by the Police Commissioner?"

"Yes, I do," replied Mr. Druhan.

"Does the Corporation Counsel realize that that statement was false, that the conclusions were based upon false statements, that it was not only false but that it was contemptuous?" demanded the Court.

"I don't know about that—I wouldn't want to say without looking into the case whether or not it was contemptuous," said Mr. Druhan. "I think it was ill-advised. It is probably libelous."

"I am not asking you to pass judgment upon the contemptuous part of it," agreed Justice Hagarty. "But do you realize it was false?"

"I realize that it was not founded on the facts," said Mr. Druhan. "I realize that the facts did not justify the statement and I think the conclusion was inaccurate and I think the whole thing was very, very much ill-advised. I will say that if the Assistant Corporation Counsel who gave out that interview to the press had communicated those facts either to Mr. Nicholson or to me we would immediately have taken steps to open up this matter and bring it to your Honor's attention in an orderly way."

Not a Personal Matter.

"It isn't personal with me," asserted Justice Hagarty. "I don't care a thing about that, but it was a criticism not only of the Court that issued that injunction but of the whole of the Supreme Court of the State of New York. It is not personal at all. As far as I am concerned and as far as that Assistant Corporation Counsel is concerned, I am indifferent. I will expect a written repudiation by this man and an apology, to be filed with the records of this Court, and I will expect it when this matter comes up for argument, or before that, not that it will make any difference as far as the argument is concerned. A written repudiation; if by this man, a written acknowledgment of his error and an apology."

"And I assume that you mean the Assistant Counsel who gave out the interview to the press?" asked Mr. Druhan.

"You don't mean the Assistant who argued the matter before you?"

"Oh, no. I do not," Justice Hagarty said.

"Is it your Honor's idea that I should convey that message to him?"

"I think perhaps you should convey it to the Corporation Counsel. The Court expects that."

Adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Dr. Frank Crane Says:

The Near East kids must not suffer because we could not resist the temptation of a good dinner on Golden Rule Sunday.

It might have benefited our stomachs and done our souls good, too, to have eaten a simple orphan menu. But we can still do the big thing.

GENERAL RATE RISE DENIED ON EXPRESS

I. C. C. Also Orders 10 to 11 Per Cent. Cut for Carrying Articles of Food.

NEW BASES FOR TARIFFS

Five Zones Cut to Three to Eliminate Discrepancies in Present Charges.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—New bases for the application of interstate express rates were laid down today by the Interstate Commerce Commission in a decision which refused the American Railway Express Company the right to make general increases for which it had asked. Express companies were ordered to establish new schedules, on or before Feb. 21 next, incorporating the changes.

Present interstate express rates applied to food articles of nearly all kinds, the commission held, are too high and should be reduced by amounts ranging from 10 to 11 per cent. The companies were required to make the reductions by installing tariffs which will equal those in effect on Oct. 12, 1920, when increases to the present levels were made.

In outlining the principles to govern the general revision, the commission pointed out that rates are now built up on the basis of five zones. There are differences in the factors of rates between each zone, and the commission decided that these result in too great a discrepancy. Accordingly, a three-zone system was ordered into effect, one zone to take in generally the northeastern section of the United States, the second the southeast and the third to include all of the territory west of the Mississippi River.

In the reconstructions to be made on the basis of the zones, the commission held that the express carriers might include a haulage factor of 25 cents per 100 pounds for the first fifty miles in the northeastern section; a factor of 27.5 cents for the first fifty miles in the southwestern or second zone, and 30 cents for the same distance in the third zone.

The general arrangement now followed of blocking out the country in fifty-mile squares for the purpose of fixing express charges was said to be satisfactory with the amended zone arrangement, and the express companies were ordered to work out rate schedules for later submission to the commission.

The question of express rates was brought under investigation by the commission in 1922, following a reduction in general railroad freight rates.

"Taken as a whole, the evidence of record leads to the conclusion that in the absence of a general industrial depression the express business should steadily increase," the commission said. "There is no evidence that utilization of present express facilities generally is approaching the point of saturation."

The opinion was expressed that with a good volume of business the American Railway Express Company could make proper earnings, and at the same time give the rail lines which handle its traffic a fair return.

The Southeastern Express Company, which operates separately, was said to have begun business two years ago, but to have encountered "a healthy growth" under present charges.

Officials of the American Railway Express Company, when informed of the decision from Washington yesterday, said that their future action would not be determined until they had had sufficient time to make a careful examination of the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission. They stated that the objections to the tentative findings of the commission would be made before March 1, 1924, as provided in the report of the commission.

GIRL MOTHER DIES WITH BABY AT SEA

Caught Cold at Ellis Island, Whence She Was Deported Just Before Child's Birth.

The story of the death at sea of Mary Brennon, an eighteen-year-old girls, who Brennon, an eighteen-year-old girl who to County Sligo, Ireland, and her newly born baby girl, was told yesterday when the White Star liner Baltic arrived from Liverpool and Queenstown.

Mary Brennon arrived in New York on Nov. 1 on the White Star liner Celtic and went to Ellis Island. On Nov. 3 she was ordered excluded. The deportation order was marked "L. P. C." which is used when the immigrant is liable to become a public charge, and also when the exclusion is ordered on moral grounds. She was not married and was about to become a mother. She had not told her parents of her condition, according to the letter left by her for her mother, and she was coming to an aunt in well-to-do circumstances here, to remain with her until her baby was born. While detained at Ellis Island from Nov. 3 until Nov. 9, when she was taken to the White Star liner Baltic, the girl had caught a severe cold, which developed into pneumonia two days after the vessel left New York. The baby was born and died on Nov. 14, and the mother died the next day.

Linens From Italy

Make Exquisite Gifts

Something every woman knows is that she can never have too many linens, especially decorative linens like these from Italy.

They are unique in design, in the cutwork embroidery which is colored in many of the pieces, and in the delicacy of the lace insertions.

Not a few—but almost countless designs are here in luncheon cloths and sets, tea cloths and scarfs at prices that will appeal to the over-strained Christmas purse!

Also lovely lace scarfs, tea and luncheon cloths, and luncheon sets from Sardinia.

GRAND JURY INQUIRY ON STAGE ORDERED

Judge Collins, in Charge, Says District Attorney and Police Will Aid.

FEW COMPLAINTS RECEIVED

But Banton Asserts Stenographic Notes Will Be Taken of Plays Under Suspicion.

The December Grand Jury in General Sessions was charged yesterday by Judge Cornelius F. Collins to investigate obscene and otherwise objectionable plays and was instructed to return indictments if the evidence warranted. He advised the Grand Jury that District Attorney Joab H. Banton and his staff and acting Police Commissioner John A. Leach and his department were ready to co-operate to the fullest extent in the prosecution of those responsible for objectionable productions.

Judge Collins disclosed, however, that the number of complaints to the police was not so large as might have been expected in view of recent comments from the pulpit and other sources. District Attorney Banton also, in an interview following the delivery of Judge Collins's remarks to the Grand Jury, said he had received no specific complaint, notwithstanding all that had been said about salacious plays in New York.

Asked what action he contemplated against revealed objectionable plays he said:

"My plan is to let anybody with a complaint come here, and in this way I will be in a position to find out just what plays it is alleged are offensive. If this does not work out, then I probably shall send detectives to view the plays. And on their stenographic notes, if I feel that the law is being violated, I shall present the matter to the Grand Jury.

"It will be my desire to get the men responsible for giving dirty shows in New York. The actors and actresses are forced to go into plays many times against their wills. The man who forces them to participate in these disgusting and salacious plays is the man I want. He is the manager."

"I haven't been to a show in a year," said Mr. Banton, when asked if he had seen any of the productions which have been attacked. "I'm afraid of, afraid of being called as a witness on the character of certain plays reported as being so low. There seems to be a general uprising against indecent plays in this city. There is no reason why we should permit salacious plays to be presented in this city to please a lot of filth-minded people from out of town. They are the ones that patronize such plays. The average New Yorker is clean-minded and is offended by these plays."

Calls New York a Clean City.

In his charge to the Grand Jury Judge Collins said he desired to refer especially to "violations of law within this county in relation to any obscene, indecent, immoral or impure drama, play, exhibition, show or entertainment which would tend to the corruption of the morals of youth or others." He cited the statute covering violations of that kind and described New York as a "clean city," compared with others.

"Written complaints of objectionable performances have been received and sent to the Police Department for investigation," he said. "Where there exists the slightest instance for believing such complaints well founded they will be submitted by the District Attorney with a recommendation that they be presented to the Grand Jury. This procedure will be followed with every such complaint and the full weight of the law brought to bear upon the producer and the performers. The number of complaints, however, which we have received of this character has been wholly out of proportion to what might be reasonably expected if much of the adverse comment now rife is seriously intended.

"You know, of course, that the offense as quoted from the law, is a misdemeanor, and the Grand Jury, although authorized, generally does not act in cases of misdemeanor, action usually being taken in the Magistrates' Court and the Court of Special Sessions.

Judge Collins referred to the tendency of prolonged public hearings to attract the prurient to the particular show-house conducting the performance and said that an inquiry by the Grand Jury would avoid this evil.

"Great care and caution should be exercised in your inquiry," he pointed out, "and your proceedings in taking testimony must be governed entirely by the rules of evidence. We know that by far the larger proportion of our theatrical managers are high-minded, respectable men who would not tolerate indecency in their theatrical performances. We likewise know that members of the theatrical profession in preponderating majority would refuse to take part in shows where their act would involve indecency and lewdness.

The Fear of a Censorship.

"It may be, though, that some persons, actuated by the greed for money, have exceeded the proprieties. It has been stated with regard to some cabaret performances in this city that they have pandered to the out-of-town visitors to our city seeking diversion violently contrary to that decorum which that same visitor would maintain in the place of his home residence.

"Beyond all question, the managers and members of the theatrical profession of rectitude greatly deplore any such happening and view with dismay the possibility that such action may bring about official censorship which they claim would be going to the other extreme, be the subject of great abuse and greatly circumscribe the liberties of our people. The vast number of theatrical producers and the people of our city generally should not be made to suffer for the action of a few.

"It may be that there has been an exaggeration in describing the performances in this city in both theatres and cabarets, and you will have an opportunity to fully investigate the subject. It may be that the societies which have conducted the investigations may desire to present evidence to you which is in their possession, and this may also come to you through the District Attorney or on your own initiative. It may be that the publicity recently given to this subject through the press, voicing the complaint of religious bodies, and the knowledge that the Grand Jury is apt to take action, may have the effect of stopping improper performances or causing their modification to the extent of removing the objectionable features."

Following a meeting of the Social Service Commission of the Protestant Episcopal Church, instructed recently by Bishop Manning to begin an investigation of the stage, it was announced that the commission had appointed a sub-committee to confer with the Episcopal Actors' Guild and with representatives of the theatrical managers. The personnel of the sub-committee was not disclosed.

Praises Stage as a Whole.

The Social Service Commission, through its Executive Secretary, Dr. Charles K. Gilbert, who acted as Chairman of the meeting, issued a statement, in which he said:

"The Episcopal Church is vitally interested in the stage and believes in the tremendous power for good that it can exert and therefore rejoices in the unusual number of good plays now available for the public.

"We believe in the effort of the managers who have put on these plays and in their desire to serve the public good there lies one great element of hope in the present situation. We must look to these same managers for help in dealing with the undesirable plays.

"The enforcement of laws always depends on public opinion and for the organization of a sane public opinion the united efforts of managers, actors, the churches and the press are needed.

"We have asked our Legislative Committee to report to us promptly as to where the power to close immoral performances rests, whether with the Commissioner of Licenses or with the courts. The commission will continue its consideration of the matter in the light of the report made by this committee and will submit its findings to Bishop Manning."

"I'll See You Next Year." "I'll Call You Next Week."

Which of These Salesmen Gets the Most Small Town Trade?

ONE personally covers his territory once or twice a year, depending largely upon his personality and the reputation of his goods to hold the trade until he makes his next selling trip.

The other also covers his territory in the usual way, but in addition he uses Long Distance to keep in frequent touch with his trade particularly in the small towns.

How often do you get into your territory by Long Distance?

Whatever your product, selling season, size of territory, or character of the trade, Long Distance will help you do bigger work more quickly and economically.

You cannot afford to overlook Lightolier when you make your selection

Consider as well spent, the extra few minutes to reach the wholesale neighborhood where you will find the Lightolier Galleries. Just to stroll through these fine rooms is to gather many, many ideas that are quite worth while. Here you will discover a new field of suggestion that will help to make your own home ever more pleasant.

If it is a question of seeking the unusual odd piece in lamps or decorative furniture, you will find it at Lightolier. If it is a question of seeking unusually low prices for unusual pieces, you will have to go to Lightolier.

No mistake would be made in assuming that this smart bridge lamp could be found only at Lightolier. For here, amid a veritable Aladdin's cave, you will find all the lamps that you might seek endlessly for elsewhere. And prices here are magically low. The bridge lamp shown costs but $19.50.

Lightolier—a discovery!

MIRRORS certainly are fashionable. For what piece of home decoration so quickly suggests luxury and spaciousness? Mirrors, mirrors—for every place and for every use. They are all in the splendid old-fashioned Galleries at Lightolier. Prices cover such a range that even a modest amount of money buys much. This imposing mitre-cut, three-panel, plate-glass mirror presents a most novel note. $24.00.

It is Lightolier's experience as manufacturers that enables us so invariably to combine highest quality with exceptional value. This lamp of Oriental design, for example, with its pottery vase and oval silk shade of black and gold brocade, costs but $62.50 complete.

$9-A-ROOM FLATS CALLED A FAILURE

Admission Is Made by Phelps-Stokes Fund, Pioneer in the Movement.

PUTS RENT UP TO $10.50

Announcement Says the Expected 6 Per Cent. Net Return Fell to Below 4 Per Cent.

That the much-discussed and long-promised nine-dollar-a-room tenement house on Manhattan Island is a failure was admitted yesterday by officials of the Phelps Stokes Fund of this city, which made an attempt to alleviate the housing crisis by building houses and providing rooms at this figure.

The trustees of the fund, which owns various tenements in the city, have served notice on tenants of the property at 52-56 East Ninety-seventh Street that, beginning Jan. 1, rentals will increase 12½ per cent. In order to insure a 6 per cent. net return on cost and to set aside an adequate amount for depreciation. This increase will make an average rent, including charge for bathrooms, of $10.50 a room a month, or $1.50 less than the sum the trustees believe it is possible to obtain accommodation for in any other new buildings on Manhattan Island.

I. N. Phelps Stokes, an architect, who is president of the fund and one of the members of the committee that wrote the present tenement house laws, said yesterday that the increase was due in a great measure to higher operating costs than had been anticipated when the East Ninety-seventh Street houses were opened to the public last March.

"We are particularly sorry to have to raise the rents," he said, "because our ambition was to build in the interest of the people who occupy the apartments, and we hoped to demonstrate that even with an unstable market we could meet the challenge of large groups who said that buildings could not be put up on Manhattan Island to rent for less than $12 a room, and yet yield 6 per cent. return and make provision for an adequate sinking fund. We find we were a little too sanguine."

The Ninety-seventh Street buildings, which consist of 286 rooms, were constructed by the fund in an effort to prove that rooms in new buildings could be let at $9 a month and still yield 6 per cent. on the investment and provide 2 per cent. for a sinking fund to take care of depreciation and provide for future taxation from which the buildings under the present New York State law are exempt for another eight years.

The initial investment reached $525,000, about $25,000 more than was anticipated when the original contract was let. On the other hand, operating costs have run far above what was anticipated, with the result that for the first eight months the return on the investment, after the 2 per cent. for depreciation was taken out, fell short of 4 per cent.

The fund also operates tenements at 239 to 249 East Thirty-second Street, constructed about twelve years ago, but there has been no announcement of an increase in these rentals.

FINE FURNITURE SOLD.

Auction of Peters Collection at Anderson Galleries Nets $10,509.

Early American furniture and contemporary embellishments, the property of Fred J. Peters of Flushing, L. I., were sold yesterday at the Anderson Galleries. A total of $10,509 was realized on the collection, which consisted of fine examples of eighteenth and early nineteenth century English furniture, especially in the Sheraton style.

Mrs. H. Horter paid $285 for a large carved mahogany stool; Mrs. W. A. MacCready paid $225 for an inlaid mahogany secretaire bookcase; Mrs. A. R. Casey paid $325 for six carved Sheraton dining chairs, $450 for a bookcase desk and $500 for a carved walnut two-back settee. M. J. Laracque bought a Chippendale mahogany bookcase for $350 and Mrs. R. Lindenburg purchased two Queen Anne carved walnut armchairs for $225.

This Is Why

The Title Guarantee & Trust Company cannot make excessive loans because it must secure the guarantee of the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company that principal and interest will be paid.

The Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company makes no fees except what it deducts from the interest for its guarantee and the care of the mortgages. Thus the temptation to make excessive loans to get excessive fees does not come to either company.

Being in the market for the best loans only, the charges are reasonable and the interest rates the market rates for the best loans. As a result, we get the cream of the mortgages. These we offer to you.

There are none in Greater New York any safer and most are not so safe. The guarantee behind them grows stronger year by year and the guarantee fund is now $13,000,000.

Sight is Worth Saving

EYESIGHT is priceless and worth all you can do for its preservation.

Glaring or misplaced lights hurt the eyes. Your working light should be correct in quality as well as intensity—a treat rather than a threat to the eyes.

Eyes behave better and last longer when they work with a light that suits them. Daylight is best because nature made it right for eyes. That is why every Emeralite has a special screen which changes ordinary electric light into soft, eye-saving daylite.

You cannot BUY eyesight, but you can INSURE it with Emeralite.

Emeralites are those good looking, practical lamps that you see in the best offices everywhere. They harmonize with and enhance the dignity of any environment. You will find them in use wherever eyesight and the economy resulting from standardized equipment are appreciated. They are also ideal for home use.

Genuine Emeralites are branded and have the Daylite Screen. Look for trade mark. It is your guarantee of satisfaction.

Wee Books for Wee Folks

To those parents of little chil dren in the very morning of life Altemus' Wee Books come as a positive blessing. These stories deal with familiar animals, fairies and simple incidents, and are illustrated lavishly in colors. "The Four Little Pigs That Didn't Have Any Mother," for instance, has a few words of text on each left-hand page, and, opposite it, an appropriate illustration. This arrangement holds the attention of the child while the mother is reading aloud the text. As the other volumes of the Wee Books are printed on a somewhat similar plan, the whole may be commended to parents of children between three and seven years of age.

Leader—Stockelynch. Record—577 miles, made by Clark and Root in 1914.

Three teams were lapped in one of the most frenzied jams in the history of the sport during the evening sprints of the thirty-fifth international six-day bike race at Madison Square Garden last night. The session lasted for almost ten minutes and while it was on one of the largest first-night crowds that ever attended one of these affairs saw some hair-raising riding. The jam was started by the veteran Swiss star, Oscar Egg. The teams that lost ground during the session were Nefatti and Chardon, the Senegalese-French combination; Bauers and Tietz, the Germans, and Tonani and Ferrario, the Italians.

At the close of the 9 o'clock sprints last night De Wolfe and Stockelynch led with a total of 77 points. McNamara and Van Kempen were second with 64 and Hill and Grenda were third with 32. Madden and Horan were fourth with 26; Beckman and Hanley, fifth, with 23; Egg and Debaets, sixth, 22; Goullet and Piani, seventh, 20; Gastman and Lands and Coburn and Kaiser, tied for eighth, 18 each; Taylor and Magin, tenth, 12; Brocco and Moeskops, eleventh, 10; Verri and Azzini, twelfth, 8; Kockler and Lawrence, thirteenth, 1. Bauers and Tietz had 17 points but were one lap behind the leaders. Nefatti and Chardon, two laps behind the leaders, had nine points, while Tonani and Ferrario had 33 points but were three laps behind the leaders.

De Wolfe Starts Jam.

Tonani and Ferrario, as a result of their loss, were three laps behind. They lost one shortly after the race started and another during a jam that was started by the Belgians, De Wolfe and Stockelynch, early in last night's sprint session. Nefatti and Chardon were also lapped during the first sprint session yesterday morning.

The field had just slowed down after the eighth sprint, which was won by Moeskops, the big Hollander, who is riding with Maurice Brocco. Suddenly Egg, who had crossed the finish line in third place, decided that the time was ripe for a lap gaining coup, and, shooting out of the tired pack with sensational speed, he opened up a quarter of a lap before the other riders realized what was going on.

Before the relief riders could take the track Egg had been given a perfect pick-up by Debaets. Lap after lap Debaets and Egg whirled around the saucer with legs going up and down like piston rods, weaving their way dexterously in and out of the other riders, all of whom were on the track while the sprint was in session. At the end of ten minutes the Swiss-Belgian pair, seeing that they would be unable to attain the end they had in view, slowed down and Harry Horan, who had ridden like mad throughout the session, finally brought his wheel up alongside that of Debaets.

Sprint Falls for Belgians.

The miniature jam in which Tonani and Ferrario were the only losers was started by the Belgian team, DeWolfe and Stockelynch, who were the point leaders after the conclusion of the third sprint session. The sixth lap had just been finished when DeWolfe shot out of the pack like a bolt from the blue and had a quarter turn advantage over the competitors, who were taken unawares by the dash of the Belgian. The time, however, was not ripe, and the dash was unfruitful except in so far as it increased the distance that Tonani and Ferrario have to make up.

The real heroes of the sprints were Reggie McNamara, the Newark rider, and the speedy Peter Van Kempen. Between them they accounted for 29 points, bringing their total up to 64, only 13 points behind the Belgian team.

The opening sprint of the evening session was a duel between Italy and Germany, represented by Tonani and Tietz, respectively. They maintained first and second place throughout the last few laps. Near the finish Tietz made an effort to pass the Italian rider, but the latter was too strong for him and won by a wheel's length.

Goullet was given a hand as he took the track in the second sprint. The hero of the last six-day race was, to all appearances, in far better condition than he was in the March event. He made no effort to take any points in the sprint, however, being content to hang back and let the others fight it out. The sprint went to Pete Van Kempen, the Holland meteor, who nipped Azzini and Bauers at the finish.

Tonani and Chardon led the pack over the greater part of the distance in the third sprint, but on the bell lap McNamara, showing a great flash of speed, passed the two foreign riders and earned the verdict. It was only by an eyelash, however, as Beckman came close to nipping him at the finish line.

Van Kempen again showed his heels to the pack in the fourth, the Holland rider timing his spurt perfectly and crossing the line a length ahead of Harry Kaiser, the Bronx rider. Azzini made a bid for the honors and held the lead until Van Kempen shot out on his winning dash.

McNamara and Magin made a runaway race of the fifth sprint. Four laps from the finish Lands went out in front and got a considerable lead before Keckler, the Chicagoan, caught up to him. Then McNamara seized an opportune time and raced across the line far ahead of the others with the exception of Magin, who was a close second.

Moeskops Wins Finally.

The sixth sprint was won by Bauers, with De Wolfe after him. It was immediately after this sprint that the Belgian team of De Wolfe and Stockelynch started a stable jam that resulted in the tapping of the Italians, Tonani and Ferrario. While it was in progress, Beckman won the seventh sprint, followed by Horan.

In the eighth sprint, the big Holland star, Moeskops, showed his ability by plowing his way ahead of the other riders and winning with ridiculous ease. Moeskops is one of the sturdiest riders in the race, and following his work tonight, he and Brocco are considered by close followers of bike racing to be the pair of the pairs that is likely to figure strongly toward the end of the week.

Horan and Stockelynch captured the last two sprints.

First—Tonani, Tietz, Magin, McNamara.

Second—Van Kempen, Azzini, Bauers, Grenda.

Third—McNamara, Beckman, Chardon, Tietz.

Fourth—Van Kempen, Kaiser, Azzini, Hanley.

Fifth—McNamara, Magin, Coburn, Debaets.

Sixth—Bauers, De Wolfe, Kaiser, Stockelynch.

Seventh—Beckman, Horan, Hill, Debaets.

Eighth—Moeskops, McNamara, Egg, Lawrence.

Ninth—Horan, Hill, De Wolfe, Egg.

Tenth—Stockelynch, Madden, Beckman, Nefatti.

Stockelynch and De Wolfe, two of the new Belgian riders who are making their initial bow to bike fans, have thus far proved the sensation of the field so far as the winning of sprints is concerned. By capturing five of the afternoon brushes, the two Belgians had increased their point total to 65 when the session ended, leading McNamara and Van Kempen, the Bear Cat team, by 30 points.

There was not much excitement during the second round of sprinting for points except the battle between the two teams mentioned. Stockelynch and McNamara again shared the honors with three firsts between them. De Wolfe came to the aid of his partner by winning two of the brushes. The only others to finish at the head of the procession after the two-mile dashes were Tonani, who captured the third sprint, and Egg, who flashed across the line ahead of the pack in the fifth.

At the end of the afternoon sprints, the Stockelynch-De Wolfe and McNamara-Van Kempen team were followed in the total point standing by Hill and Grenda, with 25 points; Goullet and Piani with 20, the others ranging down the list to Kockler and Lawrence, who had not succeeded in breaking into the point column.

Univ. of Washington Eleven To Play Navy at Pasadena

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 3.—The Faculty Athletic Committee of the University of Washington at a meeting late today voted in favor of sending the husky football team to Pasadena New Year's Day to meet the United States Naval Academy eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 3.—That the Naval Academy is inclined to accept the University of Washington as its opponent at Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's Day was clearly indicated when the football team resumed practice this afternoon. There is little doubt, in fact, that the game will be played if Washington agrees promptly. The squad was not able to report until late, and lights were employed to make practice practicable, but there was some kicking and passing, while the first and second teams had a signal practice of fair length. Head Coach Folwell reached Annapolis during the day and will be assisted by Welchel, Scaffe, Perry and Ewen.

GREB BEATS DOWNEY IN DEFENSE OF TITLE

Middleweight Champion Too Fast for Challenger in First Bout Under New Law.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—Harry Greb, middleweight champion, defeated Bryan Downey of Columbus, Ohio, in the first ten-round decision bout held in Pittsburgh under the new law legalizing boxing in this State.

Downey was no match for the Pittsburgh fighter after the third round and was mauled all over the ring by the champion. There were few clean blows struck, Greb confining his efforts to close range. He succeeded in cutting Downey's eyes.

Greb was the victor in the last eight rounds, Downey taking the first two. In the third round Downey fell through the ropes when Greb rushed him across the ring. As he came back in the ring, the Pittsburgher charged him again and let go a right that should have ended the bout, but Downey used the ropes cleverly and held on until the danger was over. As the fight wore on Downey tired and Greb had another opportunity to put his man away in the ninth, but failed so that his own supporters expressed their disappointment.

The last round was almost a burlesque. Downey tried hard for a knockout as the round opened and when his punch went wild was thrown off balance. Greb came in from behind and was pummeling his man, while Downey tried vainly to get turned around and punch back. Downey weighed in at 135½ and Greb at 161 pounds.

GRANT KNOCKS OUT MORANO

Stops Rival in Second Round of Scouting Fleet Bout.

Joe Grant, heavyweight from the Wyoming, scored the only knockout last night in the semi-finals of the boxing bouts for the championship of the naval division of the scouting fleet at the Naval Branch of the Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn. He disposed of T. Morano of the Florida in the second round of a scheduled six-round bout. L. Hummel of the Wyoming got the decision over J. Cohen of the Florida in the semi-finals of the lightweight division in six rounds. In the welterweight semi-finals T. Perroto of the Utah got the decision over W. Denier of the Utah. R. Pitcomb and T. Eremo advanced to the finals of the bantamweight and featherweight divisions, respectively, by default. The finals will be staged a week from today at the 106th Infantry, Brooklyn.

In the wrestling bouts, F. Schmitki of the Utah threw Waychesowski of the same ship with an armlock in 1 minute 22 seconds. F. Ekavian of the Utah threw J. Kennedy of the Wyoming in 1 minute 25 seconds with a body scissors and armlock.

STONE TO MEET BURKE.

Men Will Meet at East 24th Street Club Tonight—Other Bouts.

Local boxing followers will get their first glimpse of Ad Stone, Philadelphia light-heavyweight, in action tonight. The Quaker City boxer, who has attracted unusual attention through his remarkable series of triumphs in recent bouts, will make his local début in the main bout of twelve rounds at the East Twenty-fourth Street Club against Mike Burke, Greenwich Village light-heavyweight. If Stone defeats Burke he is confident he will qualify for more important matches in this city.

Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo lightweight, and Sammy Vogel of Harlem will clash in the ten-round semi-final. A six-round bout will be between Jimmy Cashill of St. Paul and Frankie Cronin, west side boxer.

Henry Catena and Murray Bresner, rival west side flyweights, are scheduled to clash tonight in the main bout of twelve rounds at the Ninth Coast Defense Command Armory. Harry Nelson and Lee Wedo will be rivals in the eight-round semi-final.

Three eight-round bouts have been scheduled for tonight at the 212th Regiment Armory. The principals will be Emil Morro vs. Joey Baker; Johnny Brealin vs. Jack Rafferty; Leroy Powell vs. Ivan Hawes.

Eddie Clifford is scheduled to engage Danny Stewart in the main bout of twelve rounds tonight at the Twenty-seventh Division Train Armory, Brooklyn.

LYNCH KNOCKS OUT COULON IN THIRD

Bantamweight Champion Scores Thrilling Victory in Newark Ring.

HARD PRESSED AT START

New Orleans Boxer Staggers Title Holder in First Round—4,000 See Bout.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 3.—Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion, knocked out Eddie Coulon, New Orleans bantamweight, in the third round of their scheduled twelve-round bout, under the auspices of the National Sporting Club in the First Regiment Armory here tonight. A right to the jaw sent Coulon down for a count of nine soon after the third round opened and when he arose the lad from the Crescent City was sent down and out under the power of a left hook to the jaw. The finish came for Coulon after exactly forty-five seconds had elapsed in the third round.

It was a spectacular victory for Lynch and afforded a thrill to a crowd of about 4,000 which witnessed the bout. Before he scored with the punches which finished his rival, however, the champion himself was sent staggering up against the ropes.

Lynch did not impress the crowd particularly with his showing in advance of the knockout. He was wild in his attack in the first round and missed repeatedly with rights and lefts. At the same time the champion's guard was not punch-proof, a fact which Coulon early made evident. But despite these shortcomings Lynch scored his victory in a typical Lynch manner. Just two punches were required to finish Coulon.

Lynch's title was not involved in the battle because neither boxer made the bantamweight class weight of 118 pounds. Lynch weighed 122 and Coulon was half a pound heavier.

Coulon Carries First Round.

Coulon carried off the first round and came dangerously near smashing Lynch through the ropes. The Southerner scored frequently with a left hook to the face, head and jaw, and with one of his left hooks, a blow which carried the full force of his body back of it, Coulon made Lynch's knees sag as the champion tottered back to the ropes. Lynch recovered quickly and launched an exciting rally, but he was stung and was relieved when the bell ended the round in the middle of a spectacular mix-up.

In the second round Lynch assumed the aggressive and forced his rival about the ring. Coulon landed with a left hook to the body and soon after crossed a right to the heart in an exciting moment, when he took the lead from the champion. But Lynch was unhurt and danced about the ring as he rained rights and left on his rival's face, head and body.

The third round had hardly started when the pair went into a slugging bee. When this was halted with a clinch, Lynch stepped back and then suddenly stepped forward, striking swiftly and accurately with his right to the jaw. The punch toppled Coulon in his tracks, but he gamely regained his feet after Referee Hank Lewis counted nine.

Lynch Presses Advantage.

Lynch saw his rival was in distress and quickly pressed his advantage. He feinted with the right, bringing Coulon's guard down and then, quick as a flash, crashed home a solid left hook to the jaw. Coulon crumpled again and this time Referee Lewis completed his ten-second count, and Coulon still was rolling and writhing on the ring floor. The referee and Lynch then assisted the New Orleans bantamweight to his corner.

Battling Siki, Senegalese light heavyweight, who was last reported missing from his camp at Summit, N. J., entered the Armory during the semi-final bout and created a mild sensation. Attired in evening clothes, which were partly hidden by a flying opera cape, and his hands encased in shining white leather gloves, Siki was a conspicuous figure. A pair of dull red storm shoes and a cane completed the picture of the recent arrival from the boulevards of Paris.

Siki was the recipient of a generous reception from the crowd when he was introduced from the ring. Two former world champions, Johnny Wilson, middleweight, and Kid Williams, Baltimore bantam weight, also were introduced.

Manning Wins First Bout.

Knockout Manning, Elizabeth featherweight, and Johnny King of Newark were the principals in the opening bout, a six-round affair, which was satisfactorily contested. When the final bell sounded Manning had a clear margin over his rival on points.

Willie Woods, a flyweight of Scotland, made his first ring appearance in America against Sparkplug Russell of Jersey City in the second bout, which was a ten-round event. It was a disastrous occasion for Woods. Woods, a rugged, willing little boxer, gave a good account of himself against the aggressive Jersey City southpaw, but Russell knew too much for his rival and was entitled to the honors on points when the bout ended.

Spencer Gardner of Newport, R. I., featherweight, carried off the honors over Bud Dempsey, Harlem boxer, in an ordinary battle which served as the twelve-round semi-final. Gardner outpointed in the first half of the bout, came back with a rush through the closing half of the contest and had a comfortable margin on points at the finish.

RYDER AND GOODMAN DRAW.

Featherweights in Fast Fight Before Broadway Club.

Joe Ryder and Charley Goodman, Brooklyn featherweight, fought twelve fast rounds to a draw last night in the feature bout of the Broadway Exhibition Association. The bout was filled with action, both men showing a willingness to mix. Ryder weighed 128 pounds and Goodman 124. In the twelve-round semi-final, Bobby Ruttenberg won the decision over Sammy Blenfeld. Ruttenberg tipped the scales at 112 pounds and Blenfeld at 115.

NEWCOMERS ON SCHEDULE.

Harvard and Dartmouth Will Play Syracuse Basketball Team.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 3.—Harvard and Dartmouth, in addition to Penn State and West Point, are the newcomers on the Syracuse University basketball schedule. The Orange will open its season this week, meeting Clarkson Tech here on Saturday night. Al Corneli will be met in Syracuse on Dec. 21 and in Ithaca on Jan. 6. Dartmouth will be played at Syracuse on Jan. 4. The Orange will play at West Point Feb. 2, Springfield at Springfield Feb. 4 and Harvard at Cambridge on Feb. 8. Colgate will be met at Hamilton Feb. 9, and at Syracuse March 8.

Another newcomer to the Orange schedule is Oberlin, this team playing at Syracuse Feb. 18. Penn State will be met in a home and home series at State College on March 15, and at Syracuse on March 21.

WOMEN'S GOLF DATES SET.

Eastern Title Play to Be Held at Brae Burn June 2-7.

NEWTON, Mass., Dec. 3.—The 1924 women's Eastern golf championship will be played on the old course of the Brae Burn Country Club, June 2, 3 and 4, and will be followed by the annual team matches for the Frances C. Griscom Cup, June 5 to 7.

Offer Is Made to Daubert To Manage the St. Paul Club

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 3.—Jake Daubert, first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, has been offered the management of the St. Paul American Association Baseball Club, to succeed Mike Kelley, who has gone to Minneapolis, it was reported here today. John W. Norton, President of the Saints, said that negotiations were pending. Norton will confer with Garry Herrmann, President of the Cincinnati club, during baseball meetings in Chicago next week.

LANDIS CONSIDERS SHOCKER'S CASE

St. Louis Pitcher Carries Fight to Become Free Agent to Commissioner.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (Associated Press).—Urban Shocker of the St. Louis Browns, one of the greatest pitchers in the American League, today carried his fight to be declared a free agent to Commissioner Landis on the plea that his liberty had been infringed upon because officials of the St. Louis Club had refused him permission to have his wife accompany him on a trip with the club.

Shocker was fined $1,000 and suspended on Sept. 12, when he refused to join the Browns on their last Eastern trip of the season after being denied permission to take his wife along. Shocker asks that Commissioner Landis have the $1,000 fine refunded, his salary paid from Sept. 12 to the end of the season, and he be declared a free agent.

The St. Louis pitcher, who won twenty games and lost twelve during the 1923 season, appeared before Commissioner Landis with his attorney, Jerome F. Dugan, of St. Louis, while Attorney S. W. Swarts and Business Manager William Orell represented the Browns. After two hours of argument, Commissioner Landis requested the Browns' attorney to file an answer to the charges of Shocker with the understanding that the pitcher's attorney would be given time to offer testimony in rebuttal.

Attorney Swarts contended for the Browns that a rule was in effect that no player could take his wife on any trip. This was countered by the assertion that along the way the wives of other players had joined the team although they did not travel on the same train as the team.

Stripped of its legal verbiage, the case simmered down to the question whether a club had a right to discipline a player as it saw fit. Attorney Swarts argued against the jurisdiction of Commissioner Landis, the lawyer claiming that it was a case for the club alone. Shocker's attorney maintained that by the rules of the game, the pitcher should be declared a free agent because the punishment inflicted was unjust.

After the hearing it was strongly intimated that Shocker, if Commissioner Landis should rule against him, would carry the case into court.

President Johnson of the American League said tonight the case was one for the St. Louis club to decide, as it has a right to discipline players for any infraction of rules.

LOUISVILLE MAY GET INDOOR TRACK MEET

Southern Organization Asks for National A. A. U. Senior Title Games.

The Amateur Athetic Union's national senior indoor track and field championships may be held in Louisville, Ky., in March, instead of in this city, it was learned yesterday at A. A. U. headquarters. Edgar W. Kopp, Chairman of the Indiana-Kentucky A. A. U. Track and Field Championship Committee, has expressed a desire to have the meet awarded to the Kentucky city, and if the Kentucky officias guarantee to assume the financial expense involved the award probably will be made. Right now the National Championship Committee of the A. A. U. has the Kentucky application under advisement, awaiting information on the ability of the Louisville applicants to shoulder the expense of bringing the country's foremost athletes to the city.

The title games, which have always been held in this city except in 1922 and 1923, when they were conducted in Buffalo, were not awarded at the recent A. A. U. convention in Detroit because of lack of applications for the fixture. Under the circumstances the convention adopted a resolution instructing the Championship Committee to hold the games in this city unless a suitable bid was received sufficiently in advance of the meet date to warrant making an award.

STRIBLING SIGNS FOR BOUT.

Will Meet Rosenberg in Newark Armory on Dec. 19.

Young Stribling, Macon (Ga.) schoolboy, whose stand against Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, in a bout at Columbus, Ga., last Summer, attracted wide attention, will make his first appearance in a metropolitan ring on the night of Dec. 19. Stribling yesterday was signed to box Dave Rosenberg, Brooklyn's rugged middleweight, in a twelve-round no-decision bout under the auspices of the National Sportsmen's Club in the Newark Armory. Under the terms agreed upon Stribling consents to make 166 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the bout date. Joe Schwinger, manager of Rosenberg, yesterday admitted he had signed for his boxer.

In accepting the Stribling bout, Schwinger declined an offer to have Rosenberg box Roland Todd, English middleweight, in the semi-final bout to the Harry Greb-Gene Tunney encounter, which will be held in Madison Square Garden on Dec. 10. His objection to having Rosenberg appear as a boxer in a semi-final was explained by Schwinger as his reason for rejecting the Todd bout offer.

TODD TO BOX LOUGHRAN.

British Middleweight Champion Will Make U. S. Debut Monday.

Roland Todd, English middleweight champion, who recently arrived here in quest of further ring conquests, will make his American début at Madison Square Garden on Monday night. The Briton yesterday was signed to meet K. O. Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia middleweight, in the semi-final bout of twelve rounds to the American light-heavyweight championship struggle between Gene Tunney, title-holder, and Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, world's middleweight champion.

Todd's initial appearance here is expected to create considerable interest. He arrived here less than two weeks ago unheralded, but boasting a reputation as one of the most satisfactory boxers produced in England in recent years. He won the English middleweight title when he defeated Ted (Kid) Lewis, who once held the world's welterweight championship.

Hurley Scores Knockout.

Lew Hurley, Harlem bantamweight, knocked out Leo Huggins, substituting for Tommy Lynch, in the fourth round of the scheduled six-round feature bout at the Lenox Sports Club last night. Harry Tabe knocked out Harry Schelker in the fifth round of another scheduled six-round bout.

AMERICAN LEAGUE WAIVES ON MAYS

Huggins, Upon Arrival Here, Says Only Two Clubs in National Have Claimed Pitcher.

WILL BID FOR SHOCKER

Believes, However, That It Will Require Three-Cornered Deal to Swing Trade.

Miller Huggins came to town yesterday and was put on the grill by a reception committee of newspaper men, but the cross-examination resulted in nothing that could be called a damaging admission. In fact, the little manager lived up to the new nickname that he has acquired in the provinces: "The Wiz." He was an expert witness, although he did admit that all American League clubs have waived on Carl Mays, that he is interested in Urban Shocker and will make a bid for him, that he won't trade any of his five star pitchers in a Shocker deal and that he expects Everett Scott to play shortstop for the Yanks next season.

The Mays item was the most interesting news of the afternoon, since it means that blond Carl is now useless as trading material. Any hopes that the Yanks might ship him to Boston in a Joe Harris or George Burns transaction or to St. Louis in the Shocker business were effectively blasted by the admission that not one American League club would pay even the waiver price to get him.

Carl has been spurned by the junior circuit, but he has had better luck in the National, where two clubs put in a claim. And the Giants were not one of the two, says Huggins, despite McGraw's recent confession that he might like to add Mays to his payroll. Apparently the Yanks are up a tree on Mays. They are unable to dispose of him in their own league; he is worthless as trading material, and if a National League team claims him the most the Yanks will receive in return will be vulgar lucre or second-rate players who have been waived on by all of John Heydler's clubs.

In the light of the above the solution of the enigma may be for Huggins to keep him, hoping against hope that the erstwhile big winner may get back his winning ways.

Will Bid for Shocker.

Regarding the Shocker business, Huggins had the following to say:

"I'm not even sure that Shocker is on the market. But I make no secret of the fact that I would like to get him. If I discover on arriving at the league meetings that the Browns have put him up, you can bet I'll be in there with my bid. But I am not very optimistic. The Browns will want a third baseman or a first baseman, or maybe both, along with an A1 pitcher, and possibly something else. Not having third basemen and first basemen to give away lavishly, my only hope is to swing a three-cornered deal which will get the needed men from a third club."

"Would you trade any other veteran pitcher except Mays?" Huggins was asked.

"I'm pretty sure I would not. Perhaps on further thinking I might, but I don't think so."

"Will you trade Whitey Witt if necessary?"

"Not on your life."

And there the matter ended. Huggins seemingly is not going to trade simply for the sake of trading. One or two of his regulars might be sacrificed if Huggins thought the club would be strengthened, but the bulk of the salable material consists of second-stringers, such as Elmer Smith, Harvey Hendrick, Ernie Johnson and others. Undoubtedly Scott would go if a better man could be obtained in his place. A deal for another shortstop fell through, and the Yanks have made no move for Joe Boley of the Baltimore Orioles since last Spring. Huggins thinks Boley a vastly overrated player, worth something less than the $100,000 asked.

The training camp site will be selected at the Chicago meetings next week when representatives of New Orleans, Shreveport and San Antonio will present their pleas and arguments. Huggins likes San Antonio and may go there.

In an unwitting moment Huggins revealed that the Yanks have signed a new catcher, one "Chick" Autrey from Austin, Texas, who was seized upon by Scout Bob Connery and enjoys a splendid reputation in the Southwest regions. With Luke Urban, the former Boston College football star and more lately a Buffalo catcher, recalled, the Yanks have five receivers and aren't even mildly interested in Ray Schalk.

Has Two New Pitchers.

Two other additions are Benny Karr and George Dumont, pitchers, from the Yanks' friendly ally in the South Atlanta. Both have been under the big tent before. Karr served a sentence in Boston before Frank Chance banished him to Atlanta. Dumont was with Washington in 1918, was traded to Boston with Ainsmith for Janvrin in the same year and later faded out gently at the Hub.

Dumont, they say, recovered his fast ball at Atlanta, and since he always had an excellent curve, Huggins considers him a better prospect for immediate work than George Pipgras or Oscar Roettger, less experienced boxmen. Dumont is a right-hander.

In the quest for another left-hander to assist Herb Pennock the Yanks are going to make another stab for Jake May, the Vernon slinger. It will be recalled that negotiations last Year were unsuccessful, but at the time the Yanks got an option giving them first call this year. The difficulty is that, because of the draft tangle, no players can be sent in return unless they are subject to draft, and Vernon will never consent to that—unless, of course, the Pacific Coast league should accept the selective process in the Chicago confabs.

Now that the way has been cleared for Mays's exit from the American League, it would not be surprising to find the Giants negotiating for him. With the matter on a strictly cash basis, McGraw would be able to outbid any rivals. But the Napoleon has said that he would take Mays only as a free agent, and it is possible that the Yanks won't consent to give Carl his unconditional release.

Huggins will be here all week. He will leave with Colonel Ruppert and Ed Barrow and the other New York excursionists on the Twentieth Century Limited next Sunday for Chicago.

CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY.

Cleveland Sand-Lot Body Is Oldest in United States.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 3.—The Cleveland Amateur Baseball and Athletic Association, the oldest sand-lot organization in the country, celebrated its fourteenth anniversary tonight. Two hundred and forty-five trophies were distributed to winning amateur baseball teams in the past season.

DURANT DISBANDS TEAM.

Auto Drivers Will Race Their Own Cars in the Future.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 3.—Members of R. C. Durant's team of racing drivers henceforth will perform as individuals, each owning his own car and racing it as an owner.

"With the best interests of the racing game at heart," he said, "I have come to the conclusion that the team should be disbanded. There are a number of reasons for this decision, but the most important is that it will give each of my drivers an opportunity to own his own car and race it as an owner."

Last Thursday's speedway accident, in which the racing car of Harry Harts, a member of the team, killed two men, had nothing to do with his decision, Durant said.

Duty or Pleasure?

IF you dread the thought of climbing into your evening clothes, then there must be something wrong with them. Perhaps they've become too tight, or maybe their lines aren't just up to 1923 standards. The man who owns one of our dinner coats or full-dress suits is rather glad of the opportunity to wear it. He knows it makes him look his best—he knows it's going to feel comfortable—and he knows that no one, however captious, can criticize it on any point of fashion.

DAVIS CUP OFFICIAL REPLIES TO TILDEN

Hackett Censures Article Written by Champion in Lawn Tennis Magazine.

QUESTIONS DOUBLES ABILITY

Letter Shows Star Resented Advice of Committee Given During Cup Match.

William T. Tilden 2d., the national lawn tennis champion, and a member of the United States Davis Cup team for the last four years, is severely taken to task by Harold H. Hackett of the 1923 Davis Cup Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association for criticism passed by the champion of the Davis Cup Committee in the Sept. 15 issue of American Lawn Tennis. Hackett's arraignment of Tilden is contained in a letter in the Nov. 15 issue of American Lawn Tennis, which is scheduled to be placed on sale today. Early proofs of the letter sent by Hackett, who was the Captain of the 1923 United States Davis Cup team that went to England and brought back the trophy, and who held the national doubles title for four years with Fred B. Alexander, have been sent out for publication by the U. S. L. T. A.

The letter follows:

"To the editor of American Lawn Tennis: My attention is called to the article entitled 'Tildens' Passing Shots' in the Sept. 15 issue of American Lawn Tennis, in which he discusses the recent doubles match in the Davis Cup tie against Australia. He says, 'Also suggestions on methods of play would come better at any other time than between the third and fourth sets. It is too late then to change.'

Criticism Uncalled For.

"This seems a rather uncalled for criticism of the Davis Cup Committee, and, furthermore, the last sentence certainly is erroneous.

"I am one of the great majority who considers Tilden not only the greatest singles player of his time, but of all time; still, his doubles game is quite another matter, for he absolutely fails to understand the great fundamental of the doubles game, which is position play.

"Unfortunately Tilden considers himself not only the greatest singles player, but also the greatest doubles player.

"The Davis Cup Committee, which controls the play for the international trophy and the selection of the players, is responsible for the results. If the players fail, the blame, if any, is attached, not to them, but to the committee for a possible faulty selection. The Davis Cup Committee is in much the same position as the manager of a championship baseball team or the head coach of a university football team.

"The players are selected not only for their ability, but also for their knowledge of the game. Tilden, with four national doubles championships behind him, was believed capable of playing the doubles match, in spite of an atrocious performance in the 1922 Davis Cup doubles.

"The fact that he chose to park his intelligent outside the stadium during the doubles match was naturally entirely unexpected by any of the committee.

"To the writer, whose value, if any, to the committee, is to keep an eye on the doubles situation, it seemed that, in spite of the magnificent play of Williams, the American doubles team was doomed to almost certain defeat as early as the beginning of the third set, unless something was done about it, and done quickly.

"Fortunately, in this case the diagnosis was simple and the remedy easy, but the patient balked at taking the medicine, which was good old-fashioned advice between the third and fourth sets, given, perhaps so vehemently that Tilden may have mistaken it for instruction, in which he may have been right at that.

"The writer has always considered it a tennis crime to see a match thrown away that could be readily won by the exercise of the human intelligence.

Tilden Changed Tactics.

"Tilden's final sentence, 'It is too late then to change,' becomes inexplicable in view of what happened during the fourth and fifth sets. After refusing verbally the advice or instruction of the committee during the intermission he went out on the court and proceeded to follow the advice or instruction to the letter, and the result was he played tennis of the highest calibre, and the match was won.

"In view of the fact that Tilden's exhibitions of doubles in the 1922 and 1923 Davis Cup final doubles were probably the poorest exhibitions, with one exception, of any American doubles player since the inception of the Davis Cup in 1900, it would seem to the writer that Tilden should devote more time to improving his doubles play. If he would choose a partner whose game co-ordinated, and played through the principal doubles tournament for a season, he would undoubtedly learn the intricacies of position play and develop the high calibre of team play which is so essential to doubles success. Yours truly, HAROLD H. HACKETT."

COLUMBIA SQUAD TO MEET.

Football Coaches Will Discuss Next Season's Plans Tonight.

With one football season only a few days past, Columbia is beginning to plan for the next campaign, and to that end Percy Haughton has called a meeting of the varsity, junior varsity and freshman squads for tonight in Earl Hall. The head coach will not be present, but James R. Knapp, Chairman of the Football Committee, and Dr. Paul Withington, line coach, will carry his proxy and address the gridiron hopefuls.

Knapp will talk over plans for next season in a general way, telling what the Football Committee intends to do, reviewing the last season and touching on the broader relations of the squad and the student body to the new football system of Haughton. Dr. Withington will speak from the coaches' point of view, and much of his talk will deal with physical condition. Withington is medical director of the team as well as a coach. He will tell the players what will be expected from them in the way of training this Winter and during the Summer, with emphasis on the training in preparation for Spring practice, which will be held at Baker Field in April.

The election of a new captain will not take place for a week or ten days, it was announced yesterday.

NAVY MAY MEET ILLINOIS.

Two-Year Home-and-Home Football Agreement Being Planned.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 3.—The Naval Academy probably will enter into a two-year agreement with the University of Illinois for football games. The tentative arrangement for the first game is that it will be played at Annapolis on Oct. 11, the midshipmen returning the visit in 1925. However, Michigan also is being considered as a possible opponent of the Navy, a game between the two being the wish of Secretary of the Navy Denby, a graduate of Michigan.

One week after the proposed game with Illinois, the Naval Academy will play Princeton at Princeton. The other big games of the 1924 season are Pennsylvania State at Annapolis on Nov. 1 and the Military Academy at a place to be fixed on Nov. 29.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—The University of Illinois eleven, if it accepts its game with the Navy next Fall, will insist that the middies play in the new Illinois Stadium in 1925, football officials said here tonight. Illinois may engage the Navy in the East on Oct. 11, a week before the Michigan-Illinois game, if the game is arranged, it will be the first time in twenty years that the Illini have made a trip East.

600 Candidates for Yale's Winter Sport Teams Meet

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 3.—Yale tonight summoned its Winter sports teams together, about 600 candidates reporting for the track, rifle, boxing, wrestling and gymnasium teams. Plans for indoor activities were outlined to the track candidates by Coach George Connors, Captain Malcolm Douglas and Head Coach Tad Jones of the football team. Captain Ben F. Funk and Coach King addressed the boxing candidates; Captain J. H. Wallace and Coach Winters detailed plans for the matmen; Captain McClement and Coach Toughton spoke to the gymnasium team candidates and Captain F. T. Holmes and Manager D. S. Sanford addressed the rifle squad. Football stars who joined the wrestlers were Milstead, Lovejoy, Esselstyn, Norris, Guernsey and Batty. Captain Kline of the freshman eleven joined the 1927 wrestlers.

ZBYSZKO DEFEATS GERMAN WRESTLER

The Polish Champion Cripples Schikat in Hard Bout—Plestina Beats Stenke.

Wladek Zbyszko, the Polish heavyweight champion, defeated Richard Schikat, massive German wrestler, who recently came to this country with high hopes of winning the world's championship, last night at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, Park Avenue at Thirty-fourth Street. The end came after 1 hour, 9 minutes and 50 seconds of hard and even wrestling, when Zbyszko brought his man to the mat with a toe-hold. A crowd of several thousand fans watched the main bout and the two preliminaries, in which Marin Plestina defeated Hans Stenke, another German giant, in 18 minutes and 10 seconds with a head lock and barlock, and Renato Gardini, Italian heavyweight, threw Yusiff Hussane with a headlock in 18 minutes.

In the main bout it was announced that Schikat weighed 215 pounds, while Zbyszko tipped the scales at three pounds more. The German aspirant for titular honors proved a great surprise to the gallery and won many friends by his speed, skill, strength and ability to balk Zbyszko and wriggle out of the latter's most dangerous holds.

The German has been essentially a Graeco-Roman wrestler and was quite unfamiliar with the catch-as-catch-can style of grappling until he came to this country a few weeks ago. For that reason his cleverness and his ability to hold off the veteran Polish star was quite unexpected. Schikat proved dangerous from the very start and gave Zbyszko many anxious moments, while he surprised the latter time after time by the ease with which he tossed the Pole about.

For more than an hour the men wrestled with little advantage to either contestant. The end came when both men seemed comparatively fresh. After working out of an armlock, Zbyszko manoeuvred until he gained a toe hold in the centre of the ring. The German threw all his strength into an effort to break the hold and gradually worked himself and his opponent to the north ropes.

It was a crushing grip that Zbyszko held and he exerted every ounce of his strength in an effort to terminate the match quickly. Schikat managed to get under the ropes and Referee Roeber called the men to the middle of the ring. So terrific had been the pressure exerted by the Pole that the German was barely able to get to his feet and to hang onto the ropes. He was unable to continue, as he could not bear his weight on his left leg. He was counted out and the bout awarded to Zbyszko.

BOYS' HIGH WINS FROM DE WITT CLINTON SIX

Brilliant Playing of Bronstein Features First Game of New Interscholastic Tourney.

The Boys' High hockey team defeated the De Witt Clinton puck chasers in the opening game of the new Interscholastic Ice Hockey Tournament at the 181st Street Ice Palace last night. The score was 6 to 2. Bronstein, center on the winning team, was the outstanding player of the game, scoring five goals from long range. Greenberg, a substitute, scored the other point for Boys' High. Both the goals made by De Witt Clinton were the result of scrimmages in front of the net. Freeman, right wing, was responsible for one, Dibbs, left defensive, for the other.

The line-up:

| Boys' High (6) | | De Witt Clinton (2) |
|---|---|---|
| Levin | L.D. | Dibbs |
| Levy | L.W. | Freedman |
| Miller | R.D. | Barry |
| Bertoli | R.W. | Freeman |
| Bronstein | C. | Mainardi |
| Fenton | G. | Griffith |

Goals—Bronstein 5, Greenberg, Freeman, Dibbs.

Substitutions—Boys' High: Greenberg for Levin, Sollenger for Miller. De Witt Clinton: Goldstein for Mainardi.

Referee—William Lynch, Middle Atlantic Skating Association. Time of halves—15 minutes.

EASTERN ELEVENS LEAD.

Won 14 Intersectional Games Out of 20 During 1923.

(By The Associated Press.)

Intersectional football furnished many of the thrills of the 1923 gridiron season. All told forty-seven contests involving teams from rival sections of the country were played this season, and although in many instances weak teams of one section met strong teams of another, many football enthusiasts consider the final standing of the sections in these forty-seven games as indicative of comparative football strength of the sections, except in the case of teams of the Far West, only one of which has met an intersectional foe.

Statistics on the forty-seven games show the East to an advantage. Eastern elevens won fourteen of twenty games from Southern opponents, and won ten and tied two with Middle Western teams, scoring a total of 344 points to the combined Southern and Middle Western total of 208 points.

A table of the forty-seven sectional contests follows:

| Section | W. | L. | T. | P.C. | Pts. | Opps. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| East | 14 | 5 | 2 | .681 | 344 | 208 |
| Southwest | 4 | 3 | 0 | .857 | 91 | 84 |
| Middle West | 11 | 10 | 1 | .524 | 251 | 330 |
| South | 6 | 11 | 0 | .353 | 183 | 314 |

CENTENARY SEEKS REVENGE

Southerners Want Return Game With Boston College.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 3.—Anxious to provide better games for the Centenary College football eleven next season, Coach "Bo" McMillan will devote the next few weeks to arranging his 1924 schedule, although a contract has not yet been signed, a second meeting with Boston College, which defeated Centenary 14 to 0 this Fall, is regarded as almost a certainty.

FINK BEATS MORGAN IN FOUR-GAME MATCH

Squash Champion Wins at Princeton Club by 6-15, 15-2, 15-11, 15-10.

HYDE ALSO REACHES FINAL

Eliminates Bull After Five Fast Games—Scores Are 15-11, 17-18, 15-7, 13-15, 15-7.

R. Earl Fink of the Crescent Athletic Club, the national amateur squash tennis champion, and Fillmore Van S. Hyde of the Harvard Club, former title holder, will meet in the final round of the invitation tournament at the Princeton Club tomorrow afternoon at 5:15 o'clock. Yesterday, in the semi-finals, Fink defeated Hewitt Morgan of the Harvard Club in a four-game match at 6—15, 15—2, 15—11, 15—10. Hyde advanced after an exhausting struggle with Charles M. Bull Jr. of the Crescent A. C. that came within a point of ending in the Crimson man's favor in straight games, but which was not decided until two more chapters had been contested. The score was 15-11, 17—18, 15—7, 13—15, 15—7.

The victory of Fink over Morgan was the first scored by the champion in the three times the two players have met this season. Morgan defeated Fink in the Fall scratch tournament and again in the Class A team play. From the start of yesterday's match it looked as though the Crimson star was going to make it three straight. Playing his characteristic easy, waiting game, Morgan put up a flawless defense and placed the ball with consummate skill to win the first game by the one-sided score of 15-6. Six of his points were gained on Fink's errors, most of which were forced, so cleverly did the other manoeuvre him out of position. The nine others were earned, cleanly on placements. Neither man scored on service. The Harvard player made only two errors, one telltale and one out.

Fink Scores Seven Aces.

Fink won the second game in overwhelming fashion, allowing Morgan only one point. The Crescent star, aroused by the class of the first game, played with tremendous speed, smashing the ball with all his power and using a straight up and down ball with such good judgment that Morgan was caught away from the sphere again and again. Seven times Fink aced him cleanly and earned an eighth point on service. The champion did not make a single error in this chapter. It was as fine a performance of clean, uncompromising smashing as the season is likely to provide.

Morgan did not let down in this game. He simply was unable to help himself before the irresistible power of the other's attack. The stroke analysis shows that he was guilty of seven errors, all of them telltales. He was unable to help himself in making most of them. Fink gauged his shots so well that Morgan was forced to hasten to take them almost from the floor and the result was that the ball found the metal strip. The Crimson representative earned the only two points he won on placements.

The third game was a drawn-out affair, both players letting down. Fink's strokes had less steam behind them, while Morgan developed a streak of erratic playing, hitting into the telltale and outside the court on shots that were not hurried. Fink, too, was not hitting as cleanly as before and his strokes found the metal strip five times. But he made two less errors than did Morgan and three more earned points, two on service and one on the margin of four points. With the score 11-10 against him, the champion went out with a run of five points in a single hand.

Morgan Starts Well.

Morgan began so well in the fourth chapter that it appeared as if the match must go to five games. He made five points in a single hand before Fink got one point. He added two more in the next hand, to lead at 7—1, mainly on the other errors. Fink started a rally at this stage and won three points in the next hand. He got two more in the following inning while Morgan was getting one, making the tally 6—6. Fink went into the lead in his next hand when he won six points. Another placement made the score 13—8 in his favor in the next inning, and he added the two points needed for victory while Morgan was getting the same number. A terrific straight wall smash that caught the Harvard man on the other side of the court brought the match to an end.

The match between Hyde and Bull was a smashing duel in which the two men drove the ball up and down and around the court with murderous power, neither showing any inclination to vary pace. So fast was the playing that both men were short of wind again and again even in the early stages. Gets of the most brilliant character were the common thing, and so fast did the ball travel that both players had to keep up on their toes in order to keep out of its path or to make their way to it. Both were hit again and again both by their own shots off the front wall or the opponent's.

HOPPE IS DEFEATED BY HOREMANS, 400-385

Winner Completes String in Ten Innings in an 18.2 Exhibition—Other Results.

Edouard Horemans, Belgian 18.2 balkline billiard champion and a recent contender for the world's title, defeated Willie Hoppe, wearer of the crown, in an exhibition 18.2 match on the Amateur Billiard Club last night by the score of 400 to 385 in ten innings. A crowd of 700 saw the match. Horemans played exceptionally fine billiards, making runs of 107 and 135 and averaging 40. Hoppe got his 385 points in nine innings, averaging 42 7-9.

The champion's best run was 155, made in the sixth inning. His failure on a simple single cushion shot in the ninth-inning cost him his last chance to win the game when he needed only 15 points to go out. Horemans came up and ran 9, bringing the game to an end.

Three games were played in the National Class C 18.2 balkline billiard tournament at the Recreation Academy, Brooklyn, last night. In the first the veteran Louis A. Servatius defeated L. W. Fisher, 150 to 66, in forty-six innings. The winner had a high run of 30, the loser of 15. In the second game L. J. Steinbugler won from H. T. Mathews, 150 to 105, in fifty-four innings. Steinbugler's high run was 20, one better than the others. Frank Grimes won the third game, defeating J. Ward, 150 to 137, in thirty-eight innings. The winner's high run was 22, the loser's 16.

Charles Steinbugler defeated Joseph Johann, the State Class B 18.2 balkline champion, last night in the opening game of the interstate Class B 18.2 balklines tournament at Lawler Brothers' Academy in Brooklyn. The score was 200 to 108. Steinbugler went out in thirty-eight innings and made a high run of 20. Johann's best run was 16.

In the afternoon game of the New York State professional pocket billiard championship at Lawler Brothers' Academy yesterday, Tom Mereaca defeated L. Wallace, 100 to 97, in eleven frames. The winner had a high run of 34, the loser of 14. Charles Harmon defeated Walter Townsend in the evening game, 100 to 68, in twelve frames. Harmon had a high run of 53, to 16 for his opponent.

Carl Vaughan and Edward Fagan won the two games played last night in the Eastern pocket billiard championship at the Society of Professional Auto Engineers last night. Vaughan defeated L. Hurd, 100 to 62, in 31 innings, making a high run of 22, to 17 for Hurd. Fagan won from Maurice Wood in a closely contested game that was decided at the score of 100 to 93 in 37 innings. Each man had a high run of 14.

In the first game of the final round robin of the three-cushion tournament at Doyle's Broadway and Forty-first Street Academy last night, George Barton defeated Victor Mangin, 25 to 23.

Three games were played in the James A. Thomas Trophy Club handicap 18.2 balkline tournament at the Hoppe-Peterson Club last night. William Becks defeated R. Kennedy, 140 to 133, in 37 innings. The winner's high run was 10, the loser's 16. Max F. Turner won from S. Levy, 140 to 107, in the third game R. Swenarton defeated H. Kammer, 140 to 130.

In the Tammany Hall 18.2 balkline tournament at the Twentieth Street Academy last night, R. Del Rio defeated L. Draun, 125 to 69, in 38 innings, and Philip H. Meise defeated J. # Cleveland Basketball League May Have 800 Teams This Year

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4 (Associated Press).—Cleveland had a basketball organization made up of 622 teams playing regularly under official supervision last season, with indications that at least 800 teams will be playing this season, according to John H. Gourley of the Cleveland Recreation Council. The list includes church leagues, with 128 teams. The 622 teams last season did not include the high schools, junior highs, colleges and a large number of independent quintets.

BELMONT ENTRIES INCREASE FOR 1924

Racing Secretary Reports 2,242 Nominations for Next Year's Stake Events.

Victor E. Schaumburg, Acting Racing Secretary of the Westchester Racing Association announced yesterday that 2,242 entries have been received for the stakes which will be run at Belmont Park next season, which is an increase of fifty-five over the total received for the same events contested during the 1923 season. The stakes closed on Nov. 26, and numerous distant points are still to be heard from.

While there is an increased entry for most of the stakes, the Juvenile Stakes shows a falling off of thirty-nine and the Keene Memorial of twenty-three. The Fashion also fell off twenty-five entries. There is a big increase in the Bouquet and the Jockey Club Gold Cup, while the entry for the Withers is exactly the same. All of the prominent stables of the country are represented, and the entry presages another great season of racing.

A summary of the entries received thus far, as compared with last year's totals, follows:

| | 1923. | 1924. |
|---|---|---|
| The Metropolitan Handicap | 78 | 104 |
| The Suburban Handicap | 60 | 88 |
| The Toboggan Handicap | 82 | 91 |

DUSTABOUT TAKES THE KINNER PURSE

Friars Inn Stable Entry Captures New Orleans Feature by Six Lengths.

PARKE PILOTS THE WINNER

Also Scores on King O'Neil II. in Opening Race and Places in Two Others.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 3.—Dustabout, a three-year-old brown colt by Sweep-Kouie, owned by the Friars Inn Stable and ably ridden by Ivan Parke, this afternoon won the Kinner Purse at Jefferson Park with the greatest ease. The colt ran the mile and seventy yards in 1:48 4-5 over a heavy track and beat E. Trotter's Post Haste by the wide margin of six lengths. The finish was a procession, as C. A. Coyle's four-year-old colt Hermis Kemble was five lengths back, to take the short end of the money.

Only three went to the post in the feature race of the program, Lady Madcap, Best Pal and High Speed having been scratched. They were sent away to a good start, and Hermis Kemble at once went to the front. The son of Prince Hermis showed good early speed, but quit badly after going six furlongs.

Dustabout was away last, and was hard ridden from the rise of the barrier. Parke saved a lot of ground with the colt before reaching the stretch turn, where he took command, winning easily and with much in reserve. Post Haste was held under hard restraint by Wallace for five furlongs and lost ground by going wide, being hard ridden in the stretch run.

Post Haste, which carried top weight of 106 pounds, was the odds-on favorite, closing at 7 to 10. Hermis Kemble was at 2 to 1, and Dustabout, which was the lightweight with 100 pounds up, was an outsider at 6 to 1.

Ivan Parke continued his sensational riding. In addition to his success on Dustabout, the young apprentice brought King O'Neil II. home in front in the opening number, was third on Mr. Beck in the second race, and second on Thorndale in the third race. He was thus in the money with all four of his mounts.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For two-year-olds; maidens; purse, $700; five and one-half furlongs. King O'Neil II., 118 pounds (Parke), 8 to 5, 2 to 5, 1 to 5, first; Gee, 118 (Frona), 6 to 1, 7 to 10, second; Zanalbar, 118 (Mooney), 7 to 5, third. Time—1:10 4-5. Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 3.—To Edgar T. Appleby, holder of the international amateur 18.2 balkline billiard championship, went the honor today of winning the opening game of the first national amateur 18.1 balkline billiard tournament ever held.

Appleby proved himself a worthy master of this difficult and exacting style of billiards by defeating Edward W. Gardner, seven times national Class A champion, 250 to 238, in forty-six innings at the Newark A. C. this afternoon, after the veteran had secured a lead of thirty-one points in the thirty-first inning of play and seemed reasonably certain of victory.

The winner had a high run of twenty-four which he amassed in the fifth inning, and his average for the game was 5 20-46. Gardner had the highest run of the game, a 28, which put him in the lead in the twenty-ninth inning, after he had trailed Appleby practically all the time up to that point. Gardner's average was 5 13-45.

Appleby More Consistent.

The international champion proved to be more consistent than his rival, and he also excelled Gardner at safety play. In the last two innings, however, Appleby was visibly nervous under the strain of the uphill fight, but he cleverly got the balls together at the head of the table and went out in an unfinished run of five.

Appleby won the bank and chose the spot ball. He ran eleven and missed on a difficult draw shot at the lower end of the table. Gardner, in his turn at the table, ran nine, and then also missed on a draw shot.

Appleby was playing better billiards than Gardner at this point. The young international 18.2 titleholder displayed better control of the ivories, and his position play was superb. In the fourth inning he ran thirteen, and then made a beautiful masse shot. He made twenty-one for the inning before missing on a single-cushion carom. In the following inning Appleby made his high run of twenty-four, and at the close of the inning he led Gardner, 68 to 47.

With the ninth inning Gardner began to find himself, and he made several good runs, two of them netting 18 points. This put him in the lead in the thirteenth inning, but in the next inning Appleby clicked off 15 and once again assumed the lead.

Gardner Takes Lead.

In the twenty-seventh inning Gardner got control of the balls and nursed them for a run of 13. He added two single-cushion caroms to this for a total of 17 for the inning. In the twenty-ninth Gardner got his high run of 28 and forged to the front. He widened the gap in the next inning by getting 15 more. On his sixteenth shot, however, he had the misfortune to miss an easy straight billiard shot, and from there on the tide turned against him.

Both men indulged in repeated safety play at this stage of the game, but Appleby succeeded in collecting the balls in the forty-third for a run of 17, and followed this with a run of 15 in the forty-fourth. He clinched the game with an unfinished run of 5 in the forty-sixth.

The score by innings:

Appleby—11 3 4 21 24 0 1 2 6 3 1 16 3 15 1 0 13 1 6 2 23 2 2 0 0 2 12 0 9 2 0 15 0 0 0 6 0 7 1 1 2 0 0 4 17 15 1 5—250. Average, 5 20-46. High run, 24.

Gardner—6 12 1 21 4 0 0 1 10 18 5 18 14 0 1 0 1 0 16 3 3 0 1 6 0 15 6 28 15 5 1 0 0 3 0 0 0 1 0 4 9 1 0 7—238. Average, 5 13-45. High run, 28.

Clinton Is Victor.

In the evening match John A. Clinton of Pittsburgh, holder of the national amateur 18.2 high run and high average records, defeated Jacob Klinger of the Liederkranz Club, former amateur champion of Southern Europe, by a score of 250 to 125 in thirty-five innings.

Clinton won the bank, but drew a blank in his first turn at the table. Klinger countered with a run of 3, but on his next turn at the table Clinton ran 13, his position play being extremely accurate until he missed on a single cushion carrom. Klinger ran 11 in his turn.

In the fourth inning Klinger ran 18 and took the lead. Both men experienced trouble in collecting the balls until the tenth inning, when Clinton got them in position at the lower end of the table and ran 25. After he had made his twenty-fifth carrom, the white ball and cue ball were frozen and Clinton called for the balls to be spotted, but missed the shot. This run put Clinton in the lead, 71 to 40, at the end of the tenth inning.

Clinton, after a series of safety plays, increased his advantage in the twentieth inning, and got the balls together for a run of 23. At the end of the twentieth inning he was leading Klinger 108 to 65.

There was nothing of the spectacular about Clinton's game, but he was playing steady, consistent billiards and employing just the right amount of English on his cushion shots. Klinger, on the other hand, experienced difficulty with his draw strokes and was unable to hold the balls in position for a long run.

In the thirty-second inning Clinton got his high run of the evening, a cluster of thirty-one, and in this inning led Klinger 222 to 100. Clinton then made two successive runs of seventeen and ten and in the thirty-fourth inning missed a three cushion shot when he needed but a single point to run out his turn. Klinger made eighteen, one of his two high runs of the game, but Clinton went out in his next turn. The final score was 250 to 125 in favor of Clinton.

The score by innings:

Clinton—0 13 1 15 0 5 14 1 4 25 0 1 0 0 5 0 1 0 3 2 0 2 16 7 10 2 2 2 17 1 0 1 31 17 10 1—250. Average, 7 6-35. High run, 31.

SIX MATCHES FOR STEVENS.

Wrestling Team Will Have Practice Meet Saturday.

The Stevens Tech wrestling team will engage in six matches this season, according to the schedule announced yesterday by Manager Dezyn. The Engineers appear to have a promising array of varsity material with which to start the season. The Lenox Hill A. A. will furnish a practice meet for the varsity Saturday. The schedule follows:

Jan. 5, C. C. N. Y. at Brown, Providence; 12, C. C. N. Y. at New York.
Jan. 19, Army at West Point; 26, Brooklyn Poly; 31, N. Y. U.

France to Depend on Mourlon In Olympic 200-Meter Race

The French are pinning their Olympic hopes in the 200-meter event on André Mourion. He will represent the Tricolor in all the sprints and dashes, probably, but it is in this event that Paris critics think he may equal or break the world's record set by Paddock. The reason for this sudden optimism on the part of Paris publications is the performance of the star in an event of 183 meters, equivalent to 200 yards. He ran the distance in 19 4-5 seconds and although this has been accepted officially there is no standing record for 183 meters in France. Best times on the distance have been kept and will continue to be filed, but no title is carried with the event. The best previous time on record in France was set in 1906 by Lesieur, who ran the distance in 20 3-5. The best English mark for the distance is 19 2-5. He expects to make a strong bid for premier honors in the Olympics.

BIG TEN COMMITTEE TO NAME OFFICIALS

Power Is Transferred From Football Coaches to Central Organization.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (Associated Press).—The selection of officials for 1924 Western Conference football games is to be taken out of the hands of the coaches and handled by a Big Ten Committee, similar to the system by which major league baseball umpires receive assignments.

The Faculty committee decided on the new plan of selecting officials as a result of the demonstration which followed a decision in the Michigan-Wisconsin game. Some of the older coaches in the conference, it was said, were responsible for the suggestion that resulted in the adoption of the new plan.

Professor Ralph W. Aigler of the University of Michigan and Professor B. J. Lambert of the University of Iowa, together with Major John L. Griffith, Commissioner of Athletics, will form the committee to choose all the officials for all games instead of having them selected by the respective coaches, as has been the custom.

The committee, Major Griffith said tonight, will meet here soon to draw up an approved list from the names submitted by conference athletic directors. From this list, which is expected to include twenty-five or thirty, four officials for each game will be designated by the committee for the 1924 season.

Under the new arrangement the football officials will carry the authority of the Faculty committees of the Big Ten, and will not be responsible to either the coaches or directors of athletics. The coaches will not have anything to say in regard to the selection of officials for any individual game except to submit a list of officials to the committee.

Having been chosen without reference to the rival coaches, the officials, it is felt, will represent the authority of the Big Ten, and disputes over rulings will be largely avoided.

CHICAGO ELECTS GOWDY.

Football Team Names Tackle as Captain for Next Year.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Franklin Gowdy of St. Joseph, Mich., star tackle on the University of Chicago football eleven, today was elected Captain of the 1924 eleven, succeeding Jimmy Pyott. Gowdy has played tackle for two seasons, winning his letter both years.

STOUT WILL LEAD 1924 TIGER TEAM

Star End of Last Two Seasons Is Chosen to Captain Princeton Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 3.—At a meeting of the letter men of the 1923 Princeton varsity here today, Edmund C. Stout Jr. of East Orange, N. J., was elected captain of the 1924 eleven. Stout, who has played at right end for two years, has been one of the most consistent players on the Tiger eleven and received mention for all Eastern honors both this season and last. In addition to playing football, Stout held down a wing post on the hockey sextet last year and is again a candidate for the hockey team. In freshman year he starred as catcher on the yearling baseball team.

He prepared for Princeton at the Hotchkiss School, and holds the office of junior class president, as well as being a member of his class prom committee. In leading the Tiger eleven through one of the hardest schedules ever made for an Orange and Black team, Stout will have the assistance of several men who have played the last two years. Howard at tackle and Dinsmore at quarterback have been letter men for two years, as have also Beattie, halfback, and Caldwell, halfback and centre.

Willie Wingate, substitute quarterback, and Sax Tillson, a second string end, are classmates of Stout's and have been on the squad for two seasons. Among the sophomores who won their varsity letters this year and who will return next Fall are Gates, Crago, Caulkins and Williams, providing a nucleus of letter men about which to build the 1924 team.

HOLY CROSS MAY BUILD.

Contemplates Erecting a Football Stadium Seating 50,000.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 3.—The outpouring of 50,000 football fans for the Holy Cross-Boston College game at Braves Field this year may result in Holy Cross taking steps very shortly toward the erection of a modern football field at South Worcester to seat 50,000 persons at a cost of approximately $300,000, so that the game may be played every other year on the Purple's home gridiron, according to the Rev. James J. Carlin, S. J., President of the college, in a statement today.

DARTMOUTH TO PLAY CORNELL TEAM HERE

Rival Elevens Will Meet at the Polo Grounds—McGill Also on Green's Schedule.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 3.—Yale, Harvard, Cornell and Brown will be Dartmouth's main opponents on the gridiron in 1924, according to the schedule which was announced by the athletic council this afternoon. Due to several reasons which were explained in a statement accompanying the schedule, Dartmouth and Columbia will not repeat their Thanksgiving Day game in New York. M. A. Norton, graduate manager of athletics, made the following announcement:

"The council regrets that there should be any interruption of our football relations with Columbia, and this regret is intensified by the spirited and manly contest of last week," the statement said. "But Dartmouth's location makes it more apparent year by year that many of our important games must be played in what for other institutions is mid-season. Therefore the best interests of the players and indeed of the whole student body require that our schedule should ordinarily be completed by the middle of November. For these reasons the council was obliged to decline a very cordial invitation from Columbia to play again on Thanksgiving Day in 1924."

"Dartmouth will have one game in New York, however, as Cornell will close the Green schedule at the Polo Grounds on Nov. 13. This means that the Dartmouth season will close about two weeks earlier than it did this year.

"According to a tradition, Norwich will open the season in Hanover on Sept. 27. For the first time in two years an intersectional game will be played. McGill will come down from Montreal on Oct. 4.

The schedule follows:

Sept. 27—Norwich.
Oct. 4—McGill; 11, Vermont; 18, Yale at New Haven; 25, Harvard at Cambridge.
Nov. 1—Brown; 8, to be filled; 15, Cornell at New York.

CENTRE ELECTS COVINGTON.

Star Quarterback Chosen Captain of Next Year's Eleven.

DANVILLE, Ky., Dec. 3.—Herbert Covington of Mayfield, Ky., was elected captain of the Centre College football team for 1924 by a unanimous vote of his team mates. Recognized as one of the leading broken-field runners in the South, Covington has been Centre's chief gridiron scorer the last two years and during that time won places on the All-Southern mythical eleven as quarterback.

Raising the Standard of the Automobile and Accessory Dealer

Cosmopolitan has developed a genuine dealer interest of utmost value to car, tire and accessory makers

ADVERTISERS in all lines of trade willingly admit Cosmopolitan's tremendous reader interest. They admit, too, that this reader interest is readily convertible into buying interest that is just as great.

But for advertisers in the automobile and allied fields, Cosmopolitan holds even more than an enormous circulation of responsive readers. It has a very definite dealer interest that automobile and accessory manufacturers count on largely for results.

And it is only logical that this should be true.

Cosmopolitan has done more for automobile and accessory dealers than any other national publication in America.

Making Better Business Men

For instance—three times a year every accredited dealer in the automotive industry receives gratis from Cosmopolitan a publication known as Cosmopolitan Dealer Service. This describes for his benefit the business methods that have proved most effective—it covers sales helps—accounting methods—window and salesroom displays—industrial news of particular interest to the dealer. In fact it covers any thing and everything that will tend to make the automobile and accessory dealer a well-informed merchant, capable of conducting his business on an up-to-date, profitable basis.

The first issue of Cosmopolitan Dealer Service—dated February is mailed one week before the New York show. This enables the manufacturer to acquaint his dealers with his new policies for the coming year and with his show announcements.

The second issue, out late in April, reaches over 25,000 dealers just as the big selling season is getting under way, furnishing him with material and thoughts that will help him to make the most of his immediate opportunity.

The last issue of the year goes out in September, when the summer selling curve has started downward and when dealers need help and encouragement in making their winter sales drive.

Real Dealer Influence

Dealers throughout the country lean towards Cosmopolitan because they know it to be a magazine that has their interests at heart—because it is fighting their fight—because it is driving on a service of known value to them.

Automobile and accessory manufacturers find that in addition to an undeniable ability to produce quick buying action, Cosmopolitan has won a place in the dealer's estimation that is second to none in the national field—that Cosmopolitan is a very vital force in helping to win dealer enthusiasm and dealer co-operation.

21 Booklets Like This

Each is written about automobiles—their construction, operation and care. And to date, something over 200,000 of them have been sold—not given away—to Cosmopolitan readers through the single page of Cosmopolitan's Motoring Service which appears in the advertising section of this magazine each month.

Through this same page Cosmopolitan's Motoring Service also has sold thousands of maps covering all the well known motor routes. Each month, too, the page includes an invitation to Cosmopolitan readers to lay their motoring problems before Cosmopolitan's Motoring Service. This results in thousands of letters a month from car owners, or those interested in purchasing a car—asking information and advice.

Don't confuse Cosmopolitan's Motoring Service with Cosmopolitan Dealer Service. They are entirely separate and different activities. One is largely consumer and the other is entirely for trade.

But taken together, the results obtained by these two Cosmopolitan Services are a far greater endorsement of Cosmopolitan's great value as an automobile and accessory advertising medium than any investigation that could be devised.

THE BLOCADE OF THE HOUSE.

The Senate sat three-quarters of an hour yesterday and then adjourned in respect for the three Senators who had died in the recess. What the Senate really did was to show respect for public opinion and its own dignity by not resorting to a wrangle about the election of the President of the Senate. The Senate will be ready to hear President COOLIDGE deliver his message. But in the House the Progressive bloc preferred to advertise itself and its insatiable passion for more places on the committees. So it prevented the election of Speaker GILLETT. Nominating Mr. COOPER of Wisconsin for Speaker, Mr. BROWN of Wisconsin said: "We nominate him, not that we expect to elect him, but as a protest against the rules of the House."

That is a singular way of protesting against those rules. There is nothing in them that prevents the majority of the House from having its will in regard to bills in committee. In reality what the Progressive bloclet complains of is that as a very feeble minority, of which the opinions are not Republican opinions, which is nothing but a puppet of Mr. LA FOLLETTE and belongs, if it belongs anywhere, to the Farmer-Labor Party, it can't force its program upon the majority. There has never been a more absolute boss than Mr. LA FOLLETTE or a more masterful master machinist. It is ludicrous for this machine organization to assume high tragic airs of virtue. The methods and the purposes of these patriots are too well known.

How long will they dare to stick to their little game? The country will not be patient with tactics of obstruction that delay the organization of the House, the delivery of the message before both chambers, and instant preparation for the vital business of tax reduction. The Progressive show is ill-timed. It can't be taken off the stage too soon.

DIGGING DITCHES TOO EARLY.

Our old Truepenny friend, The American Economist, declares that free traders have been "driven into the last ditch" by the English general election. With Great Britain "on the point of adopting a protective tariff "as its settled policy," the organ of the American Protective Tariff League wonders where such newspapers as THE NEW YORK TIMES "will turn for inspiration and support." Why, they will turn to The American Economist, where they will also find a great deal of humorous enjoyment. The kind of protection proposed by Prime Minister BALDWIN is of a piddling sort that would seem to American high priests of the doctrine only a miserable delusion. Furthermore, the English Conservatives themselves admit that on the naked issue of free trade they would be beaten by a majority of a million or more. Their only hope is to get back into office by taking advantage of a divided opposition, and, if they do, and set about levying higher tariff taxes, their troubles will be thicker than ever, and they will be headed for defeat in the House of Commons.

Supposing, however, that they are able to pass a bill such as Mr. BALDWIN has advocated, what will be its effect upon American protectionists? They are the ones most likely to be found reposing in the last ditch. For Mr. BALDWIN has repeatedly declared that what he wants is material with which to bargain with protectionist countries and compel them to lower their tariffs. If he should find himself in a position to carry out this plan, and should refuse to allow American wheat and cotton and copper to enjoy free entry into Great Britain, unless the United States cut in half the duties on British textiles, for example, the nervous upset of The American Economist may easily be imagined. It would need to turn somewhere for consolation, as well as inspiration, and would be pretty certain to present the spectacle of grieving for its protective taxes, and refusing to be comforted because they were not.

THE TESTIMONY OF EXPERIENCE.

Because Judge GARY, in a magazine article, gives it as his opinion that the business outlook for 1924 is good, some people have professed to detect him in an inconsistency. In his address at the Town Hall last week he laid great stress on the need of cutting down taxes in order to strike off certain fetters from American industry. But if the prospect is so bright even with high taxes, why worry about them? Yet in the very article referred to, Judge GARY alluded to various "hindrances" to prosperity, and listed prominently among them "the unreasonably high and burdensome taxes." He did not intimate that business was going to be ruined by them, but did assert that it was visibly hampered by them. They constitute one of the obstacles which enterprise and skilled management seek to do their best to get over, but obstacles they are, just the same, and obstacles they will remain.

The peculiar value of utterances on the taxation question by men like Judge GARY is that they lay before the country the testimony of practical experience. They know whereof they affirm. In their own business, as in the conduct of other industries with which they are familiar, they have seen the absolute demonstration of the truth of what they say. They have perceived and studied the actual operation of high taxes. The effect has been repeatedly shown to be, under their observation, to increase unconscionably the cost of production, by pushing up the prices of material and the wages of labor, while at the same time high taxes cause capital to be locked up and industry checked or crippled. All this is no theoretical inference on the part of these hard-headed men of affairs, though, in fact, the best theories of taxation predict just such consequences as we are now witnessing, but an inevitable conclusion from the concrete facts which have been forced upon their attention in the practical course of business year after year.

Confirmation of their views is to be found in a paper written by the late Governor MCCALL of Massachusetts to be read by him before the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in Concord, N. H. It was read there by proxy after his death. Judging by the extracts printed, it contained a great deal of the sound political philosophy, expressed in vigorous language, which was characteristic of Mr. MCCALL. Particularly to the point is what he had to say about the follies and evils of high taxes. He declared that people in general do not fully realize how profoundly exorbitant taxation affects the prosperity of any nation, and even, in the lapse of time, alters its very institutions. Governmental extravagance and excessive taxation have brought low more than one mighty country. Governor MCCALL pointed to Italy as an ancient but still visible example of what could be done by high taxes to cause industries to be abandoned; and he referred to similar processes going on in England today as a result of the extreme levies which the Government makes upon the property and income of individual citizens. Here, too, we have the voice of experience instructing us as to the harmful and inescapable results of taxation made so high as to defeat its own professed ends and to bring upon the people unforeseen and endless burdens.

THE IMMIGRANT QUOTAS.

It is announced by Congressman JOHNSON that a bill has been prepared and will at once be introduced providing for certain changes in the immigrant quota law. Some of the modifications indicated suggest that at any rate the most obvious absurdities and the worst inhumanities of the present law will be eliminated. The admission of a father and mother, for example, coming from one country, but the barring of their child born during a stay in another country whose quota was full; the spending of three out of four months by an immigrant as a woman without a country on the high seas and the fourth month in detention at Ellis Island—these are but illustrations, and not the most extreme, of the unhappy and unjust results of the literal application of the present law.

It is now proposed to exempt parents and children of American citizens from the quota count and also bona fide students. It is likewise intended to permit aliens who have their first papers in the United States to apply for the admission of husband, wife and children. These provisions are most wholesome. And the amendment to give clear legislative sanction for the admission of bona fide students, which is now made possible through administrative practice on the giving of a satisfactory bond, is also desirable from every point of view. Wise provisions are also intimated looking to an examination of prospective immigrants in the lands from which they wish to come to the United States, though the machinery for this selection is not indicated in the reports.

All this is to the good. But the proposed shift from the census of 1910 to the census of 1890 as a basis for fixing the quota for each national group, together with a general percentage reduction from 3 per cent. to 2 per cent., will put in jeopardy the adoption of the important though minor provisions to which all would undoubtedly agree. Under the lower percentage, says Mr. JOHNSON, the number to be admitted will "not be quite so many." But 2 per cent. of the foreign-born population in 1890 would be less than half of 3 per cent. of the foreign-born population of 1910. Moreover, there would be obviously a very marked change in the relative numbers of the various nationals. For example, there was a larger number of foreign-born Germans in 1890 than in 1910, whereas the Italian foreign-born increased from less than 200,000 in 1890 to over 1,300,000 in 1910, and the Russian and Finnish from less than 200,000 to over 1,700,000. The foreign-born from the northern European countries were of about the same number in 1910 as in 1890, but the vast increase during the two decades from Southern and Eastern Europe would change the relative quotas markedly. Thus what is proposed is a radical change, going to the very root of our immigration policy. It is more than a "weeding out" of the "socially inadequate" on the other side, to use Mr. JOHNSON'S phrases, and more than an elimination of the offensive administrative regulations on this side. It is virtually a new appraisement of "nationals."

POST OFFICE BUSINESS.

The Post Office Department reports its usual deficit, but by way of novelty states that it is $30,000,000 less than the previous year. The Post Office is not run for profit, and the deficit therefore measures service rendered at the cost of taxpayers. This year the deficit is halved on a business greatly increased, so that this particular deficit is not chargeable to inefficiency or to a system of accounting far from admirable. Compared with the last peace year the weight of the mails has increased fivefold. The revenues have only doubled, and the employes have increased by varying percentages to a maximum of 57 per cent. for the clerks and 27 per cent. for the letter carriers.

The chief cause of these changes is the parcel-post business. Inevitably, it led to a deficit. On this head the Postmaster General says "there is no "sound reason why the Government "should conduct a parcel business, so "analogous to express, on principles "other than those of sound business." Critics of the Post Office may console themselves with the cheapness with which our parcels are carried, or alternatively may demand higher rates. They would be as popular as higher freight rates for the farmers. Postmaster General New adds that banks should pay the full cost of the transmission of money, since it, along with the operation of savings banks, stands on a different basis from the mailing of newspapers and letters. His recommendations in detail await the results of a cost-accounting inquiry, which is under way. It would help with the deficit if the 45,000 tons of franked matter were charged up to Congressmen. There is no reason why the Government should pay their campaign expenses.

Our ocean mail carriers earned $563,150 from our Government, but the mails shipped from abroad earned $7,024 only. About one-third of the appropriation for carriage of foreign mails is paid to vessels of foreign registry, whereas foreign Governments paid to our ocean carriers only $7,024. Two of our vessels received 90 cents each. It is annoying that foreign Governments should favor their own ships even when it means delay of the mails.

RISING MOTOR VEHICLE FATALITIES.

The tally of fatal motor vehicle accidents in the United States in 1922 sent out from Washington seems belated. One would like to bring it up to date, so rapidly does the number of such vehicles increase. The Washington count was made for the "census registration area of the United "States, which contains 85 per cent. "of the population." So the bureau figures are necessarily far from complete. They show that 21,066 persons were killed, an increase of 1,498 over the total for 1921. The death rate was 12.5 per 100,000 of population, as compared with 11.5 the year before. In 1917 the rate was 9 per 100,000. It does not follow that drivers were more careless in 1922 than in 1917. The number of motor vehicles in use was very much greater in 1922, and, on the basis of the ratio of increase in population between 1910 and 1920, there were 7,000,000 more people in the continental United States in 1922 than in 1917.

Los Angeles had the highest death rate among the cities last year, 29.5 per 100,000. It is somewhat of a shock to be told that New Jersey, whose Motor Vehicle Commissioner, WILLIAM DILL, is one of the most alert and efficient in the country, furnishes in Camden the city which is listed second, with a death rate of 27.9 per 100,000. Then comes Memphis with 25 and Atlanta with 24.7. Something must be radically wrong with Memphis, for its rate increased 9.9 over 1921. But New Bedford, in the State which is supposed to have the best automobile law, shows an increase of 9.3. Some cities show a decrease: Lowell, one of 12.3 per 100,000; Norfolk, Va., 9.2; Albany, 8.8; Spokane, 8.6. Obviously, the traffic regulations in these places are practical and well enforced. A list of States exhibiting rate decreases is given: Connecticut, 0.6 per 100,000; Massachusetts, 0.8; Montana, 0.2; Virginia, the same, and Washington, 2.3. The rate increase in the other States ranges from 0.4 per 100,000 in Louisiana to 3 in Delaware and Maryland and 3.2 in Michigan. With the exception of Fall River, Hartford and Bridgeport, in which no change in the rate was reported, and with the exceptions noted above, there were increases in city death rates, the comparison being made with 1921: Boston, 3.3 per 100,000; Philadelphia, 3.9; Chicago, 1.5; Newark, 2.8; Providence, 4.9; San Francisco, 4.2; Washington, 2.05; Atlanta, 6.4.

New York State had the largest number of deaths from automobile accidents. The total was 1,788, to be compared with 1,632 in 1921 and 1,092 in 1917. In the five boroughs of this city there were 890 deaths in 1922, as compared with 885 in 1921 and 551 in 1917. If the ratio keeps up we shall soon have twice as many fatal accidents in the greater city as in 1917. The year 1923 will show more fatalities than 1922, judging from figures collected by the National Highways Protective Association. In October 221 persons were killed by motor vehicles in this State, 84 in New York City. Since Jan. 1 the total up to Nov. 1 was 1,947 in the State, 159 more for ten months than the total for all of 1922. No less than 866 children under 16 were killed in the State by motor vehicles from Jan. 1 to Nov. 1. Colonel EDWARD S. CORNELL of the National Highways Protective Association has inveighed against the motor vehicle laws in New York as falling far short of what they should be. He would have every candidate for the Legislature pledge himself to advocate needed amendments.

A REACTIONARY POLE.

All liberals must hate France; this is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it—hate Poland. Liberals may feel a tepid admiration for Czechoslovakia, or Yugoslavia, or Rumania, though few do; but France and Poland must be hated by all who want to keep their party standing. And among all Poles none is hated more thoroughly than ROMAN DMOWSKI, the able gentleman who led the Polish delegation at the Peace Conference, and who after an interlude in private life is now Foreign Minister.

He made his first speech to the Foreign Affairs Commission of the Polish Diet about two weeks ago, and justified all the harsh things that had been said about him. For he made the most reactionary of declarations—that the first duty of the Government was to save money. There were, he said, two fundamental facts underlying the necessary foreign policy of Poland. The first was that the nation's boundaries had been established; consequently it was necessary, from now on, to have peace. The second fact of foreign policy was that the most urgent question was not in foreign policy at all, but in domestic policy—the need of rehabilitating the national finances. This also means that Poland must have peace. Consequently Foreign Minister DMOWSKI lays down the cardinal principle that Poland must strictly observe the treaties and must not interfere in the domestic affairs of other countries; thus nullifying the confident predictions of any number of infallible prophets that Poland is about to interfere, somehow or other, in the affairs of Germany.

If a liberal announces a policy of peace, he is hailed as a hero of reconstruction; but if a conservative speaks up for peace, he is a black reactionary trying to hold on to his ill-gotten gains. DMOWSKI can expect no credit from British or American liberals on that score; and when he couples with peace a demand for economy he writes himself down as nothing less than a Wicked Old Man.

DOLLS FOR BOYS.

There is nothing that professors don't touch and adorn. It is a pleasure to hear Professor JOHNSON of the Harvard Graduate School say that "the educational status of dolls is "enormous. They educate the heart "and will even more than the intel-"lect." Why are these boons of heart-training and will-training refused to so large an extent or neglected by boys? Dolls are found all over the world, in all states of civilization or the want of it. Some learned gentleman has taken a survey of the doll population. According to his census there are twelve female dolls to one male doll. Why is this thus and was it always thus? Cortes came upon MONTEZUMA and his courtiers when they were educating themselves with dolls of great majesty and art. We mustn't on that account attribute to dolls the fall of Aztec civilization. That may have been due to pulque.

The Arabs, a strong and manly race, were much given to dolls. It is said that MAHOMET educated himself by playing with the dolls of his child-wife, AYESHA. Since East and West have met in a common devotion to prohibition, the example of the prophet must be held in respect in the West. Psychologists say that the use of dolls by girls isn't a manifestation always of the maternal instinct. In fact, a doll may stand for anybody. In a sense it may be regarded as an adjunct or "property" of the imaginative and dramatic instinct, of the theatre in which children live and act. There have been times when masculine swells wore earrings and carried muffs. Why shouldn't manly sentiment and heroic enterprise be stimulated in boys by appropriate dolls? They could have effigies of JACK DEMPSEY and Babe RUTH or of contemporary dragon-slayers and giant-killers like HIRAM JOHNSON or Mr. LA FOLLETTE.

One thing seems certain. Either both boys and girls must have dolls, or neither can be allowed to have them. There must be equality in the possession or non-possession of these gifts of educational status. Here is a problem, possibly another constitutional amendment, for the National Woman's Party.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

More People Are Using Checks.

From the frequency of attacks on the carriers of money through the streets there seems likely to come one good result, or rather two—the change from cash to check payments by a large number of employers, with a consequent reduction of opportunities by which the hold-up men can profit, and the opening of checking accounts by many people who now know little or nothing about banks except those for the more or less nearly permanent deposit of small savings.

This change has been made somewhat difficult in the past by several things, among them the antagonism of certain labor unions, the disinclination of many industrial and other workers to alter their long-established habits as to receiving, handling and paying out their earnings, and, most influential of all, perhaps, the difficulties which the banks, or most of them, have put in the way of opening checking accounts likely to carry only small balances.

None of these obstacles is insuperable. The unions can devise new methods of collecting their dues, and the man or woman who once has a checking account will find that it has many advantages, for, besides that of giving increased safety, it also adds to the possessor's dignity and financial status.

As for the banks, hitherto they have insisted that small accounts were carried at a loss, and either have refused them altogether or have made a monthly charge sufficiently large to be held prohibitive by most small depositors. Now, according to a correspondent of THE TIMES, who, being among the certified public accountants and President of their society, should be well informed, new methods of handling accounts have so decreased the expense that banks are inviting the patronage of the small depositor as never before. That will be good news for everybody except the hold-up men.

Benefits to All Involved.

In the letter referred to Mr. BANKS mentions as among the benefits of check payments that which the shopkeeper gets who cashes the checks of his customers. He has less need to carry money to the bank and less money taken in after banking hours to keep overnight in his store or at home. As Saturday is payday for many workers, they can confer a favor, rather than accept a service, when they exchange their checks for money which the shopkeeper otherwise would have himself to hold over Sunday.

One objection that has been made to substituting checks for cash is curious. There are men, rumor has it, who do not want their wives to know the exact size of their weekly pay, because when the wives do know it either they expect to receive it all or are unduly inquisitive about what is done with the remainder. With cash payments that remainder for personal masculine use can be kept larger than it otherwise could be. That objection, of course, does not deserve very serious attention, and, as a rule, the more the wife knows about the husband's earnings the better it is for both of them.

Not all checks, it must be admitted, are as easily cashed as are those drawn by houses or corporations of established responsibility. That is a matter, however, in which the wage earner himself can discriminate. No shaky firm will be able to make him take its checks, for checks, it must not be forgotten, are not "legal tender."

Psychology Tests at Princeton.

According to report from Princeton, the so-called psychology tests of the students can be trusted in one way, though not in another. That is, the student who passes them ill is not necessarily stupid—a "dumb bell"—but if he passes them well it is certain that he has more than average mental ability. To find out even that is something; it is a good deal, for ability is far from always obvious, and to be sure of it early might avoid the waste of a lot of time, both by the student and by his professors.

Another thing the tests at Princeton have shown is that the dullness of some students is not due to lack of brains, but to failure to use them. Such students, when they realize that their poor records are proof of negligence or idleness, are apt to settle down to honest work and improve their opportunities as they should.

To jeer at psychology and to deny its practical value is easy, as is shown by the number of people who still are doing it, but just the same the new psychology is making its way into one domain after another of human activity, and always proves its value. Often the value is not what, or as much as, is claimed from too enthusiastic exponents, but none the less it is real.

Doctors Are Not All Saints.

Whenever a law is proposed or passed that limits in any way or degree the discretionary power of doctors in the treatment of their patients a cry is raised that such action is an insult to the members of an honorable profession. Honorable the profession is, beyond a doubt, and so are most of its members; but some light on whether or not all of them are beyond suspicion of ill-doing is cast by what Dr. ARTURO STELLA, Chairman of the Committee on Civic Policy of the New York County Medical Society, has been telling the legislators who are in the city investigating the exploitation of immigrants.

It was not quacks, but men regularly educated, or at least regularly licensed, to practice medicine, whom Dr. STELLA accused of robbing their ignorant patients quite as ruthlessly as did ever a dishonest banker or ticket agent in dealing with the same class. The stories he told put these conscienceless doctors in about the same category as the men to whom the DARROW brothers entrusted the killing of the two bank messengers. The doctors described by Dr. STELLA are murderers as well as thieves, and he asks little enough when he asks that the County or State Medical Society be empowered to revoke their licenses.

REPUBLICAN SURRENDER.

Hughes's Speech as Marking Final Victory of the Irreconcilables.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of the latest surrender of the Administration to the Republican irreconcilables as disclosed in the address of Secretary Hughes before the American Academy of Political and Social Science, it might be well for us to recall what Americanism stood for in 1917 and 1918.

On April 2, 1917, President Wilson, in his message to the Congress asking for a state of war, said in part:

"But the right is more precious than peace, and we shall fight for the things which we have always carried nearest our hearts—for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own Governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations and make the world itself at last free."

Some nine months later, on Jan. 8, 1918, the President laid down fourteen points as the basis of a permanent peace, one of which was:

"A general association of nations must be formed under specific covenants for the purpose of affording mutual guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity to great and small States alike."

The foregoing, it would appear, typified the Americanism of 1917. How many mothers' sons went forth to battle under that banner raised by their Commander-in-Chief? How many fathers threw themselves into the breach in 1917 firm in the faith that in so doing they were making it forever unnecessary for their sons to have to take up arms again? Where was Senator Johnson then? Where was Senator Lodge? Why did their voices not cry out against that faith of those soldier fathers?

In the struggle on the Western front that faith took on immortality. In death it stands as a challenge. For the spirit of our dead will hold the outposts of an advanced civilization until we consolidate those moral gains they won on the battlefields of France.

In the election campaign of 1920 the Republican Party compromised the glory of 1917. In the subsequent battle with the irreconcilables the Republican leaders made abject surrender, converting the party success of that campaign into a virtual victory for Hiram Johnson and William Randolph Hearst. And now, in the wake of the latest challenge from the irreconcilable leader, we witness the spectacle of the Secretary of State completing and capitalizing that surrender.

For one who has followed the events of the last four years the question forces itself: How long is the Republican Party to continue sacrificing the Americanism of 1917 on the altar of political necessity? Do the ghosts of soldier dead not rise to hound those responsible for those last four years? Have they never heard the warning cry:

If ye break faith with us who died,
We shall not sleep,
Though poppies grow on Flanders fields.

CLASSIC TESTS FOR A TAX.

Adam Smith's Maxims Invoked In Behalf of the Mellon Plan.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It might not be out of place at this time, when a real issue has been developed by Secretary Mellon's letter, to republish the four great maxims of Adam Smith on taxation. Social, political and economic conditions have changed materially since these classical axioms were first written, but the principles remain unchanged. Let the politician and voter alike compare what will be offered with these four simple rules and square one with the other if he can. Let them also measure the existing taxes by the same standard and determine wherein they fail. These maxims are:

1. The subjects of every State ought to contribute toward the support of government as nearly as possible in proportion to their respective abilities. On the observation of this maxim depends the equality of taxation.

2. The tax which each individual is bound to pay ought to be certain and not arbitrary.

3. Every tax ought to be levied at a time or in a manner which is most likely to be convenient for the contributor to pay it.

4. Every tax ought to be so contrived as to both take out and keep out of the pockets of the people as little as possible over and above what it brings into the public treasury.

Under this heading Adam Smith said a tax may take out or keep out of the pockets of the people more than it brings into the public treasury, in four ways:

1. The levying of the tax may require a great number of officers, whose salaries eat up a large part of the revenue.

2. It may obstruct the industry of the people and discourage them from applying to certain branches of business which might give maintenance and employment to great multitudes.

3. By forfeitures or penalties some individuals may be ruined, and thereby an end be put to the benefit which the community receives from the employment of their capital.

4. Frequent visits and odious examinations by taxgathers may be such a vexation as to be equivalent to an expense at which every man would be willing to redeem himself from it.

How well a sales tax squares with the above! CECIL W. BROWN.

MIRACLES.

Within a wide and shallow bowl
Of gayly painted clay,
A miracle of miracles
Was wrought for me today;

A dozen bulbs, which, three weeks past
Were fibrous, bare and brown,
Have slowly clothed their funsy selves
Each in a leafy gown;

And then, midst pale green sheaths disclosed
For eager eyes to see,
A sealed-up treasure-house of buds
By magic grown, for me!

At last, these silky pods have burst—
The buds are now in bloom,
Whose fragrance feeds my hungry soul
And floods my little room.

The age of miracles has passed,
Not to return, you say?
Not so! My Chinese lily bulbs
Have flowered out today!

RIVER AND HARBOR PLANS.

More Than $8,000,000 of $63,328,065 Would Be Spent in New York.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Work on the country's rivers, harbors and waterways will require $63,328,065 during the year beginning July 1, 1924.

Recommendations for the various projects were made by the Chief of Engineers of the army, under whose direction this work is carried on, in his annual report submitted to Congress today with the 1925 estimates. Appropriations for last year, including permanent annual appropriations, amounted to $70,507,151, bringing the total appropriations since the work began to $1,201,506,845, not including $32,258,410 for Wilson Dam (No. 2) at Muscle Shoals, Ala.

For general river and harbor work for the fiscal year of 1925 the Chief of Engineers says $45,428,065 can be profitably expended. Expenditures for the year which ended June 30, 1923, for this work were $47,678,357 and appropriations for the present year were $56,559,910, of which $45,524,410 had been allotted.

The Mississippi River receives the largest share of recommended appropriations for this year, its total, including work of the Mississippi River Commission, aggregating $13,530,000.

"New York Harbor and the waters in its vicinity require more than $8,500,000.

Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals is allotted $7,000,000 for energetic prosecution of the work there and for payments for hydraulic and electrical machinery, lock and flood gates, and other accessory machinery.

Recommendations for appropriations for the various projects in the New York area follow:

First New York District—Port Chester Harbor, N. Y., $15,000; Bronx River, N. Y., $25,000; Mattituck Harbor, N. Y., $5,000; Jamaica Bay, N. Y., $300,000; New York Harbor, removal of shoals, entrance channels, $100,000, and anchorage channel, $250,000; Bay Ridge and Red Hook channels, N. Y., $50,000; East River, N. Y., $2,500,000, including widening 35-foot channel between Brooklyn Navy Yard and Bushwick Creek $1,200,000, widening 35-foot channel between Stony Point and Barretto Point $500,000, removing shoals, rocks and reefs between Brooklyn Bridge and Hunts Point $650,000, removing drift and debris $25,000, and general expense $15,000; Newtown Creek, N. Y., $100,000; Harlem River, N. Y., $400,000; Hudson River channel, New York Harbor, $250,000; Rondout Harbor, N. Y., $10,000; Hudson River, N. Y., $180,000; Burlington Harbor, Vt., $45,000; Plattsburg Harbor, N. Y., $1,000; Port Henry Harbor, N. Y., $46,000.

Second New York District—Newark Bay, Hackensack and Passaic Rivers, N. J., $500,000; New York and New Jersey channels $2,000,000, including Staten Island Sound from Shooters Island to K. V. O. bridge and channel north of Shooters Island $1,700,000, and Raritan Bay $300,000; Elizabeth River, N. J., $15,000; Woodbridge Creek, N. J., $6,000; Shoal Harbor and Compton Creek, N. J., $10,000; Shrewsbury River, N. J., $20,000.

URGES A MAIL RATE CUT.

Bill Introduced to Repeal Increases on All Publications.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The Post Office and Post Roads Committee, of which Representative W. W. Griest of Pennsylvania becomes Chairman, is favorable to a reduction in the rates of second-class matter. In response to this sentiment in the committee, Representative M. Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania, a member of the committee, today introduced in the House a bill to reduce the postal rates on newspapers and periodicals.

Representative Kelly explained that with practically no exception war taxes had been removed from other industries. He said it was highly discriminatory to make the publishers of the country pay the present exorbitant postal rates, which were unjust and unfair both to them and to subscribers.

The Kelly bill provides for the repeal of the last two increases which were made under the War Revenue law of 1917. The proposed measure retains the present zone system of postal charges, but reduces the amount of charge from the fourth advance, effective July 1, 1921, to the second advance in rates which became effective on July 1, 1919. The bill would not affect the free-in-county privileges, called vital to the country newspapers.

The repeal of the last two increases, Mr. Kelly said, would give the Government 175 per cent. more than the pre-war rates and would not relieve the publishing industry of one cent of the other Federal taxes paid in common with other industries.

Coincident with the introduction of the Kelly bill, Postmaster General New, in his annual report made public today, stated that it would be an ideal condition if the department be made self-sustaining, and "to attain this end, each class of mail matter need not necessarily contribute its entire estimated cost."

"Public policy," the report reads, "has long recognized the special claims of publications for the dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences or arts. It is a wise policy and makes for the general good and the public welfare."

Y. W. C. A. FUND DRIVE ON.

Contributions of $60,882 Reported on First Day of Budget Week.

The annual budget week campaign of the Young Women's Christian Association started yesterday with receipts of $60,882 for the day. The campaign was launched at a luncheon in the Central Branch of the Y. W. C. A., 610 Lexington Avenue, at which Mrs. John C. Clark, Chairman of the Budget Week Committee, and Mrs. Howard G. Myers, President of the New York Y. W. C. A., presided.

Five hundred women, divided into teams of sixty each, are managing the campaign, and it was announced yesterday that only 1½ per cent. of the total would go to campaign expenses. The business and professional women's teams, of which Miss Jean Reid is Chairman, reported $8,827, and the home women's team, of which Mrs. S. Theodore Hodgman is Chairman, reported $20,714. The largest single subscription reported was $2,500 from Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James. Contributions of $1,000 were reported from Mrs. W. J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Harold Hatch, Charles Hayden, Mrs. John Mead Howells, Mr. and Mrs. William Fellowes Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Clark and Mrs. William Henderson. Mortimer L. Schiff and Mrs. R. J. Thompson each contributed $500, and contributions of $300 were made by Mrs. Clarence M. Hyde, Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin and Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Milbank.

CONFIRM WOOD'S NOMINEES.

Filipino Senators Say Judges Did Not Figure in Controversy.

MANILA, Dec. 3 (Associated Press).—The Philippine Senate, in executive session today, confirmed a number of appointments made by Governor General Leonard Wood last Summer before differences arose between him and the Legislature.

It is stated that the confirmations, which included those of seven Judges of the courts of first instance, have no bearing upon the controversy between the executive and legislative branches of the Government.

WANT MERIT RULE FOR SCHOOL JOBS

Principals' Association Asks Conference to Frame Amendment to the State Law.

PROMPTED BY NICOL CASE

Action Said to Be Result of Her Appointment as a Superintendent.

The Principals' Association has appealed to the State Commissioner of Education to call a conference of educators to consider an amendment to the State Education law which would preserve and extend the merit system in the filling of high positions in the public school system. This is regarded as a result of the recent election of Miss Lucille Nicol as a District Superintendent.

The Principals' Association has forwarded to the Board of Superintendents resolutions passed last Saturday stating that in one of the board's nominations for district superintendent, understood to be that of Miss Nicol, "grave doubt prevails in the minds of many persons as to the legal eligibility under the State Education law of the candidate selected."

"There is no doubt about the legality of my eligibility," said Miss Nicol yesterday afternoon when asked about the resolutions of the Principals' Association. "The State Education law establishes my eligibility."

However, Miss Nicol's opponents have questioned her eligibility from another interpretation of the State Education law. Section 880 of the Education law specifies that "a candidate for district superintendent must be a graduate of a college approved by the University of the State of New York, the Board of Regents or must hold a superintendent's certificate.

Miss Nicol was educated at Hunter College. At the time of her graduation in 1897 the institution was a normal school, not recognized as a college by the University of the State of New York. Then the course in the college was increased by a year in 1905, and it is now recognized as a college.

Miss Nicol does not hold a superintendent's certificate, although she maintained yesterday that she had the qualifications for obtaining one on application to the State Commissioner of Education. Persons who opposed Miss Nicol's election by the Board of Education criticised the board's action again yesterday for having named a teacher in charge to the office when a doubt existed as to her eligibility and when many principals were available about whose eligibility there was no question.

The resolution of the Principals' Association asking for the passage of a law to preserve the merit system in the schools follows:

"Whereas recent nominations for higher administrative positions in the public school system violate the principle of promotion from rank to rank, a principle publicly advocated by the New York Principals' Association, the District Superintendents' Association and civic organizations outside the school system; and

"Whereas in reference to at least one such nomination grave doubt prevails in the minds of many persons as to the legal eligibility under the State Education law of the candidate selected; therefore

"Be it Resolved, That the New York Principals' Association respectfully requests the State Commissioner of Education for New York State to call a conference of superintendents and principals, including the Superintendent of Schools and such principals and superintendents as he may suggest, for the purpose of considering an amendment to the State Education law whereby appointments to such positions may be restricted by certain definite requirements in order that the merit system may be preserved and extended and the necessary professional morale may be strengthened and permanently secured."

OUR RED CROSS AS MODEL.

Pan-American Conference Recommends Its Methods.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 3.—The Pan-American Red Cross Conference, at a plenary session this afternoon, adopted a dozen resolutions recommending methods of strengthening the national Red Cross organizations, including the establishment of the Junior Red Cross in all the countries, and measures aiming at the suppression or prevention of disease and the improvement of health.

The committees studied various reports submitted by the American delegation, from which a number of features were adopted for application in all the American countries. The delegates were greatly interested in the Pan-American exhibit of Red Cross activities brought here by the delegation from the United States, as well as examples of the American methods of publicity.

Among the health measures advocated were campaigns in each country against social diseases and for the repeal of laws regulating prostitution where such a system exists; enactment or better enforcement of laws controlling the white slave traffic, and special attention to the prevention of disease by carriers, including the barring of immigrants suffering from trachoma.

'A VICTORY FOR DEMOCRACY'

Monroe Doctrine Guarded It in New World, Says Henschel.

"We are today contemplating the centennial of an event that has made half the world safe for democracy," said Albert E. Henschel, New York attorney, in an address yesterday at New York University commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the adoption of the Monroe Doctrine.

"The Doctrine," Mr. Henschel continued, "expresses the right of self-preservation—a right which inheres in nations, as it does in individuals. It has protected against the principal dangers to which the Republic was exposed and has kept us practically free and unmolested to work out our great experiment of representative government."

George Gordon Battle, who was to have addressed the students, was unable to attend. Instead, Dean Marshall F. Brown read excerpts from Mr. Battle's address.

CUT BUS SPEED IN CITY.

Aldermen Adopt 12-Mile-

SOCIETY GIRLS RUN BIG HOTELS FOR DAY

Zealously Serve at Biltmore and Commodore in Aid of Tuberculosis Prevention.

$100 TIPS TO WAITRESSES

4,000 Debutante and Matron Volunteers Ignore Union Hours—Cyril Maude Auctions 100 Dolls.

New York society women assumed operation of the Biltmore and the Commodore yesterday in the interests of the Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis. More than 4,000 volunteers became bellhops, room clerks, waitresses and venders for the day and evening, giving the regular force of the two hotels a day off. Serving the public with a real born of a desire to roll up a big subscription for the work of the organization, the debutantes and matrons received their reward in tips that were never less than $1 and frequently as high as $100.

In the dining room the guest did not mind if the amateur waitress brought him a lunch or dinner quite unlike the one he had ordered and no patron was hardhearted enough to expect change from bills of large denomination proffered in payment. During the lunch hour five debutante waitresses received gratuities of $100 each. There was also good-natured banter between the arriving guest and the feminine bell hop whom he assisted in carrying the luggage to his room.

Head Waitresses and Captains.

The head waitresses and captains in the dining rooms, known by ribbon rosettes as "marshals," were Mrs. Courtland T. Barnes, Mrs. Herbert Slerck, Mrs. Walter Eyre Lambert, Mrs. John H. Jackson, Miss Estelle O'Brien, Mrs. Dexter Blagden, Mrs. Walter Price, Mrs. Jeremiah Milbank, Mrs. Carl Schmidlapp, Mrs. E. Clarence Jones, Mrs. Herman A. Place, Mrs. Allan C. Bakewell, Mrs. Lyttleton Fox, Mrs. Walter E. Hope, Mrs. Percival Mackintosh, Mrs. John H. Rhoades and Mrs. Adolf Pavenstedt.

The volunteers worked longer than the union hours, the first 200 reporting for duty at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Their commanders, Mrs. Ruth Vanderbilt Twombly and Mrs. Ned Arden Flood, were on hand an hour before. Each debutante and matron had to punch the time clock when she arrived, and those who had the misfortune to exceed late were penalized.

Activities designed to capture the dollar were arranged by the group known as Fiesta and Fandangos. Devotees of mah Jongg had a chance to participate in a tournament conducted by Mrs. Willard J. S. McVicker. Miss Laura Day ran a bridge tournament. The movie industry aided in the charity by permitting a pre-release showing of Jackie Coogan's new picture, "Long Live the King."

Then there was a fashion revue, in which young women prominent in society took part as manikins. Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney was Chairman and Miss Mary Canfield Vice Chairman of the revue. In the grand ballroom of the Biltmore, well-known New York shops maintained booths where the public was urged to do its Christmas shopping by saleswomen in charge of Mrs. Robert Pruyn.

Over at the Commodore Cyril Maude in the afternoon auctioned one hundred dolls, interspersing his acceptance of bids with drolleries which met with pecuniary appreciation. Here also was a large Christmas tree, decorated with pink apples, which Mrs. Albert Tilt and her corps of assistants sold to visitors.

Professional Actors Entertain.

Last night the Music Box, Follies and Plantation Revue companies entertained in the dining rooms and ballrooms. The Free Lances, an organization of fifty society girls, gave a revue in the supper room of the Biltmore.

WEIZMANN WARNS OF ANTI-SEMITISM

Zionist Chief Says 8,000,000 Jews Are Imperiled in Eastern Europe.

CALLS THEM SCAPEGOATS

He Thinks Rhine Now Forms Boundary Between Civilization and Barbarism.

A wave of anti-Semitism sweeping over Eastern Europe is endangering the lives of 8,000,000 Jews, according to Dr. Chaim Weismann, head of the World Zionist Organization, who discussed Jewish affairs in an interview at the Hotel Commodore yesterday, following his arrival from London on Sunday.

Before 1914, said Dr. Weizmann, the dividing line between civilization and barbarism in Europe, so far as the Jews were concerned, was the Vistula, but now it is the Rhine. "And I am not sure it will stay there," he asserted. He said he did not come to "preach to or teach America," his chief purpose being to invoke the co-operation of Jews in this country toward the building up of a Jewish agency in Palestine, as provided for in the British mandate.

Anti-Semitism in Europe is distinctly on the increase, he declared. The cause may be found, he said, in the psychoses of peoples who are starved and ruined and in a state of mind where a scapegoat is required. "The Jews are the world's scapegoats," he stated.

Dr. Weizmann explained that the Jewish agency to be provided in Palestine will be responsible for all questions of reconstruction, answering both to the Jews and to the mandatory power. The agency is to be composed of two institutions, a council, which shall meet rarely, and an executive, which is to be the agent in Palestine.

Dr. Weizmann said he had no axe to grind with respect to the desirability of America's participation in the League of Nations. He was interested in the league as a protector of the rights of minorities, and the more effective it was the better it would be able to protect minority rights, he said. He had no doubt that the entrance of America would make the League effective, but was of the opinion that in order that America might appear upon the scene to perform the rôle of an impartial spectator she might well wait until the pressing questions of Europe were on the way toward settlement.

The "mess of Europe," as Dr. Weizmann put it, is growing worse. Soon the question will be whether civilization is to "go to the dogs or get better." France is not secure," he said. She could be secure with an effective League of Nations that included Germany, Russia and the United States, in his opinion.

Dr. Weizmann said reports of trouble between Jews and Arabs in Palestine were exaggerated. If left to themselves, he stated, the Arabs and Jews would have no difficulty in co-operating. Describing the present difficulty between them as on the wane, he said it was an aftermath of the war when the Bolshevik attempted to stir up the smaller nations of the Near East against Great Britain. "Crude, anti-Semitic propaganda has exaggerated every silent bit of friction between Arabs and Jews," he concluded.

MRS. REINA MARQUIS DEAD.

Wife of Columnist and Dramatist Was Herself a Novelist.

Mrs. Reina Melcher Marquis, wife of Don Marquis, columnist and playwright, died Sunday night at her home, 51 Wendover Place, Forest Hills, L. I. # Hear the Voice of President Coolidge

TWICE within a week Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, will speak over the Radio.

On Wednesday or Thursday his message to Congress will be broadcast.

Again on Monday, December 10th, President Coolidge will launch over the air the movement which will provide for a suitable memorial to the late Warren Gamaliel Harding.

If you own a Radio you can hear the voice of your President and through his voice get a personal estimate of the man himself.

You will want to hear him, and you owe it as a duty to your children to have them among the "listeners in" on the historical occasion of the first broadcasting of a Presidential message to Congress.

The Westinghouse Radiola Grand represents the highest achievement in Radio receiving apparatus. Above all, it is extremely simple to operate. The entire set—batteries, tuben and loud speaker—is enclosed in a beautiful case of mahogany, and it needs no outside wires of any kind.

HAYNES-GRIFFIN offer you a safe and sane plan by which you can secure a Radio on seven days' free trial and a year's guaranteed service.

The HAYNES-GRIFFIN plan gives you the privilege of returning the set and getting your money back if it proves in any way unsatisfactory.

That leaves it where you can't lose.

Presidential Messages have made dry reading but they will make good listening.

PINCHOT PROPOSES FIXING COAL PRICES

Would Set Up Joint Commission of States and License Anthracite Dealers.

WANTS CONTROL OF MINING

Pennsylvania Ex-Officio Board Planned to Carry Out Supervision of Producers.

FEDERAL ACTION SOUGHT

Governor Urges That Congress Also Co-operate by Ratifying Regulatory Compact.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 3.—Regulation of prices and all phases of the anthracite coal industry through a compact with Pennsylvania by States that are the larger consumers of hard coal is provided in the proposal of Governor Pinchot to thirty Governors. Details of his plan, which would be supplemented by a Federal anti-gouging price law, were made public today, but were mailed to the Governors yesterday.

The outline of the proposed compact, which would set up a joint commission empowered to fix prices in all phases of the industry, as well as investigate costs, profits, wages, salaries, sales, license dealers, and so on, was sent to the Governors with an invitation to another conference in Harrisburg on the coal situation Dec. 13.

The joint commission of the States would work in Pennsylvania through a State coal commission, composed, the Governor suggests, of the Pennsylvania member of the joint commission, the Chairman of the State Public Service Commission, and the State Attorney General.

A uniform and unbroken system of control along the whole line, from the mouth of the mine to the consumer's bin, would be accomplished by his plan, the Governor said. It would declare the anthracite business in all of its phases a public utility.

The Governor proposed that the anthracite-consuming States agree that the compact shall be effective when enough of them, including Pennsylvania, to consume a certain percentage of the total anthracite output, shall have ratified it, and Congress has given its consent. The exercise of powers over interstate commerce would be possible when Congress has ratified the agreement for that purpose. The District of Columbia would be embraced in the compact by ratification by Congress.

The joint commission would be composed of five members, if Congress should not ratify the compact, and seven if it does. In either event, Pennsylvania would appoint one member, and should Congress ratify the compact, the President would appoint one. Expenses of the commission would be met by a specific tax per ton of coal.

Governor Pinchot's outline referred to previous compacts between the States and between the Government and States as precedents for the course which he suggests.

Gives Outline of Plan.

Under the heading "Outline of an Anthracite Compact," the Governor says:

"The compact, having been ratified by States (including Pennsylvania) which consumed any agreed percentage, say 30 per cent., of the output in the year 1922, could be in effect as to such ratifying States when consented to by Congress. (Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York and Rhode Island, for example, would, with Pennsylvania, meet that requirement.) It would be in effect as to the District of Columbia and as to the exercise of powers over interstate commerce, when it had been ratified by Congress for those purposes.

"It should declare the anthracite coal business within the ratifying States and District in all its phases a public utility.

"It should create a joint commission of five members if the United States does not ratify, and of seven members if it does. In the latter event one member should be appointed by the President as Congressman at Large. In any event, one member should be appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania in order to give special representation to that State as the only producing State. The remaining members should be chosen by all the ratifying States and the District of Columbia, each of them having weight in proportion to the percentage of output consumed by each respectively during the preceding year.

"The power of the ratifying States to appoint, remove and fix salaries of the commissioners should be exercised by delegates, one from each State and District.

"The compact should create a Pennsylvania Coal Commission, to consist of the Pennsylvania member of the joint commission as Chairman, the Chairman of the Public Service Commission, and the Attorney General of Pennsylvania.

"The compact should declare the mining, production of, and preparation of anthracite coal for shipment, a public utility and should empower the Pennsylvania Coal Commission to require uniform accounts, full reports, access to books and mines; adequate service without discrimination, sale f. o. b. cars at the mine at fair prices, competency of and safe working conditions for mine workers, safety of mine property; also power to investigate and publish the facts. It should consider any information or advice submitted to it by the Joint Anthracite Commission.

Suggests Power to Fix Prices.

"The Joint Anthracite Commission should have power at its discretion to investigate all phases of the anthracite coal business and to ascertain, make public, and publish the facts in regard thereto, especially costs, profits, wages, salaries, quality, impartiality and efficiency of service.

"As to all stages of the business after the coal shall have been sold at or transported from the mine mouth: to fix prices; to require efficient service to consumers without unfair discrimination as to persons and places (or without discrimination among communities, persons or classes of persons under substantially similar circumstances and conditions as to domestic fuel needs and the availability of substitutes); to authorize or require, in its discretion, the pooling of coal delivered by any one or more persons or corporations and the pooling of profits.

"To prescribe a uniform system of accounts for any phase or phases of the business.

"To require full reports under oath as to the financial and other aspects of the business in detail.

"To make examination of the books, papers, accounts, property and product of any person or corporation engaged in the business.

"To fix for the benefit of producers and consumers standards of coal as to size, heat content, purity, availability for different uses, &c.

"To license all dealers in anthracite; to embody in such licenses conditions for effectuating the powers of control granted by the compact; to refuse such licenses in its discretion; to revoke licenses for breach of condition; to require evidence of and make a finding that public convenience and necessity require the issuance of a license, such finding to be a condition precedent to the issuance of the license; unlicensed dealing to be declared unlawful.

Would Apportion Supply of Coal.

"To delegate in its discretion to any regulatory authority of any ratifying State, including the District of Columbia, the power of the joint commission to regulate any or all phases of the anthracite business carried on wholly within the State to which such regulatory power is delegated.

"To raise a revenue tsufficient to pay all salaries and expenses of the joint commission by a specific tax per ton.

"To apportion the supply of coal at any time among the ratifying and other States of the Union and for export.

"To prevent resale of coal when in the discretion of the commission such resale is disadvantageous to consumers as a whole.

"To recommend to, advocate, or oppose before, the Interstate Commerce Commission changes in freight rates affecting anthracite coal and the allotment of railway facilities for transporting it.

"To ascertain, publish and make public facts concerning substitutes for anthracite coal, economies in use of fuel, and the like.

"To exercise any and all other powers necessary and proper to carry into effect the powers hereby specifically granted.

"The powers granted to the joint commission with respect to the regulation of interstate commerce, except recommendations to the Interstate Commerce Commission concerning freight rates and the apportionment of railway equipment, should not be exercised unless the United States has ratified the compact for these purposes nor against the vote of the Commissioner representing the United States of America."

HEARS COAL MEN ON PRICE.

Trade Commission Inquires Into Premiums on Anthracite.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — Federal Trade Commission citations charging Maderia Hill & Co., Pennsylvania anthracite producers, and various wholesalers of coal in New York City and Boston with unfair competition in splitting "premiums" on anthracite during 1922 and 1923 were the subject of hearings today before the commission. Francis R. Wadleigh, former Federal Fuel Distributer, and Eugene C. Hultman, who served during the two years as Fuel Administrator in Massachusetts, were witnesses.

Mr. Wadleigh, cross-questioned by counsel for defendants, testified that after the strike of 1922 most of the Pennsylvania anthracite had been sold at "fair price" levels fixed by a Pennsylvania State committee, co-operating with Federal authorities. His impression was that as much as 90 per cent. of the coal had been sold at the "fair price" figures by the producers.

Mr. Hultman stated, however, that Massachusetts was getting an undue proportion of coal at premium prices during the period. The "premium coal" sold at higher than "fair price" levels, and the citation charged that Madeira, Hill & Co. as producers, had shared with the wholesalers cited in taking the extra amounts. Hearings will be continued tomorrow.

TRY TO KIDNAP WITNESS.

Cut Screen Reveals Attempt to Reach Girl in Rothenberg Case.

Special to The New York Times.

CATSKILL, Dec. 3.—Discovery this morning that a wire screen had been cut from the window of the room occupied by Anna Sobin, who is being held under $10,000 bail as a material witness in the investigation of the death of Howard Rothenberg, 7 years old, convinces District Attorney Coffin and Sheriff Pierce that it was either an attempt to kidnap the girl or to communicate with her relating to the inquiry.

To reach the window of the room on the third floor of the Sheriff's home those who cut the screen used a ladder to get to the roof of the jail, which is an extension from the dwelling, and then placed the ladder so that they could reach to the third story. It is believed the intruders were frightened away by noise made by the girl in the room, from which point the ladder could be seen. The girl will be called to the Grand Jury room tomorrow.

The witnesses today were John Finkle, a riding master at Windham; Ida Cook, a maid in the boarding house where the slain boy and his relatives were guests; Linzley Stead, and the Rev. Charles F. Robson, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Windham, and Mrs. Robson, who had publicly stated they had seen Mrs. Rothenberg beating Howard and smothering the cries of Howard several days before he was killed. Other witnesses here are Janet Matthews and Osborn A. Coe, a hotel proprietor at Windham.

MURDER RECORD SUIT ENDS.

Decision Reserved in Action to Clear Miss Ziegler's Name.

Supreme Court Justice Burr reserved decision yesterday on the application of Henry Lee Ziegler for an order directing the correction of the records of the Chief Medical Examiner in connection with the death of his daughter, Helen M. Ziegler, in the office of Frederick L. Burnham in the Grand Central Terminal on March 29. Mr. Burnham died in Bellevue of a bullet wound without recovering consciousness. A revolver with two bullets discharged was found in Miss Ziegler's hand. The Medical Examiner decided that Miss Ziegler killed Burnham and then shot herself.

Charles Le Barbier, counsel for Mr. Ziegler, stated that the purpose of the suit was to prove that his daughter had been killed by Burnham and that she was not a murderess. He contended that his investigation showed that while Mr. Burnham was supposedly well-th-do he was in a financial condition that might have caused him to commit the double crime.

Assistant District Attorney Dunn opposed the application, stating that the records of the Chief Medical Examiner are privileged and are for the confidential information of the District Attorney.

COOLIDGE GREETS CHURCH.

Writes Presbyterians He Finds Their Work Impressive.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 3 (Associated Press).—Greetings from President Coolidge, in which he expressed regret at his inability to attend the Presbyterian national conference, were read at the opening session of the gathering here tonight.

Characterizing the scope of the church's activities as "particularly impressive," the President said it was "gratifying to know of the remarkable progress being accomplished by a church which has always been so devoted to the broadest public and social interests."

Plans will be made during the four days' session for increasing the work which the church carries on, and for the apportionment among the 40 synods of a budget of $15,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning April 1, 1924.

New $1 Silver Certificates Are Now in Circulation Here

New York received the first of the new Government currency yesterday through the distribution of a supply received by the Federal Reserve Bank. The first shipment from Washington consisted of $1 silver certificates. An engraving of George Washington has replaced the eagle on the front of the note, and several changes have also been made on the back.

Distribution of the new notes was made through the regular channels yesterday, a proportion being paid out to each of the 800 member banks in the New York District. This policy will be continued with new currency of other denominations.

5 NAMED IN PLOT FOR CORNER ON BEER

Jersey Official, 4 Brewers and Their Companies Indicted in $800,000 Bribery Case.

CONTINUE FEDERAL INQUIRY

Action Follows Arrests of 11 in Reported Fight of Plants to Control Sales in This City.

J. Harry Foley, State Sealer of Weights and Measures of New Jersey, and former Secretary to Governor Edward I. Edwards; four other individuals, and four brewing companies, were named in indictments returned yesterday before Judge Julian W. Mack, by the Federal Grand Jury investigating the alleged $800,000 beer bribery plot in connection with which eleven defendants were arrested at the Hotel Pennsylvania on Oct. 18.

Foley and the other four individuals are charged with bribery and conspiracy to violate the prohibition and Internal Revenue laws. The four breweries are accused of having manufactured real beer and sought to monopolize the trade in that beverage in New York City to the exclusion of Pennsylvania beer.

Those indicted besides Foley were Major Herbert Katz, Secretary of Paterson Brewing and Malting Company, Paterson; Edward Butler, Vice President of the Peter Breidt Brewing Company, Elizabeth, N. J.; Harry Kuller, proprietor, Hygeia Brewing Company, Passaic, N. J., and George Seeber, President Rising Sun Brewing Company, Elizabeth, N. J. The firms named were the Paterson Brewing and Malting Company, the Peter Breidt Brewing Company, Hygeia Brewing Company and the Rising Sun Brewing Company. The indictments followed an investigation conducted by Assistant United States Attorney Maxwell S. Mattuck, who said that the investigation would be continued by the new Grand Jury to be sworn in today.

Several politicians in New Jersey are said to have been involved in the alleged plot, which was brought to the attention of the Federal authorities when the brewers of New Jersey and Pennsylvania practically declared hostilities in their attempt to ship beer by truck to New York City. Government agents, who posed as friends of the alleged conspirators, are said to have received bribes from the brewers who sought their connivance at violations of the law.

Foley, Katz and the Paterson Brewing Company are named in one of the indictments, which specifies payment of a bribe of $2,000 to Saul Grill, a prohibition agent, on Aug. 21, 1923. Butler, Foley and the Peter Breidt Brewing Company are named in a second indictment charging payment of a bribe of $2,000 to Grill on Aug. 25, 1923. Kuller and the Hygeia Brewing Company are named in a third indictment on a similar charge, the alleged payment being made on Sept. 14.

The fourth indictment names Foley, Seeber and the Rising Sun Brewing Company and charges payment of bribes of $1,000 to $2,200 to Patrick T. Roche, member of the Special Intelligence Unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau, between Aug. 27 and Sept. 14, 1923. In the fifth indictment, Foley, Butler and the Peter Breidt Brewing Company and the rising Sun Brewing Company are accused of paying a $2,000 bribe to Special Agent Roche on Oct. 3, 1923.

The men indicted are out on bail furnished when they were arrested in October. They will be notified to appear for pleading on the bribery charge at an early date.

The Federal Grand Jury also returned an indictment against Professor Alex M. Lochwitzky, formerly secret investigator of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Lecturer for the Near East Relief, charging that he falsely posed as a representative of the Federal Government on Aug. 23, when he visited the Russian Cathedral of St. Nicholas, 15 East Ninety-seventh Street, when, it is charged, he demanded the cathedral's books showing the disposition made of sacramental wines, and indicated he was willing to accept $1,000 for going over the books.

Professor Lochwitzky was released in $500 bail. He declares that he was misunderstood by V. Grafe, counsel for the Russian Cathedral, when he spoke of going over the books of the cathedral.

OFTEN IN ASYLUMS, PRACTICED MEDICINE

Dr. Pirkner Sent to the Hospital for the Fifth Time for Observation.

When Dr. Ernest Herman Pirkner of 169 Senator Street, Brooklyn, was committed to a hospital for observation for the fifth time yesterday, Assistant District Attorney Frank H. Phillips of Queens County, severely criticised conditions which would allow a man of unsound mentality to practice medicine in the intervals when he was free. He maintained that officials of institutions to which Dr. Pirkner had been committed were open to censure for not taking steps to have the physician's license to practice revoked.

Dr. Pirkner was arrested about a week ago, four days after the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dielman of 8,090 Eighty-ninth Street, Woodhaven, Queens. Mrs. Elizabeth Pirkner, the physician's wife, had acted as midwife at the birth of the boy and had called in her husband to get a death certificate. The Queens County Board of Health refused to grant such a certificate on the ground that Dr. Pirkner was not registered in Queens County.

Through inquiry by Dr. Howard W. Neal, Assistant Medical Examiner, it was said that without the proper authority, Dr. Pirkner had taken the viscera to a hospital for an autopsy and had taken the body to an undertaking establishment.

Mr. Phillips said he had made a personal investigation of Dr. Pirkner's case at the request of a citizen who said he thought the physician the same man who had been sent to various institutions for observation. The assistant district attorney declared that he had found records showing that Dr. Pirkner had been committed on four previous occasions for mental derangement and that although his hospital record began in 1906 and continued until July of this year, he had been able to register as a physician in Kings County both in this year and last year. Mr. Phillips said that alienists at Kings County Hospital, to which Pirkner was sent yesterday by Magistrate Miller in the Jamaica Court, had diagnosed the physician's ailment as depressive psychosis.

According to the testimony offered in court, Dr. Pirkner came to this country about twenty-six years ago and that while he was not a citizen he had qualified as a physician in 1897. Mr. Phillips declared that Dr. Pirkner had first been committed in 1903 when he was sent to Believue and from there to Manhattan State Hospital on Wards Island where he was released after about two weeks.

At another time he was sent to the Combs Sanitarium in Corona, Queens, for treatment and later was placed in the McLane Sanitarium at Whitestone, Queens. In 1915 he was committed as insane. Mr. Phillips said, to the State Hospital at Kings Park, L. I., where he was discharged some time later as "much improved." He was sent back in 1921 and remained until last July, when he again was discharged.

In court yesterday Dr. Pirkner also admitted that he had been held for several days during the war as a suspected alien.

Quota Ban Finally Lifted on 370 Russians; Will Go to Canada; May Enter Here Later

News was received yesterday from the Labor Department at Washington by W. H. Sullivan, Canadian Government immigration official at Ellis Island, that the 370 Russian immigrants detained there through excess of quota will be permitted to land at a Canadian seaport, where they will be temporarily admitted, with a chance of admittance here under next year's quota.

The telegram from Washington, which was sent by R. C. White, Second Assistant Secretary of Labor, states that the Secretary has "consented to waive strict compliance with that provision of the law requiring steamship companies to return aliens to the country from which they brought them so far as the aliens in excess of the November quota are concerned, and will permit the steamship companies to carry them by water to any country included in the contract."

The companies affected are required to give a guarantee to the Canadian Government that they will deport from Canada any aliens so admitted who may later become deportable under the Canadian immigration laws.

The total number of Russians excluded in November because the quota was exceeded was 650, but only 370 remain at Ellis Island, as the others have been deported.

The port selected for landing the immigrants in Canada will be Halifax, and the first batch probably will leave on the White Star liner Pittsburgh, Dec. 12.

About 1,500 Italian immigrants arrived yesterday from Naples on the liner America. They probably will go to Ellis Island about the end of the week. The White Star liner Baltic, from Liverpool and Queenstown, and the Anchor liner California, from Glasgow, brought 500 between them.

MAYOR HYLAN BACK, GREATLY IMPROVED

Walks From Train Without His Crutches and Declares He Is "Feeling Fine."

PLEASED BY NEWS OF CRAIG

Will Not Take Up Official Duties Until After His Palm Beach Vacation.

Mayor John F. Hylan got home yesterday afternoon. He stepped from the Atlantic City Express at 4:40 o'clock, followed by Detective Sergeant George Neun carrying the crutches which the Mayor used when he left for the resort three weeks ago.

The Mayor looked as if the trip had improved him greatly, and it was said by one of his friends that he weighed 175 pounds when he went away and now weighed 190.

On hand to meet the Mayor at the Pennsylvania Station were his wife, who returned Saturday night from Atlantic City; his daughter, Mrs. John F. Sinnott; Mr. Sinnott, Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, Chief Inspector William J. Lahey, Deputy Police Commissioner William Gillespie and Mgr. Charles A. Cassidy of St. Peter's Church, New Brighton, S. I.

Station Master William H. Egan acted as master of ceremonies. The Mayor, after greeting his wife and daughter, shook hands all around and for about five minutes he stood on the station platform waiting for the elevator to take most of the arriving passengers to the upper level before he assayed the trip. One of those who wanted to shake his hand was a one-legged man in a wheel chair, who is connected with a Chicago bond house.

"I am feeling fine," said the Mayor. "I have had a good rest and I am glad to be back home."

When told that Controller Craig would not have to go to jail he said: "I am very glad of that."

One of his first inquiries was addressed to his daughter. "How is Johnny?" he said, referring to his young grandson. John Hylan Sinnott. He was assured that Johnny was all right.

The Mayor wore a cheerful smile and there was some color in his face. He walked with the assistance of a cane, but there were times as he walked and chatted that he forgot about the walking stick. He still showed some effects of his illness, however.

An automobile was waiting for the Mayor, and after shaking hands again and voicing his pleasure in being back in New York he got into the car with his immediate relatives and drove directly to his home, 959 Bushwick Parkway, Brooklyn.

Before entering his home, however, he took time to say that he had no plans for the immediate future. According to his secretary he will not take up the duties of his official position before starting for his annual vacation at Palm Beach.

"I am glad to be back again among my neighbors," he said and then he went into the house to see Johnny.

WOULD BAR FORD'S NAME.

Michigan Democratic Chairman Wants to Know Principles First.

Special to The New York Times.

SAGINAW, Mich., Dec. 3.—William A. Comstock of Detroit, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, has written to Frank A. Picard of Saginaw a letter concerning the movement to put Henry Ford's name on the Democratic Presidential primary ballot, in which he states that he "can do nothing to promote a candidacy that is not a candidacy at all."

The letter was prompted by the letter to Edward Frensdorf last week, in which Mr. Picard, a member of the committee, protested against the circulation of petitions to put Mr. Ford's name on the ballot before Mr. Ford discloses his attitude toward the League of Nations and other Democratic principles.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 3.—William Kronberg, Secretary of the Allied Ford for President Club at Dearborn, received a telegram from leaders of the Farmer-Labor Party in South Dakota, stating that one word of encouragement from Henry Ford would mean the election of Ford delegates at the county conventions now being held there.

"This telegram will undoubtedly be considered seriously by Mr. Ford," Kronberg declared tonight. "It may result in a definite statement from him as to whether he intends to be a Presidential candidate."

PROSECUTOR PROBES DAUDET CHARGES

Royalist Leader Insists His Son Was Kidnapped and Murdered.

OFFICIAL INQUIRY BEGUN

Family Physician Attributes the Boy's Disappearances From Home to Epilepsy.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Léon Daudet this afternoon made a formal request to the Public Prosecutor that an inquiry be opened into the circumstances surrounding the death of his son, and laid an accusation of murder against some unidentified person, and a similar accusation of kidnapping a minor. Examining Magistrate Barnaud was immediately charged with the inquiry and he in turn charged Police Commissioner Paralico with the preliminary investigation.

This inquiry will be begun immediately, as all the parties concerned are eager that the atmosphere of mystery which has developed around the boy's death should be dispelled. The chauffeur Barjol, in whose cab young Daudet was shot, is absolutely certain that the boy was alone when he asked to be driven to the circus, that no one could have entered the cab afterward and that the fatal shot was fired by the boy himself. This evidence appears to be confirmed by a policeman whom the chauffeur summoned at once. Both were present when the boy's pockets were searched to find if there was anything by which to identify him, and both affirm that there was nothing except some money and two full revolver cartridge clips.

Georges Vidal and the other anarchists of La Libertaire declare they likewise are ready to give police testimony and account for all their movements during the three days they knew Daudet. A new fact disclosed in the case is that the lad borrowed 700 francs from one of them the night before his death, and left ostensibly for home, being apparently exhausted. On Saturday, the morning of the tragedy, the boy tried to sell his overcoat in the Café Grenier de Gringoire, one of the haunts of the anarchists. When he failed the taxicab driver was not waiting, the overcoat and efforts are being made to discover if and to whom he sold it. A searching inquiry into every movement of the boy from the time he left home is being undertaken.

Today for the first time Léon Daudet has written in his paper l'Action Francaise concerning his son's death. One of the contributory facts which he reveals is that his doctor attributes Philippe's frequent disappearances from home to epilepsy.

"Last spring," M. Daudet writes, "Philippe absented himself from home twice for a few hours, though not longer than could be accounted as mere truancy. The last repetition of his disappearance, however, greatly alarmed my friend, Dr. Bernard. He didn't hide from me that the recommencement of these flights appeared to indicate epilepsy, though the boy showed no other symptoms, and that there was danger for the future.

"Although our fears were concealed, we know that they were realized outside the family circle. It was impossible to prevent that, and the adversaries who were lying in wait for us were aware that there was our weak spot—something to take hold on by which they could act."

It is a fact that though half a dozen or more editors of newspapers in violent opposition to M. Daudet knew during a whole week that the mysterious boy found shot in the cab and La Libertaire's son were the same person, not one divulged it. It was not till the editor of La Libertaire—a youth 20 years old—discovered that his recent acquaintance and self-disant anarchist colleague Philippe was the suicide of the Boulevard Magenta and the son of Léon Daudet, that he published the story which brought such notoriety to his hitherto inconspicuous newspaper.

The first charges of the Royalists was that poems which the anarchists attributed to Philippe were not original. A schoolboy friend of Philippe's has, however, told that the boy showed him several of these poems, which he carried in his pockets. The Thursday before Daudet's disappearance the two boys left school together and young Daudet, who was "very disturbed and low-spirited," walked and walked until he was out of breath.

The Royalist press has started a campaign for "vengeance for the murdered innocent," and the affair is taking on the aspect of a lively political issue.

CITY MUSEUM PLANNED.

Old Gracie Mansion Turned Over to New Organization.

Clarkson Cowl, President of James A. Hearn & Son, in West Fourteenth Street, related some interesting reminiscenses of early New York days to the members of the Greenwich Village Historical Society yesterday in the Amelie Galleries, 677 Fifth Avenue. Mr. Cowl was born in Yorkville, but most of his youthful days were spent in the Chelsea and Greenwich districts, where three generations of his family lived.

"Transit facilities were few and slow in those days," said Mr. Cowl," and the main north and south arteries above Forty-second Street retained many interesting characteristics of New York's rural days. I have been glad to see the strong home movement in the Washington Square and Greenwich Village sections. I have seen Fourteenth Street change from fine brownstone residences to business activity, and a few years ago was predicted that the retail trade would desert that thoroughfare. The subway transit facilities gave it a new impetus and today there is more retail trade in the block between Sixth Avenue and Broadway than at any previous time."

Henry Collins Brown announced that Park Commissioner Gallatin had recently turned over to the newly organized Museum of the City of New York Association the old Gracie mansion in Carl Schurz Park, near the foot of Nineteenth Street and the East River, for a city museum.

"We are now fitting up the house for public use," said Mr. Brown. "It is only the beginning of what we hope is the near future will lead to a proper building for a real New York museum, equal to the splendid city museums in London and Paris."

BOY FIGHTS TO KEEP 50-YEAR-OLD BRIDE

Jersey Prosecutor Says Inquiry Into Ceremony May Develop Perjury.

BUREAU RECORD ALTERED

Tucker Says He Fell in Love With Mrs. Simpson While Both Were at Home of Maxine Elliott.

Prosecutions may result from the marriage of sixteen-year-old Burton S. Tucker, son of the Postmaster of South Essex, Mass., and fifty-year-old Mrs. Susan O. Simpson, a wealthy widow, according to Assistant Prosecutor Aloysius McMahon of Hudson County. After examining witnesses in his office at Jersey City yesterday, Mr. McMahon announced that the couple had been married before the seventy-two hours required by New Jersey law between the application for the license and the performing of the ceremony had elapsed. Mr. McMahon said that prosecutions were possible for perjury, subornation of perjury, conspiracy and corruption in the marriage license bureau.

Young Tucker insisted to the prosecutor and to newspaper men that he was happy in his marriage, that he was not coerced into it, and that he did not want to have anybody prosecuted for anything. Mrs. Simpson-Tucker agreed with everything her husband said in the interview, and both asserted that nobody could ever separate them. The interview was punctuated by their kisses.

According to Mr. McMahon, Charles Grebe, Clerk of the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Union Hill, N. J., who issued the marriage license, admitted to him yesterday that he had changed his records showing the date on which the couple applied for their licenses. Tucker and Mrs. Simpson were married on Oct. 2 and Grebe's original entry for the application was on Sept. 30, less than seventy-two hours before the ceremony.

Entry Altered in Books.

His books showed that the entry had been altered on Sept. 29. He explained that he made the change after seeing in the newspapers that the marriage occurred on Oct. 2, because he thought he had made a mistake in the original entry. Asked about the $118 alleged to have been paid by Tucker in connection with the marriage license, Grebe said he asked for only $3, the regular fee, and that Tucker gave him $3.

John Muller, the Hoboken "marriage broker," told Mr. McMahon that the couple went to his office, asking him to find somebody to marry them. After trying several ministers, he said, he persuaded the Rev. Robert H. Rolling, pastor of the Baptist Church at Union City, to do so. Muller said that Mrs. Simpson gave him $18 and that she accompanied the couple to Dr. Rollins's home for the wedding ceremony.

Muller also admitted that at Mrs. Simpson's request he drew up an affidavit, which young Tucker signed, giving the details of the marriage. He said that Mrs. Simpson told him that she wanted the affidavit to hold as a "club over the boy, so that he would be unable to back out of the match. Whether the statements made in the affidavit were true or not will figure in the prosecutor's investigation. The boy's parents maintain that he was induced to make a false affidavit.

Says She Got $300,000 for Hotel.

According to Muller's statement to Mr. McMahon, Mrs. Simpson told him that she had recently sold a hotel in New York for $300,000. Mr. McMahon said that this was probably the Pasadena, at 10 West Sixty-first Street, which Mrs. Simpson owned. Muller also disclosed that Mrs. Simpson was accompanied on her visit to him by a 6-year-old girl, who she said was her daughter.

After questioning young Tucker, Mr. McMahon described him as a "young Valentino," and said that he had told of acting in the movies last year when he made a trip to California. Tucker told Mr. McMahon that he had married Mrs. Simpson of his own free will, and that he had proposed to her several times before she accepted him. Tucker told the prosecutor that he first came to New York with Mrs. Simpson at the suggestion of his mother. Mrs. Simpson had taken some of his younger relatives to New York at different times, he said, and his mother thought it would be nice for him to have such a trip. He said they stopped at the home of Maxine Elliott, the actress, who was a friend of Mrs. Simpson, and that they became infatuated with each other during the visit.

The boy repeated this statement to reporters who interviewed him and his wife yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph McCabe, 118 Orchard Street, South Ridgefield Park, N. J. Mrs. McCabe was formerly a cook employed by Mrs. Simpson at her home in Pasadena, and she supplied the couple with a retreat after the wedding.

Couple Talk to Reporters.

Tucker and his wife sat together on a divan while being interviewed and told reporters how much in love they were with each other.

"At first I never thought of marrying him," said Mrs. Tucker, "possibly because of the difference in our ages. But he kept asking me and finally I consented."

Tucker protested that it was not Mrs. Simpson's money that caused him to fall in love with her. "You don't think it was that automobile out there, do you?" he demanded indignantly, pointing to his wife's Pierce-Arrow limousine at the curb.

The bride announced that the boy was learning the stock brokerage business by daily visits to the Hotel Plaza office of E. F. Hutton & Co. to look out for his wife's account.

"If she lost her money," said Tucker, "I'd go out with a pick and shovel to support her."

J. Raymond Tiffany, counsel for Tucker and his wife, who accompanied the boy to the Assistant Prosecutor's office, said that he had agreed to produce his clients any time Mr. McMahon wanted them. Mr. Tiffany added that the marriage could not be annulled without young Tucker's consent.

WANT SUBWAY KIOSK TO GO.

Entrance at Seventy-second Street Said to Imperil Traffic.

A resolution calling for abolition of the subway kiosk at Seventy-second Street and Broadway was passed last night by the West Side Association at its monthly meeting at the Hotel Anglais. The kiosk, described as an eyesore, was said to constitute a danger because of its position in the heart of two heavy traffic streams. It was suggested that the entrances be constructed on the sidewalks on both sides of the street, in a manner in use in other stations in Manhattan.

Methods of bringing about abatement of black smoke emanating from the New York Central yards at Seventy-first Street and the North River were also discussed. Adoption of hard coal, instead of the bituminous coal now being burned, was advocated as a solution of the problem.

William C. Gallard was elected President for the coming year.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in New York City for week ending Saturday, December 1, on shipments sold at, averaged from 20.00 cents to 21.50 cents per pound and averaged 18.10 cents per pound.—Adv.

Kansas Cuts Wheat Acreage 1,826,410 Acres, Due to Prices

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 3.—A decrease in the Kansas Winter wheat acreage of 1,826,410 acres, or 15.76 per cent., as compared with that sowed a year ago, is shown in a report issued today by the State Board of Agriculture.

The estimate is 9,761,000 acres. It is the smallest acreage sown since 1917.

The decrease is attributed almost entirely to the reduced prices received for wheat for the years 1921, 1922 and 1923 and to the extremely high price of labor and machinery.

Dr. Pettingill Says Any Who Deny the Virgin Birth of Christ Will Go to Hell.

The Rev. Dr. Thomas T. Shields, President of the Baptist Bible Union of North America, and pastor of the Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, told 700 fundamentalists last night that he would not sit on the same platform with the Rev. Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, President of Brown University and previously pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, this city. He contended that Dr. Faunce was a heretic, and said it was because of Dr. Faunce's liberal views that he would have no fellowship with the university President.

The attack was at the second day's session of a six days' gathering of fundamentalists from all parts of the country, held in Calvary Baptist Church, West Fifty-seventh Street.

"We have come to see that no man can give the hand of fellowship to an enemy of Christ without dishonoring his Lord," said Dr. Shields. "The day that Russia shook hands with Germany the Russian Empire fell. I won't sit on the platform. I won't put my feet under his table. I won't break bread with an enemy of Christ.

"When I saw that the name of the Rev. Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, President of Brown University, was on the program to receive an honorary degree on Nov. 20 last at McMaster University, Toronto, of which Senate and Board of Governors I am a member, I refused to attend the installation of our new Chancellor, the Rev. Dr. H. P. Whidden.

"For my part I won't sit on any platform with Dr. Faunce, and I frankly say that in my humble judgment the presence of Dr. Faunce on the McMaster platform was a dishonor to the university and an insult to the Baptist denomination."

Dr. Shields also criticized the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, a Baptist, who is special preacher at the First Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Dr. William L. Pettingill, President of the Philadelphia Bible School, who was the speaker yesterday afternoon called for a "winnowing out" of all in the Baptist Church who did not believe every word in the Bible.

"Only those who believe in Christ as God, in His virgin birth and in His resurrection—an irreducible minimum of Christian faith—will go to Heaven," said Dr. Pettingill. "Those who deny any or all of those three tenets will be lost—that is, they will go to hell."

The sessions are held each afternoon and evening. The Rev. Dr. J. W. Porter of Louisville will speak this afternoon on "Necessity of Regeneration," and again this evening on "Evolution and Heresy."

HOLLYWOOD WARNS FILM-STRUCK GIRLS

Chamber of Commerce Seeks to Stop Big Influx as Jobless Cause Social Problem.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 3.—Adding her voice to the warning of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce to the movie-mad boys and girls who are swarming into the film studio city at the rate of 10,000 a month, Mary Pickford today addressed a crowd of 20,000 people who filled Pershing Square to hear her admonition.

She said she did not want to tell the young people to stay at home because the movies always need new blood, but she did think it would alleviate the movie aspirants be in a position to wait five years in Hollywood for movie honors and to be able to do some work while waiting, and to the girls she added: "Take mother along. You'll need her."

Now that most of the studios are closed and regular actors are idle, the authorities want to stem the tide of newcomers.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 3 (Associated Press).—Scores of young girls, movie-struck, are arriving here every week, most of them with no recommendations beyond flattering notices in home-town papers, according to the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, which has started a campaign to warn young persons throughout the country of the futility of finding screen jobs, unless they are qualified and have been encouraged to apply at the studios.

The Chamber of Commerce estimates the population of Hollywood at 85,000, of whom, it states, less than 15,000 are engaged in the film industry.

The girls who drop in from the ends of the earth all are willing to become stars, but most of them are unable to find even minor parts. With their funds exhausted, many of them turn out to be a problem for social and civic workers. The Chamber is endeavoring to spread broadcast information about how few the chances are for cinema glory and how many are the trials and privations on the path to such an ambition.

PRESIDENT OBREGON BETTER

Attending to Official Duties—Coolidge Won't Meet Him.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 3.—President Obregon has recovered from his sudden relapse of early Saturday morning, due to overwork, and has resumed his official duties, according to special dispatches from Celaya, where he is convalescing.

The dispatches add that the claims conventions drafted at last Summer's recognition conference between the United States and Mexico are soon to be sent to the Mexican Senate for approval in consequence of the latest conversations between President Obregon and the Under-Secretary in charge of the Foreign Office, Aaron Saenz.

Reports are again in circulation to the effect that negotiations for a conference at the border between President Coolidge and President Obregon are developing favorably. It is stated that General Obregon has expressed willingness to attend such a meeting.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—President Coolidge has decided definitely against proposals that he make a trip to the Mexican border within the next few months to meet President Obregon of Mexico.

LONG LIVE THE KING, with Jackie Coogan, Rose Rosanova, Tissa Rasnicki, Victor Lowell and Peter Lang; from Mary Roberts Rinehart's story; directed by Victor Schertzinger; at the Rialto. "Leathers," with Out-of-the-Inkwell" cartoon, "Around the World with Rieseneld's classical Jazz," at the Rialto.

One of the best pictures in which Jackie Coogan has appeared is "Long Live the King," which is gracing the Rialto screen this week. It is one of those interesting and jolly productions that bring a tear or two between smiles and hearty laughter. It is a photoplay, fantastic of course, that is produced so splendidly that it would be very difficult to find a fault in it. Young Coogan is remarkable, and except for one or two scenes in the earlier part of this picture, when he seems a little on the precocious side, he suits the role he plays just as well as his uniform fits him.

There are several sequences in this picture that are admirable, and Victor Schertzinger has not lost a chance with them. You have the story, the atmosphere, the characters in the right parts, and nuances and crescendos, and all that goes to feed the interest of a spectator in a film.

Naturally the last portion of any production clings to the mind more than any of the other incidents. You see Jackie Coogan, who for the greater part of the film has been the hair-apparent, ascending the throne of the Kingdom of Livernia and doing his first act as a monarch. Naturally when one has seen the diminutive Coogan in ragged roles, this one is imposing and a change. At any rate, there is the illustrious tiny favorite, standing in top boots, a hussar's uniform and bobbed hair, ready to give his aid and gal the medals he had long wished to see on the young man's tunic.

"I give you this one for taking care of my dog," says Otto, the monarch who has no surname.

"Attaboy!" comes from the American heiress father owns the local coaster privileges, which remark causes no consternation in the regal circles.

At the fade-out of this film Otto climbs onto his capacious throne, almost large enough for a bed for his tiny body, and yawns at the sacrifice he is making in being King.

Otto is an Eton suit attends the opera when he is on the throne. His career as the wayfarer of the Kingdom governess and others, and after playing marbles, riding on the giant coaster and going through various youthful amusements he is found and thrown back in the palace as his character. Then he is presented with a dog—Toto—that looks like a mongrel Aberdeen, which he hides in the victoria under a lap robe, and finally is forced by the frau governess to get rid of the animal. Mikey, the aid, takes care of the dog. Mikey is played by Allen Forrest, is in love with Frances Redwick. But the naughty old King desires her to marry a neighbor, King Karl. This is rejected by Karl himself, who, being rather pompous, declares that he would have no woman who could care for another man.

Karl sees Otto prior to his leaving the scene of state thrust upon him, and Otto, toying with the rival ruler's medals, asks what one of them is for. He is told that it is the Order of the Bath, and Otto, who is of the belief that declares that he is mighty, tells he has never received any decorations for the affair.

The settings in this picture are beautifully built and thoroughly suited to the character of the narrative. There are a number of pathetic touches, especially when this princeling feels he has to forego so much in order to live in the palace that he is wed with delight over the prospect of seeing Otto. Coogan handles with his little American friend's parents. Bobby was born on the same day as Otto. That day is their birthday, and the populace is celebrating the occasion while Otto is being sought. When the time comes for passing the paper that's to make the throne safe for little Otto, whose identity is unknown, is disgusted when he draws a crown. Obviously he can't get away from such things.

There are spies, intrigues, fights and well-planned threats in this photoplay, and following his last escape Jackie does a regular Douglas Fairbanks stunt. He is on the roof of a house, admittedly constructed for the occasion. He slides down one way, then another, and finally alights in the arms of a mounted man.

We observed one man, unaccompanied, watching this picture yesterday. He was brushing a spot dust off the frame. At the instant when Otto's father hoists the prince aloft, this chap burst out with: "Look at what's happened to his hat—ha-ha-ha!" He had forgotten he was not alone in the theatre.

"Long" is a hearty, wholesome film entertainment which nobody will be ashamed of liking.

CARUSO'S CONTRACT AIRED.

Concert Manager Denies Tenor's Friend Had Share in Profits.

Francis C. Coppicus, who conducts the Metropolitan Musical Bureau, under whose management Enrico Caruso sang in many concerts, was a witness before Supreme Court Justice Davis yesterday in a suit brought against him by the widow of Enrico Scognamillo, close friend of the tenor, for a third of the profits received by Mr. Coppicus from the Caruso engagements.

Mrs. Rose E. Scognamillo contended that her husband's services were essential in bringing about the contract with Caruso because he was difficult of approach on business matters. Mr. Coppicus denied this, testifying that he had no trouble meeting Caruso and that his agreement with Scognamillo was only for a concert tour in 1917.

Bruce Haste, who was Mr. Caruso's secretary, testified that the tenor was disappointed when he learned that Scognamillo was to get part of the profits from the concerts, and that Scognamillo then severed his end of the contract, stating that he would not thereafter take a part. Mr. Haste said that this was after Scognamillo had received a total of $6,000 in profits. Edward L. Bernays, who did publicity work for Caruso, corroborated the testimony.

Albert E. Johnston, under whose management Caruso also sang, said that he gave way to his artistic temperament at times. He said the Caruso refused to sing at Ocean Grove, N. J., on one occasion until the case was put up to him on the basis of "plain duty," and he was told that the majority of the persons in the audience would never be able to hear him in the Metropolitan Opera House. He got $7,500 for the concert, Mr. Johnston said.

While the sum paid to Mr. Caruso by the defendant for the years from 1917 to 1920 was not put in evidence, it was said that the settlement was $140,000 and that Mrs. Scognamillo contends she should get from $15,000 to $20,000. The trial will continue today.

British Women to Hold Bazaar.

The Imperial Order of the Daughters of the British Empire will hold its annual bazaar at the Hotel Pennsylvania on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The roof garden will be arranged to represent London streets and shops. The will be served and Christmas gifts will be on sale. Theatrical stars will assist every evening. The bazaar will be opened on Thursday by Cyril Maude.

Leaps From Roof to His Death.

Isaac Block, 65 years old, of 2,189 Dean Street, Brooklyn, committed suicide early yesterday by jumping from the roof of a six-story building at 1,709 First Place, Brooklyn. He had recently been released from an insane asylum in the custody of his daughter, Mrs. Rose Goldis, with whom he lived.

PIANIST GIVES A NOVELTY.

Alfredo Oswald, From Brazil, Plays "The Baby's Family."

Alfredo Oswald, a visitor from Brazil, marked his return yesterday to Aeolian Hall with a program distinguishable from a thousand. Less cosmopolitan than his countrywoman, Novaes, he avoids the cold precision of line of Northern technique; but, to make up for it, he luxuriates in tropical plentitudes of sound, forests of notes, never noisy, from which emerge now a melting hymn or chaste fugue of Bach, again an ascetic harmony of the Abbé Liszt.

These two alone he played first and last, while a novelty midway was the complete "The Baby's Family" of eight dolls described by H. Villa-Lobos in children's play tunes of native Brazilian rhyme. A five-tone or blackkota scale was the rubber mulatto doll. The negro's image of wood suggested a tarentella, the Creole and Indian different dances, and the white porcelain and pose real dolls contrasting lullabies. Pianola and the Welte were as modern as the most advanced composers heard elsewhere daily.

Hackett Sings With Philharmonic.

Arthur Hackett, the operatic tenor, made one of his too rare appearances in New York this season at last evening's second concert of the Philharmonic's new series for students in Carnegie Hall, singing with the orchestra two French songs by Duparc. Willem van Hoogstraten conducted Mozart's symphony in G minor, Gluck's overture to "Iphigenia in Aulis," Wagner's to "The Mastersingers" and Rachmaninoff's "Island of the Dead." As the concert was also broadcast by radio, those at the hall heard early returns from distant hearers. A woman in Connecticut called up to say, "I'm listening to your concert and it sounds fine out here."

"L'Oracolo" and "L'Amico Fritz."

"L'Oracolo" and "L'Amico Fritz" opened the fifth week of opera last evening with two-fold measures of stars in various tragic and lyric roles. Scotti and D'Angelo, sang Leoni's still popular version of the "Cat and Cherub" thriller of San Francisco Chinatown. Mascagni's recently revived three-act comedy engaged Bori and Ellis, with Danise, Alcock, Anthony, Wolf and Paltrinieri, and Moranzoni conducted.

Richard Strauss Writing New Opera.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—Richard Strauss is writing a new opera, for which Hugo Hoffmannsthal is supplying the book. The theme is taken from Greek mythology and Strauss says the opera will abound in humor.

Carl Friedberg's Recital.

By H. G. COLLES.

Brahms and Schumann were the two composers chosen by Carl Friedberg for his program at Aeolian Hall last night, and he justified his choice by showing himself to be a pianist who possesses the right qualities for the interpretation of these masters. He gave a selection of their larger works, beginning with three out of the four of Brahms's set of ballads (Opus 10), with the scherzo in E flat minor, placing Schumann's "Kreisleriana" and the toccata in C in the middle and returning to Brahms at the end in order to play the whole of the variations on a theme by Paganini.

This was a big scheme, and he carried it through triumphantly. If his playing showed some signs of fatigue as he reached the second book of the variations it was chiefly noticeable from the fact that the first quality one enjoys in Mr. Friedberg's playing is a forthright directness in which every phase is clean cut; in a few of these variations there were passages which did not reach the high standard he had set. But when that has been mentioned with the fact that like most modern pianists, he deserved a small fine for "speeding" in the Schumann toccata, we have done with defects.

One felt from the first, and never lost the conviction, that Mr. Friedberg is a pianist who understands what he is talking about when he talks Brahms and Schumann. His Brahms was particularly delightful because Brahms is the deeper subject of the two. He knows that rhythm matters before all else and that rhythm is not the same thing as time. He used his rubato always to bring out the true point of the phrase. Notable instances were the two trios of the scherzo in E flat minor. The Paganini variations are the most exhaustive set which Brahms ever wrote. Many pianists regard them as a rather cumbersome essay in technique.

Mr. Friedberg made them entrancing from first to last, not only delighting in the contrasts of mood they present and the extraordinary fertility of melodic and contrapuntal resource but, as it were, threading them together so as to show how they build up a lugh architectonic design. His playing was the complete answer to those who assert that strictness of form is a bar to freedom of expression.

THE PLAY

By JOHN CORBIN.

An Ibsen Ensemble.

AN ENEMY OF THE PEOPLE, a play in five acts, by Henrik Ibsen. At Jolson's Fifty-ninth Street Theatre.

| | |
|---|---|
| Dr. Thomas Stockmann | Vassily Katchaloff |
| Mrs. Stockmann | Yevgenia Rayevskaya |
| Petra | Lydia Korenieva |
| Peter Stockmann | Vassily Lushsky |
| Morten Kill | Mikhail Tarkhanoff |
| Hovstadt | Alexander Vishnevsky |
| Billing | Lyoff Bulgakoff |
| Horster | Vladimir Yershoff |
| Aslaksen | Vladimir Gribunin |

Though the companion piece to Ibsen's "Ghosts" and a fine, upstanding drama, "An Enemy of the People" has not been given here in English since the first visit of Beerbohm Tree a quarter of a century ago. The reason is, doubtless, that our Ibsen cult has been exclusively in the hands of women of the theatre, and this is pre-eminently a man's play. As such, it offers a special opportunity to the Moscow players and its production last night was one more triumph of their art.

Especially it was a triumph of ensemble acting as applied to a crowded stage. The scene in which Stockmann states his cause before his fellow-townsmen, denounces them as yellow dogs and is in turn denounced as an enemy of the people ranks with the crowd scenes in "Tsar Fyodor" and "The Lower Depths." The nameless parts last night enlisted as full a representation of the best talent of the company as did the leading characters in the drama. Ivan Moskvin hobbled in on crutches and expressed his varied emotions chiefly by brandishing them and stamping them on the floor.

Olga Knipper-Tchekhova was almost indistinguishable beneath a veil, and was lost in the centre of the crowd until called on for a moment of gesticulation. The most brilliant opportunity in this crowd scene fell to an actor who could not be identified. He played the drunken intruder, who was repeatedly rejected, only to wander in again, and his genially fuddled smile was of serapic humor.

The Stockmann of Katchaloff is a creation of the finest spiritual insight. It might conceivably have had more brio, more of the irresistible sweep, the impetuous onrush, of manly enthusiasm and courage. But Stockmann's high love of truth brimmed in Katchaloff's eyes; his genial, whimsical mood played in a smile of infinite tenderness. Here was the stuff of which true martyrs are made, the homely moods of day to day enforcing and re-enforced by an unquenchable nobility of spirit.

As Mrs. Stockmann, Yevgenia Rayevskaya somehow lost the emotional and dramatic value of that moment in the printer's shop when she takes her final stand by the side of her impractical husband, already doomed to defeat; but as a silent member of the Stockmann family group in the great crowd scene she was supremely affecting—bowed in grief, yet proudly resolute. The Burgomaster Stockmann of Vassily Lushsky was a finely sinister bureaucrat, embittered and self-willed. As the doctor's daughter Petra Lydia Korenieva was admirably downright and simple.

When read in the study, "An Enemy of the People" seems at times artificial and old fashioned. The fifth act especially is technically inept, consisting of new and not very credible complications that at best add nothing to what we have already seen. The fact is more remarkable because the play was written between "Ghosts" and "The Wild Duck"—technical masterpieces unsurpassed in the modern theatre, the one for sheer tragic power and the other for its evocation of poignant character and luminous atmosphere.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "The Potters" at the Plymouth Theatre has been advanced to Saturday night of this week.

Denman Maley has been engaged for "The Town Clown," which A. L. Erlanger is producing.

Tonight's new productions will be "Pelleas and Melisande," with Jane Cowl as its star, at the Times Square, and "The Lady," with Mary Nash, at the Empire.

"The New Way," by Annie Nathan Meyer, will be acted at the Longacre Theatre this afternoon and Friday afternoon.

"Sun-Up" opened last night at the Princess Theatre, having been transferred from the Lenox Hill Theatre.

Fannie Brice appeared for the first time last night in a new sketch, "The Rest Room," in the Ziegfeld "Follies."

Purnell Pratt has been added to the cast of "The Vagabond" by Wilson Collison.

Tonight's performance of "Queen Victoria" at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, will be given under the auspices of the Cultural Circle, which will devote the proceeds to charity.

'THE TALKING PARROT' NAIVE

Amateurish Play by Hutcheson Boyd Acted at the Frazee.

THE TALKING PARROT, a comedy in three acts, by Hutcheson Boyd. At the Frazee Theatre.

| | |
|---|---|
| Aunt Truefitt | Ruby Hallier |
| Millie Scudder | Kathleen Arthur |
| Albert Scudder | Jack Cherry |
| Roger | Walter Connolly |
| Felix Barlow | Orwald Yorke |

Every once in a while the perennial first-nighter chances on a play that resists all the easy classifications into which he has been accustomed to slide the sundry entertainments. Of such is "The Talking Parrot," which, after graduating from a hole-in-the-wall playhouse called the Triangle, down in Greenwich Village, was revealed last night at the Frazee Theatre.

It is naïve and amateurish to the point of absurdity, so that it emerges as something that might have been put on by a group of high school students. And yet, in some baffling way, it gives the impression of not having been quite so badly written as so bad a play might have been written. This, to be sure, is scant praise, and is meant to be. "The Talking Parrot" is quite hopeless and nearly always deadly.

The author is Hutcheson Boyd, and "The Talking Parrot" is his first play. The story is foolish, and no great end would be served by outlining it. The company, which includes but five players, does its best.

Wagner Festival Performances.

BAIREUTH, Bavaria, Dec. 2.—The following schedule has been arranged for the performances of the Wagner Festival, to be resumed here in 1924; "Niebelungen Ring," July 25 to 29, Aug. 13 to 17; "Meistersinger," July 22 to 31, Aug. 5, 11 and 19; "Parsifal," July 23, Aug. 1, 4, 7, 8, 10 and 20.

Wilkie Bard at Palace Theatre.

Wilkie Bard, the English character comedian, was seen on the vaudeville program at the Palace Theatre yesterday, after an absence of several seasons from the country. The bill also included Cissie Loftus, fully returned to health, and Nora Bayes, holding her place for a third week.

Christmas

SALE of exchanged Phonographs

This Week Only

INSTRUMENTS OF LEADING MAKES

Reductions of ½ and more

THIS important Annual Sale, which was inaugurated during the war period when utmost economy was necessary, has proved so popular that it has been repeated each year since. It is most welcome, as it enables those wishing to purchase a standard phonograph for Christmas an opportunity to do so at a saving in many instances of more than one-half its regular price.

During the course of the season, we have taken a large number of phonographs of various makes in exchange for Period Styles and Graduola models of the Aeolian-Vocalion. It is these instruments, reconditioned by Aeolian experts, that we are putting on sale during this week. They are all phonographs of standard makes, all in perfect condition and so guaranteed, many of them practically new, and the price reductions have never before been equalled.

PRICES $37.50 Upward

New Vocalions of Discontinued Styles

Included are a group of popular models of the Vocalion which are entirely new, but styles to be discontinued from our catalog. Many of these possess the Graduola, the famous tone-control feature with which you may vary the tone volume of each record as you wish. As their number is limited, an early selection is advised.

Art and Period Styles

Another very attractive group of instruments to be included in this sale is a variety of Period and Art styles, some of them the Console models now so much in demand. Others are upright models showing period characteristics. These are all beautiful instruments, made of finest casewoods, handsomely finished and all are marked at radical reductions from former prices.

Why not have a phonograph in your home this year for Christmas? No gift could be so much appreciated by young and old, and the prices at which these sale instruments are to be marked make it possible for anybody to have one. A small down payment and very convenient monthly terms will be accepted on any instrument.

Upright Phonographs from $37.50

Delivery will be made on all instruments for a small down payment

Terms as low as $1.00 weekly

Console models from $89.00. A drastic reduction from original prices

All Aeolian stores will be open evenings until Christmas

Sponjola

REG. APP. FOR.

A REVOLUTIONARY idea, which shows how beautiful Crepe can be made more beautiful, more sparkling, more enduring, more plastic, and perfectly ideal for draping.

Sponjola

REG. APP. FOR.

THE newest production of our Mr. Seligman, whose marvelous technique is responsible for this establishment's being the leading factor in the creation of Knitted Artificial Silks, which shatter all traditions and overcome all limitations.

By virtue of a special, remarkable process of construction, and an ingenious Artificial Silk, which is exclusive with us, "Sponjola" does not sag, and does not wrinkle, no matter how much you crush it.

Right here—the biggest Sport-Fabric sensation of the season! Adopted by the leading Makers of Women's Ready-to-Wear and by the Silk Departments of the foremost stores.

A very wide, exceptionally attractive range of colors and shades.

Commercial Paper.

Yesterday—6@6¼ per cent. for the best names. Saturday—6@6¼ per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

New Percale Prices Not at Hand.

From present indications new prices on leading lines of percales, which were recently withdrawn and placed "at value," will not be made this week. A question yesterday as to whether the final Government crop estimate would be awaited before such action is taken brought the reply from an executive of one of the best-known concerns in the trade that this was not the case. "What we are waiting for chiefly," this executive said, "is a manifestation on the part of buyers that they realize the seriousness of the situation. When they show a real disposition to buy goods, we will make prices. In the meantime, it is safer to leave the goods 'at value.'"

Predicts Scarcity of Ginghams.

A scarcity of fancy ginghams within the next month or six weeks was predicted here yesterday by a merchant who is well versed in that part of the dry goods trade. The prediction refers especially to well-known ticketed lines, stocks of which are very low at present, both in the mills and with jobbers. Personal observation and reports from various quarters lead this merchant to assert that the gingham stocks now in Jobbers hands are staples in great preponderence. In fact, some wholesalers appear to be overbought on those cloths. Based on present cotton costs, the prices now asked for prominent lines of fancy ginghams are 2½ cents or more a yard lower than they should be. When jobbers come fully to recognize this fact, it was said, there will be a demand for the goods that will soon result in a shortage.

Are Buying Children's Shoes.

Although there has been no important change in the women's shoe situation of late, retail buyers were said yesterday to be placing advance Spring business for children's shoes in a fair way. For the most part, the orders are confined to those calling for staples in brown and black, fancy top patent leather shoes not being taken to any extent at present. As is usual for Spring, most of the business is being taken on low shoes, but the number of pairs of high shoes bought is said to be normally proportionate.

"Memo" Orders Coming In.

Now that Thanksgiving is past and the holiday buying season is in hand, retail jewelers are beginning to "sweeten" their stocks with goods purchased on memorandum. This is a custom of the trade that is quite widely practiced and permits the retailer to show his prospective customers many pieces that he would be unable to display otherwise. "Regular" buying by the jewelry retailers for the holidays has now been completed. In many instances it shows a substantial increase over that of last year, and the "memo" goods that stay sold will mean just that much more added to the 1923 total. Just how much the amount added in this way will be, however, will not be known until after the turn of the year and the returns have come back.

Cotton Drop Hits Gray Goods.

As usual, when the cotton market is off, trading was not very active in the local market for gray goods yesterday. Most of the business done was for delivery during this month, and much of it was transacted by second hands. In the business done during the day by these sellers were 39-inch 68-72s at 12⅝ cents; 38½-inch 64-60s at 11⅝ cents, and 38½-inch 60-48s at 9¾ cents. In the sheetings 9¾ cents was paid for 36-inch 68-60s, with 13¼ cents asked for 37-inch 48-squares. Asking prices for the heavier sheetings were based on 17 cents for 40-inch 2.85s and 20 cents for 3.50-yard goods of the same width. For 37-inch 3.95-yard drills 13½ cents was asked.

Not Favorable to the Plan.

Little favorable opinion has been expressed in dress goods mill circles over the proposal made by some of the jobbers that the time of opening the season be made closer to the actual sale of the garments. This, it is pointed out, might work very well in helping the garment wholesaler to avoid some of the present difficulties, but it would create much greater mill problems, which, in turn, would inevitably reach the cutters. The mills claim, in effect, that they must open at the earliest logical time, pending the completion of their sample lines, in order to be able to gauge the situation correctly with respect to the probable amount of buying, possible changes in styling that might have to be made while the season is still active, and general planning of operations. To open lines from three to four months later than now, say mill spokesmen, would allow the mills no time at all to work with freedom, after the long period of preparation of lines. For some mills, it is said, the change would work severe hardship.

To Hold Next Convention Here.

Official announcement is expected today that the next convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers will be held in this city. Such action was indicated yesterday, following an informal meeting which President Sol Schloss and Secretary Charles E. Wry of the association, together with Alfred J. Silberstein, David Halle and Joseph Pinto, attended. It is understood that the committee representing the national association is studying the available locations for the convention. The probabilities are said to lie between the Grand Central Palace and Madison Square Garden. The convention, according to present plans, will be held during the week of Sept. 15.

Style Book Issued for Cutters.

The Spring edition of The Trend was issued yesterday by the Botany Worsted Mills. It is described "as authentic exposition of the style trends for Spring, 1924, from the angles of silhouette, color, fabrics and detail." The edition is limited entirely to circulation in the cutting-up trade and, it is understood, was published to meet a need indicated through numerous inquiries which have been received. The book is a very elaborate affair, having many colored illustrations, each serving as a suggestion for the development of fabrics, samples of which are shown on the opposite pages. The hats shown on the various models were designed by Anne Rowell. On the inside back cover of the book are depicted the sixteen leading Spring shades for town and country wear.

The Value of the "Shopper."

In their investigations of service and merchandise offerings, the trained "shoppers" of department stores are increasingly important as factors for greater economy in distribution. This is the conclusion reached in a survey of the "shopping" or "comparison" departments of retail stores given in the latest issue of The Advertising Data Book of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. The opinion of store owners is summarized in the statement that they could not dispense with the "shoppers'" services. Despite the absolute necessity of having their identity kept secret, the careers, it is pointed out, of professional shoppers normally extend over many years. One expert is said to have been with the same store for over thirteen years. Usually the main features of competitors' advertisements are "shopped" each day. In addition, most of the stores "shop" their own advertising before insertion.

Customs Appointment to Be Made.

With the retirement yesterday of Judge Eugene L. Hay from the Board of United States General Appraisers, much interest is shown by importers here in the naming of his successor by President Coolidge. The decisions of the body have important bearing on the activities of importers here. Judge Hay having been particularly identified with procedure dealing with the administrative aspects of the tariff. He served for twenty years and retires at the age of 70. The position pays $8,000 annually.

Davison's English Contracts.

The Davison Chemical Company announced yesterday that it had closed several contracts with English petroleum companies for the use of the solica gel process in the refining of gasoline. President C. W. Miller has just returned from Europe.

DUTY ON COMBING WOOL?

Rehearing Asked in Case Deciding It Should Come in Free.

A rehearing of the case in which it was recently decided that combing wools were to be admitted free under the Emergency Tariff act will be asked by the Government, it was learned here yesterday. A petition to this effect, it is understood, is now being drafted by Assistant Attorney General W. W. Hoppin, in charge of customs litigation. The petition, addressed to the Court of Customs Appeals in Washington, will ask for a retrial. This move is considered unusual in cases of this kind, and opinion was divided yesterday among customs experts as to the probability of favorable action by the court on the petition. At the time of the decision on Nov. 17 it was said that there could be no appeal.

The decision was rendered by Associate Judge Oscar E. Bland of the United States Court of Customs Appeals. His ruling, in effect, was that "combing wools" could not be classed as "clothing wools" and were therefore free from duty under the Emergency act. He accepted the narrow trade definition of the two terms. This has led to some demand for a retrial of the case. Those asking for a review state that the intent of Congress in passing the Emergency Tariff of 1921 was ignored by Judge Bland. One of the leaders in the fight for a retrial is the American Protective Tariff League.

The amount of duties that the Government may have to return, if the appeal for a restrial fails, is still described as virtually an unknown quantity. It is understood, however, that several millions of dollars are involved, the disposition of which will be held up until the Government's petition has been acted upon. In the event that the appeal court agrees to a retrial it will be several months before another decision is handed down.

BOOK SETS NET $15,075.

Shakespeare in Forty Illustrated Volumes Brings Top Price.

The sale of library sets collected by Jules R. Kahn brought $15,075 at the American Art Galleries last night. The highest priced of the ninety-seven items in the sale was an illustrated set of the works of Shakespeare in forty volumes, bought by Myron Hale for $1,225. J. Wall gave $620 for a sixty-volume set of the works of Charles Dickens. Charles Scribner's Sons bought a twelve-volume set of the writings of Eugene Field for $520. The same purchasers paid $400 for a sixteen-volume set of the works of James Whitcomb Riley, and $460 for a twenty-seven volume set of Kipling's works.

Dr. James F. Hasbrouch gave $325 for the writings of Dumas in forty-seven volumes. Gabriel Wells bought the works of Thackeray in fifty-three volumes for $380, and the novels of Charles Lever in thirty-seven volumes for $355. John Cahill paid $300 for the works of Turgenieff in sixteen volumes and $245 for twenty-one volumes of works of German authors.

The sale yesterday afternoon in the American Art Galleries of Americana, part II., from the library of the late William F. Gable of Altoona, Pa., brought $3,216.50. An autograph letter by John Adams was sold to W. Clarkson for $220. Gabriel Wells gave $160 for "The Birds of America" and "The Quadrupeds of America" by J. J. Audubon and John Bachman. R. Friedenberg paid $107.50 for an autograph letter by Benedict Arnold.

SENDS BANKRUPTS TO JAIL.

Judge Wilkerson Sentences Chicagoan and New York Agent.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3. — Federal Judge Wilkerson imposed sentences aggregating three years in Leavenworth Penitentiary and a fine of $5,000 today on Fred L. Kriebel, former head of the bankrupt brokerage house of Kriebel & Co.

Henry Pommery, New York representative of the firm, was sentenced to serve one year and a day and fined $1,000. The firm closed in 1922 with losses said to have reached nearly $5,000,000.

Weymouth Kirkland, counsel for Kriebel, who was found guilty by a jury some time ago, pleaded that Kriebel had no criminal intent and said Kriebel had interested friends in reorganizing so that he could repay his creditors if he were not sent to prison, and recommended that he be fined, saying friends would pay the fine.

"People are unwise in the ways of finance," said Judge Wilkerson after saying that the jury's decision was binding. "There is entirely too much financing of this kind going on in this community. I mean the taking of money from poor people to invest ostensibly for their benefit, but in reality the money is put to other uses."

Kriebel was found guilty on a charge of using the mails to defraud and conspiracy.

LEAGUE WILL DISCUSS OUR MANDATE VIEWS

Officials Will Welcome Criticism at Next Week's Council Meeting in Paris.

GENEVA, Dec. 3.—The declaration of Secretary Hughes that the United States desires equal opportunities in the mandated districts will hold the attention of the delegates when the mandate problem comes up at the session of the League's Council, which will begin its sessions in Paris Dec. 10.

Officials of the League say they will warmly welcome any American criticism, as it is likely to lead to increased efficiency and fairness by the mandatory powers. Meantime it has become known that the supervisory powers and capitalists in those countries are hesitating to invest capital in mandated districts through fear of the non-permanency of the mandate system. This, it is said, is retarding development, and the situation will probably be discussed at the Paris meeting.

It has been decided to hold this meeting of the Council in the French capital, which is deemed best suited for the purpose from the point of view of the various participating countries, especially France.

The agenda of the meeting includes the questions of the use of opium, the white slave traffic, international health control and traffic in arms, in all of which the Americans are interested and on which ex-Premier Branting of Sweden will submit his reports. The financial reconstruction of Hungary will also be considered.

Owing to the British elections the Council will be unable to handle the report of the special committee of Jurists on the interpretation of the League Covenant as the British requested postponement of the 'urists' meeting to Jan. 18.

HIGH PRICES AT BOOK SALE.

Western Americana Sold for $10,106—$840 for Old Newspaper File.

Western Americana sold last night at the Anderson Galleries for $10,106. The highest priced item was the original act to charter the City of San Francisco, 1850, bought by E. H. Sauer for $850. A file of The Daily Victoria Gazette, Volume I., 1858, the first newspaper printed in the Canadian Northwest, was bought on order for $840. E. B. Drake paid $375 for "Travels Through North and South Carolina, Georgia, East and West Florida, &c.," by William Bertram.

J. W. Dunbar paid $285 for eight volumes of old almanacs. The Rosenbach Company gave the same amount for an almanac for 1775 by John Anderson, and $225 for three volumes of old almanacs. J. E. Springs paid $215 for six volumes of autographs by American public men, and E. H. Sauer gave $210 for an autograph letter by Benedict Arnold.

NO CUVILLIER APPEAL.

Banton Will Not Carry Criminal Libel Action Further.

District Attorney Banton announced yesterday that he would not appeal to the higher court from the decision of Justice Cohalan in the Supreme Court last week dismissing a criminal libel under which Assemblyman Louis Cuvillier had been held in $500 bail by Judge Crane of General Sessions on a complaint lodged against Cuvillier and Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan by Commissioner Enright. Justice Cohalan declared that the offense, if any, was committed in Albany, N. Y., where Cuvillier sent a telegram to the Magistrate which was the basis of the Police Commissioner's charge.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Lombardi Knitcraft, Inc., manufacturer of novelty sweaters, 60 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn, received a diploma and cross of merit as well as a gold medal at the National Exposition of Industrial Progress that was held recently at Rome, Italy. The awards were given by the Italian Government and acknowledged by the American Consulate in Rome.

Julius Wolf, trading as the Wolf Stout Dress Company, maker of stout dresses, will remove on or about Dec. 15 to larger quarters at 141 West Thirty-sixth Street. Simon Danziger, for many years a maker of this merchandise, has joined Mr. Wolf and will take care of the producing end of the business. After the removal Business will be done under the firm name of Wolf & Danziger.

Maurice L. Hano yesterday became connected with the Fair Waist and Dress Company as general representative. He is well known in the trade, with which he has been associated for some time.

Milton Mandelbaum, commission resident buyer, has removed from 1,182 Broadway to the Wilson Building, 1,270 Broadway. The removal was made necessary by the growth of the business.

J. Walter Drake, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, will be a speaker at the luncheon of the National Council of Importers and Traders to be held at the Hotel Astor on Thursday. A large number of reservations have been made for the affair, many of them coming from out-of-town importers.

BONUS AMENDMENT CARRIED BY 382,227

So-Called "Water-Power-Grab" Proposal Lost by 295,526, Complete Returns Show.

THOUSANDS DID NOT VOTE

Surprisingly Large Number of People Expressed No Opinion on Any of the Questions.

The bonus amendment won in the recent election by a majority of 382,227, while the hydroelectric power development amendment was defeated by a majority of 295,526, it was announced yesterday by Secretary of State James A. Hamilton at the close of a meeting of the State Board of Canvassers at Albany. All but two of the amendments submitted were approved, as well as the $50,000,000 hospital bond proposal. The two defeated were the hydroelectric and the debt limitation.

Under the terms of the bonus amendment the Legislature is given authority to raise $45,000,000 to distribute among the soldiers, sailors and marines who served during the World War and who were residents of the State when they entered the service. New York City gave the amendment 554,377 votes and east 330,410 against. Seventeen counties defeated the amendment. They were Cortland, Delaware, Greene, Lewis, Madison, Nassau, Otsego, Rockland, Schoharie, Seneca, Schuyler, Suffolk, Tioga, Tompkins, Wayne, Westchester and Yates. Of the 2,288,540 votes cast, there were 626,548 blank and void.

All of the five amendments and the one proposition went down to defeat in these eight counties: Cortland, Lewis, Madison, Otsego, Schoharie, Schuyler, Seneca and Yates. Wayne County voted against all of the amendments, but carried the proposition, while in Delaware County the only one that carried was that relative to extending the privilege of absentee voting to inmates of the soldiers' and sailors' homes.

Home Rule Lost in 31 Counties.

Thirty-one counties defeated the "home rule" amendment, but it was carried by a vote of 837,106 to 810,947, there being 689,065 blank and void votes. New York City's vote on the amendment was 603,-548 to 190,819. The counties that defeated the amendment were Allegany, Cattaraugus, Cayuga, Chenango, Cortland, Delaware, Franklin, Genesee, Greene, Hamilton, Herkimer, Jefferson, Lewis, Livingston, Madison, Ontario, Orleans, Otsego, Rockland, St. Lawrence, Schoharie, Schuyler, Seneca, Steuben, Sullivan, Tioga, Tompkins, Washington, Wayne, Wyoming and Yates.

Only two counties carried the water power development amendment—Clinton and Schenectady. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 965,777 to 470,251. New York City voted 256,010 in favor and 504,081 against.

The debt limitation amendment was defeated also, the vote being 746,146 to 508,694. Fifty-four counties carried the amendment, but Albany, Bronx, Kings, Monroe, New York, Onondaga, Richmond and Schenectady Counties defeated it. The New York City vote was 375,591 for and 504,081 against.

The extension of absentee voting to inmates of soldiers' and sailors' homes was carried by a vote of 1,019,077 to 423,497, the New York City vote being 634,296 to 157,376.

Hospital Bonds Won.

Although fifteen counties voted against the proposition for a $50,000,000 bond issue for the construction of new buildings for State hospitals, it won out by a vote of 1,105,199 to 898,811. There were 564,628 blank and void ballots. An especially heavy vote was cast for the proposition in New York City, 672,495 being in favor and 125,376 against.

The principal feature of the vote on all the amendments was the number of blank ballots, showing that thousands of voters either did not take the time to inform themselves as to the merits of the proposals or refrained from venturing an opinion one way or the other. On the bonus amendment, for instance, there were 523,015 blanks, while 685,187 voters did not venture an opinion on the hydroelectric power development. On the home rule amendment there were 686,186 blanks; on the debt limitation, 759,982; on the absentee voting, 605,162, and on the bond issue proposition, 661,-621 blanks.

On the bonus vote in Erie County alone 82,026 voters did not express an opinion, although the amendment was carried in that county. In Albany County more than 26,000 did not vote on the amendment, and more than 51,000 in Westchester County likewise refrained from voting on record. The total vote on all the amendments and the one proposition with the number of blank ballots, was as follows:

| Amendment | Yes. | No. | Blank. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 1,072,119 | 689,893 | 523,615 |
| 2 | 1,105,199 | 810,947 | 564,628 |
| 3 | 470,251 | 965,777 | 685,127 |
| 4 | 608,654 | 971,141 | 759,632 |
| 5 | 1,019,077 | 423,497 | 605,162 |
| Prop. | 1,105,999 | 898,811 | 661,621 |

Following is the vote by counties on Amendment No. 1, the soldiers' bonus and Amendment No. 3, the so-called water-power grab, together with the number of blank ballots cast:

LA FOLLETTE IN STATE FIGHT

South Dakota Progressives Seek His Endorsement by Republicans.

PIERRE, S. D., Dec. 3.—A move to secure the majority Presidential endorsement of the Republican State proposal convention for Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, was started here today by a group of Progressive Republicans when a meeting of La Follette supporters was called to consider plans for the convention fight against the supporters of Senator Hiram Johnson and President Coolidge.

While the strength of the La Follette Republicans has not yet been measured, there are many within the party ranks who admit that the Wisconsin Senator's bloc may wield the all-important balance of power and thus influence the selections for the State ticket.

The key centre of interest in the Democratic Convention is the determined efforts of elements in both parties to effect a fusion between the Democrats and the Farmer-Laborites. The Democrats have declared that all plans for joint action must be based on retention of W. G. McAdoo for the Presidential endorsement.

The three party conventions will meet tomorrow.

SPAIN CONTEMPLATES LOAN.

Expects to Float One of 5,000,000,000 Pesetas Next Month.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Financial circles in Spain are reported in news advices reaching here as greatly concerned over the nation's floating debt of 3,747,000,000 pesetas, it is considered that a loan of 5,000,000,000 pesetas will be necessary, according to dispatches, and this loan will probably be issued in January.

The banks and the public are said to be well disposed toward the project.

LAFOLLETTE DEMAND ON RAIL VALUE FAILS

Commerce Board Rejects Request to Reconsider Findings on Worth of Roads.

TWO OF MEMBERS DISSENT

Others Say There "Must Be Some Limit to Expenditures on Research."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The demand made by the National Conference on Valuation of American Railroads, of which Senator La Follette is the head, that the tentative valuation proceedings carried on by the Interstate Commerce Commission be recommitted and reconsidered, was denied today by the commission.

The followers of Senator La Follette, who contend that the methods of the commission in establishing valuation of railroad properties for rate-making purposes are faulty and favor the carriers, met last Spring in Chicago and drew up petitions which were submitted to the commission. The Governor of Wisconsin joined in the attack and it was understood that the steps taken to overthrow the work of the commission were to pave the way for a fight by the Radicals and independents in Congress to amend the Interstate Commerce Commission act and the Transportation act of 1920.

The La Follette group asked that the Bureau of Valuation of the commission be directed to ascertain and report the original cost to date of each piece of property owned or used by a common carrier for common carrier purposes; separately from improvements, the original cost of lands, rights of way and terminals; the original cost of property held for purposes other than those of a common carrier; the amount and value of any aids, gifts, grants of rights of way, or donations, &c.

The commission contended that it sought, so far as it was within its power, to obtain all information required by the Interstate Commerce act in regard to "original cost to date."

"There must be some limit to our expenditures of public funds in research," the commission's decision read. "We are of the opinion that our course has been in substantial compliance with the statute."

The La Follette group anticipated a rejection of its demand, and stated that in event of such action the commission specifically state the construction of its duties under the Valuation act. This the commission felt was answered by its decision rendered today and its statements made in various valuation cases.

Another demand, that the commission enter an order for reconsideration of any valuation decisions heretofore rendered in which it had not furnished an analysis showing the methods of valuation employed, was rejected by the commission holding that there was nothing in the law requiring a statement of this kind.

Commissioners Eastman and McManamy rendered brief opinions dissenting from the majority findings. Mr. Eastman contended that the commission had full authority to ascertain the facts and should exercise the authority.

RUSH FOR AUTO LICENSES.

Nearly 40,000 Apply for 1924 Plates on Record "First Day."

Nearly forty thousand application blanks for 1924 automobile license plates were passed out yesterday by the Motor Vehicle Bureau through its main office at 220 West Fortieth Street and the eighteen branch offices in the various boroughs. It was a record "first day."

"I am very much gratified at the prompt response made by motor car owners to the call," said Motor Commissioner Charles A. Harnett last night. "While around 25,000 blanks were delivered from this office, there was no congestion at any time. This shows motorists are using the branch offices, and toward the end of the week these blanks will be turned in at the various offices for the plate numbers."

While the new plates were ready for delivery yesterday comparatively few were issued, most of the owners preferring to take the blanks home to be filled out. At the main office in Fortieth Street, 393 sets of plates were delivered, of which 350 were for passenger cars.

The 1924 numbers must not be placed on automobiles until Jan. 1. All of the different branch offices will be open every day during the month, except Sundays. In Manhattan Borough, the application blanks and plates may be obtained at the Fortieth Street headquarters of the Automobile Club of America, 247 West Fifty-fourth Street; Armory, Columbus Avenue and Sixty-second Street; Armory, Fourteenth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenue; Armory, 168th Street, west of Broadway; American Automobile Association, 501 Fifth Avenue; Automobile Club of New York, Hotel Ansonia; National Association of Automobilists, 280 Madison Avenue; Hudson-Essex salesroom, 247 Park Avenue, and the Studebaker salesroom, 73 Fulton Street.

PRISON FOR EX-POLICEMEN.

Newark Men Acquitted of Murder Sentenced for Burglary.

The four men recently acquitted of the murder of Patrolman Peter Bederski during robbery of the Bernstein furniture warehouse in Newark May last were sentenced to prison there yesterday on burglary indictments to which they all pleaded non vult. John Glueckman, also indicted but who was the State's chief witness at the trial of the other four, was sentenced by Judge Fred G. Stickel, Jr. in the Court of Common Pleas.

Thomas Schaffer, ex-policeman, was sentenced to State prison for from two and a half to seven years; Adam Drasch, another ex-policeman, five to fourteen years; Leander Fischel, five to fourteen years; Louis Gimbelstine, two and a half to fourteen years, and Glueckman, nine months in the penitentiary.

NEW JAPANESE EARTHQUAKE

Nagoya Shaken for 40 Seconds, but No Damage Reported.

TOKIO, Dec. 3 (Associated Press).—A sudden and severe earthquake, which lasted forty seconds, was felt at Nagoya, 170 miles southwest of here, on the island of Hondo, at 10:18 o'clock last night, according to advices received today.

Residents of the city, which is one of the largest of the empire, were badly frightened, but no damage has been reported.

Dies Listening to Radio Concert.

Mrs. Caroline Weiss Fortier, widow of Philip P. Fortier, died suddenly in her chair Sunday night as she listened to a radio concert at her residence, 145 South Fourth Avenue, Mount Vernon. Death was due to apoplexy.

UTICA, Dec. 3.—Creditors filed a petition in Federal Court today asking that Romaine W. Curtis, Syracuse clothing dealer, be declared bankrupt. His liabilities are estimated at over $10,000.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 3.—Judge Logan J. Ora, in St. Joseph Superior Court No. 1, appointed George M. Crane receiver for the Oster Rubber Company of this city. Assets of the concern amount to $500,000. Indebtedness does not exceed $125,000, according to Mr. Crane, but the company is unable to meet its obligations in the regular course of business. It is the purpose of Mr. Crane to continue its operation.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Irregular Downward Reaction in Stocks — Sterling Rises, Then Declines Again.

Something of a reactionary mood prevailed in nearly all speculative markets yesterday. On the Stock Exchange, after an early show of strength, prices gave way in an active business. European exchange rates closed lower. The cotton market, responsive nowadays in an exceptional degree to "private estimates," broke $4.50 per bale, or nearly 2% per cent., on a 9,000,000-bale crop forecast by a Southern newspaper whose reports have long been held in esteem by the cotton trade. Under the circumstances, the break in price was not illogical; for the extreme rise of last week was largely a consequence of scattered private estimates, placed as low as 9,200,000 or 9,400,000.

The reaction on the Stock Exchange may or may not have been a consequence of the first gun of the Congressional "insurgents," the fight over the Speakership in the newly convened House. Nothing in these proceedings happened contrary to expectation, but Wall Street perhaps regarded the occurrence as the signal for a nerve-disturbing session. At all events, the heavy selling of stocks, apparently by professional speculators, was timed with appropriate accuracy to the Congressional proceedings. Taken as a whole, the market's tendency was more or less confused. Most of the day's net declines were only fractional and a few stocks ended with an advance of a point or more; but the standard shares closed pretty uniformly lower.

Foreign exchange, like the stock market, advanced in the early business, sterling at one time selling 2¾ cents above last week's lowest rate. The subsequent reaction carried it down well below last week's closing, and francs declined with it. In the sterling market's present speculative mood, however, and with London finance in its present state of doubt regarding Thursday's general election, it was hardly to be expected that any considerable recovery would be sustained before Thursday's voting. Possible political complications in the electoral result are so numerous and varied—quite aside from the Labor victory which no one looks for—that London is probably perplexed as to how any one of them would affect sterling rates, and is playing safe.

While other European exchange rates yielded, the German mark advanced; yesterday a dollar would command only 4.1-3 trillion marks, as against 6¾ trillions on Saturday and 8.1-3 at the recent low level of depreciation. Cables received over Sunday are enigmatical in their description of the sudden cheerfulness of Berlin over the old paper mark. If it were planned to buy up that currency with "rentenmarks," some temporary appreciation might be reasonable. But the dispatches seem to be equally positive that the old paper marks are to continue to serve their valuable purpose.

Our total exports in October, as reported a fortnight ago, were $19,200,000 greater than in September, but our imports increased $50,000,000, leaving a considerably smaller export surplus. Yesterday's report on the October trade by countries of origin or destination showed that the increase in exports did not result from larger shipments to France or England—which between them took somewhat less than in September—but in the main from a $15,000,000 greater export to the Far East. The month's trade with Europe, indeed, mainly because of a $20,400,000 increase in our imports, left a much smaller balance in our favor than that of the month before; a not uninteresting fact in view of the subsequent rapid fall of European exchange rates. To England our surplus of exports was less by $7,400,000 in October than in September; to France it was less by $5,100,000. Unfortunately, the confusion of periods in our foreign trade statements at Washington, for some months after enactment of the Fordney tariff, makes close comparison with 1922 impracticable.

MONEY.

MONDAY, DEC. 3, 1923.

Return of Dec. 1 interest moneys made for easier market for Stock Exchange call funds, rate starting at 5 per cent. and later declining to 4½, and an interval of 4¾. Minimum charge came at mid day and ruled thereafter until close. Time money was quiet and without change at 5@5¼ per cent., but, as previously, renewals made up for most of day's business, new money being loaned in small amount. Commercial paper likewise discounted unchanged at 5@5¼ per cent.; most names moved at inside figure.

London Market.

Money in London ¼ lower at 1¾ per cent.; short bills unchanged at 3⅝ per cent.; three months' bill unchanged at 3 7-16@3⅝ per cent.

Gold bullion 4d lower at 94s 10d per fine ounce. Taking the British Mint standard price of 85s per fine ounce as par, the market quotation of gold would represent a price of 111⅛ at London. On the same basis the highest London price for gold for the year to date was 114 on Nov. 19. The highest price since open trading in gold was resumed at London in September, 1919, was 140⅝, on Feb. 9, 1920; the lowest 102¾, on Feb. 21, 1922. Highest price last year, 126, on Jan. 3.

RAILWAY ORDERS NEW SHIP.

Southern Pacific to Run Boat From Here to New Orleans.

The Southern Pacific, in line with the development of its water and rail route from New York to the Pacific Coast in competition with Panama Canal traffic, has placed an order for a new steamship to have a displacement of 11,100 tons and to cost about $2,000,000. The vessel which is to be constructed by the Todd Drydock & Construction Company of Tacoma, Wash., will be used as a passenger ship between New York and New Orleans.

Specifications provide for 237 first-class and 111 steerage passengers. The steamer is to have a maintained speed of 15½ knots an hour, and will be equipped with turbine motors capable of developing a shaft horsepower of 6,000. It will be 445 feet in length, with a beam of 57 feet and a draft, when loaded, of 23 feet and 6 inches. The boat will have approximately 500 tons greater displacement than the Creole and Momus now in operation between New York and New Orleans.

Hayes Wheel November Sales.

Gross sales of the Hayes Wheel Company for November were $1,681,000, compared with $1,194,000 for the same month last year. For the eleven months of the year sales have been $17,232,000, compared with $12,908,000 for 1922.

SCHWAB IS OPTIMISTIC.

Finds Business Conditions on Firmest Basis in Years.

Business conditions in the United States are on the most firm basis that they have been in years, according to a statement made yesterday by Charles M. Schwab. According to him no justifiable grounds for fear exist.

"Through the noteworthy efforts of the Secretary of the Treasury Mellon," he said, "we have been enabled to cut down our national expenditures to a considerable extent. And if his plans for a tax reduction is allowed to go through, this country would continue on its prosperous way with even greater fervor than in the past. We have only to compare financial and industrial conditions in this country with those throughout the rest of the world to obtain an adequate idea of how well off we are."

New Consolidated Gas Issue.

Stockholders of the Consolidated Gas Company have ratified the proposal of the Directors to authorize 400,000 additional shares of common stock. This brings the total of common up to 2,000,000 shares. The new stock is to be offered to the old stockholders at $50 a share.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Stocks Reset After Strong Opening.

With trading again on a large scale yesterday, the total for the day being above the 1,100,000-share mark, the stock market sold off. At the start prices were in most instances fractionally above the closing prices of Saturday, and in some instances gains of a point or more were scored. A few stocks, in fact, established new high records for the current rise. The convening of Congress, which was scheduled for noon, had little effect on the stock market during the morning hours, but in the afternoon, when prices started to slip off, the report went around that traders who held stocks which showed profits were realising, pending further developments at Washington. The reaction in the last few hours of trading was rather sharp. All of the early gains were canceled, except in a few instances where stocks closed higher for special reasons, and at the close net losses of one to two points were recorded in the active speculative issues which have been in the limelight during the past few weeks. These stocks which registered losses of two points or more included American Can, Davison Chemical, Pan-American Petroleum and United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry. Nickel Plate and Chesapeake & Ohio were the leaders in the railroad group, each advancing sharply. Mariand Oil was prominent for its rise in the listed oil group.

"Chart Experts" Again Come to the Front

Many reasons were given on Wall Street yesterday for the reaction in prices. Whether the reasons given were correct or not was disputed, but the experts of the chart accept credit for calling the turn in the market. One of them before the opening sent out a prediction that a turn in the market was in sight, and his prediction materialized later in the day, despite the strong tone which prevailed during the morning hours. This expert figured out that in August and September, when the market was recovering from the July low prices, the advance lasted thirty business days and the gain recorded amounted to 8½ points. In the October decline all and more of this gain was lost. The current advance, which started late in October, had lasted twenty-eight days up to Saturday and the gain, according to the averages, was 8½ points. In view of this it was assumed that a technical reaction was in order, regardless of outside developments or "fundamentals." Wall Street is at heart extremely fond of this sort of reasoning.

Railway Traffic at Year-End.

Careful comparisons of railroad traffic this year with that of 1920 have given place in the last few weeks to a comparison with the corresponding weeks of last year. It is on such a comparison that the financial and railroad district is hoping to find some inkling of what the year 1924 may bring. The reason for the change is more or less obvious, because after the middle of October in 1920 there was a rapid decline in car loadings, even to lower weekly totals than the year before. On the other hand, loadings for the last two months of 1922 were the highest for any corresponding period in the history of the railroads. By shifting the point of view from the 1920 traffic to that of 1922, it is the belief that it may be possible to write the predictions for the coming years in terms of 1923.

Awaiting the Message.

Although it is quite generally conceded in the financial district that President Coolidge's message to Congress will be conservative in tone and nature, the market appears disposed to mark time until the actual details of the President's speech to Congress becomes public property. This, in the view of many expert judges of the market, was the prime consideration yesterday in bringing about irregularity and profit-taking. The theory was widely advanced yesterday that the market likely will continue to fluctuate easily around present levels until some sign of Congressional temper is given.

The Rise in the "Independent Oils."

While most stocks were selling off yesterday, the oil issues stood out from the rest of the list because of their strength. Gains were reported in most of the oils, due mainly to the recent sharp falling off in production. There were a few issues, however, which attracted unusual attention, chiefly Mariand Oil. This stock has been much of late in connection with reports that the company would have to arrange some new financing to carry its inventories. Yesterday, however, the stock started upward and at its high gained about four points. The advance was due to circulation of reports that the company had arranged for its financing privately through companies with which it has contracts calling for the delivery of oil. This report was partly confirmed after the close of the market, when it was announced that arrangements for financing through local bankers had been called off and that "the company had no need for such financing at present because of the improved condition of the industry." In addition to the above, reports were also circulated that the larger independent producers and held a conference in Chicago over the week-end, discussing plans advocating a pooling of their interests. This could not be confirmed locally.

Lower Rate on Loans for Railroads.

The suggestion offered by railroad executives that the Government loans to the railroads be placed on a 4% per cent. basis instead of the 6 per cent. basis has set the railroad district figuring. Students of railroad financing figure that the Government holds a total of $419,290,900 of railroad securities. A reduction of 1½ per cent. on this amount, they declared yesterday, would equal a saving of $6,289,300 to the railroads in their annual fixed charges. The money, they point out, would be distributed among the railroads that have the greatest need for a reduction in fixed charges. On the other hand, the argument is advanced that the act would cost the Government nothing, since it is a simple matter for the Government to borrow on a 4½ per cent. basis. Other financiers point out, though, that if the Government were to make this reduction it would have no chance to make good its losses in cases where loans are defaulted.

Our Trade With Canada.

References to Canadian import and export statistics, made available yesterday from Ottawa, show how the United States, in lieu of normal markets in Europe, has expanded its trade relations with neighboring countries. Figures previously published showed how this tendency had been southward since the war, the nations of Central and South America taking a greatly increased volume of our goods. The Canadian figures appear equally impressive. Canadian imports from the United States in the year ended Oct. 31, 1922, amounted to $620,000,000, an increase of $120,000,000 over the preceding year, while Canadian exports to this country were $411,000,000, against $327,000,000 the year before, an increase of $84,000,000.

OPEN DRIVE TO PASS MELLON'S TAX PLAN

State Chamber of Commerce's Committee Urges Members to Back His Proposal.

WILL TAKE VOTE THURSDAY

All Asked to Make Views Known to Their Senators and Representatives.

The first step in connection with a country-wide campaign for the Mellon tax reduction proposals among the nation's civic and trade organizations was taken yesterday when the committee on taxation of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York made public a set of resolutions urging that the Mellon program be adopted by Congress. The resolutions were sent to all members of the chamber, who will vote upon them at the regular monthly meeting of the chamber on Thursday.

The report was signed by all of the members of the Committee on Taxation, who are: Clarence H. Kelsey, Chairman; Donald Geddes, Frederick H. Hurdman, H. Hobart Porter, William B. Phillips, William D. Baldwin and Albert A. Tilney. This report, addressed to the Chamber of Commerce, says:

"Your Committee on Taxation takes it for granted that the Chamber of Commerce is in favor of an immediate reduction in taxation and, in general, approves the plan brought forward by Secretary Mellon.

"It desires to call the attention of the chamber, however, to certain features of that plan which should commend themselves to all voters and secure the adoption of the plan. It is estimated that it will reduce income taxes by some $225,000,000, and that over 41 per cent. of this will be taken off the taxes of those having incomes of $6,000 or less and 23 per cent. from those having incomes of more than $6,000 but not more than $10,000—that is to say, at least 64 per cent. of the reductions will inure to the benefit of those having incomes not exceeding $10,000, and these, in 1921, the last record available, numbered 6,400,000 persons, or more than 97 per cent. of all the income taxpayers. These are the ones whom it is most desired to relieve.

Deficit Made a Surplus.

"The hope of making this reduction is found in the results of the operations of the Treasury for the current fiscal year which are likely to turn an expected deficit of $800,000,000 into a surplus of $300,000,000. This is partly due to sales of assets, but substantially also to the operations of the budget system, and in the extension and widespread application of that system lies the hope of still further reductions.

"The increase in both Federal and State taxes between 1914 and the present time has been very great and has been estimated by the National Industrial Conference Board to make them three times what they were in 1914. It is estimated that now one-sixth of the current national income goes in taxes for Government support, both national and local.

"There is every reason, therefore, to urge the adoption of the reductions recommended by Secretary Mellon and it should be impressed upon the minds of Senators and Congressmen that there is no more important duty presented to them than to secure this measure of relief for their constituents. It should also be impressed upon them that in the face of the great increase in taxation which the public has submitted to, and the possibility of securing, by economy, this proposed reduction in taxation and this relief for the taxpayers, it will be entirely unacceptable to the mass of the voters if a scale of expenditure is voted by the Congress which will preclude the possibility of the hoped-for income tax relief. If the Government does not reduce its expenditures and so be able to reduce its tax levies, how does it expect the citizens to reduce their expenditures, give up their extravagances and return to the habits of thrift and productivity which have made the country prosperous in the past and are vitally necessary now if it is to maintain its dominance in world competition and insure the comfort and prosperity of its people?

Urge Expression of Views.

"It is recommended that the members of the Chamber take the trouble to express their views with great positiveness to their own Senators and Representatives in Congress and take pains to see that their correspondents and customers take the same trouble. It is plain that there is a country-wide demand that substantial tax relief be granted and at least 6,000,000 voters need it and expect it and will not be satisfied if it is denied them. The position of each one of them should be brought home to his or her Congressman and Senator, and if it is, the demand can hardly fail to be granted. Therefore, the following resolutions are offered:

"Resolved, That the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York heartily endorses the proposed reductions of the income taxes recommended by the Secretary of the Treasury in his letter to Congressman Green of Nov. 10, 1923, and calls upon its members to use their efforts to impress upon Congress the importance of securing the proposed relief for the taxpayers and to support the efforts of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Government at Washington to reduce expenditures and enforce economies; and

"Resolved, That the officers of the Chamber and its Committee on Taxation be authorized and instructed to take such steps as they may deem expedient to put the views of the Chamber before the Congress and to impress upon other bodies and individuals who share its views the importance of exerting themselves to secure their acceptance and favorable action thereon by Congress."

EXPORTS TO EUROPE DOWN, IMPORTS UP

October Import Surplus in Our Trade With Asia Much Below September's.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Exports from the United States to Europe were almost double the value of imports during the month of October, according to Commerce Department figures issued today. South America was the only world territory from which the United States took commodities greatly in excess of exports. The value of October imports from that continent being $36,980,000, while exports were valued at $21,968,000.

Figures made public today by the Commerce Department upon the destination of exports and the source of imports, with comparisons between September, 1923, and October, 1922, are as follows:

All the above comparisons with October, 1922, are more or less vitiated by the fact that the Department of Commerce statements for that month included the exports between Sept. 22 and Sept. 30, immediately after the introduction of the new tariff.

Michigan Electric Bonds Ready.

Upon presentation of certificates of deposit issued by the Bankers Trust Company, the owners will receive securities of the Michigan Electric Railway Company in accordance with the reorganization plan, it was announced yesterday. The first and refunding 5 per cent. bonds of the new company carry interest from Jan. 1, 1923, and payment due July 1 will be paid, it was stated, when the coupon of that date is presented.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Opening Advances Give Way on Pressure of Export Bills—Easterns Weak.

Mainly as a result of pressure of export bills, which continued yesterday in the unremitting fashion of previous sessions, foreign exchanges ruled irregularly. All rates started firmly, sterling in particular showing an advance over the week-end of ¾ cent, at $4.35, higher cables and the demand from importers serving to lift the market moderately up from Saturday, but before noon offerings had piled up sufficiently to dwarf the inquiry and reaction followed all through the list. The market settled down in the afternoon to a small volume, but still on the offered side, and rates finished at substantial declines from Saturday.

French exchange followed sterling, opening higher, at 5.42⅛ cents, but dropping back to 5.35¼ cents, 5 points under Saturday. Italian, Holland, Belgian, Spanish and the Scandinavians followed the same course. In the Far Easterns the Chinese and Japanese rates reacted sharply, the former dipping on the decline in silver, while the yen was reported feeling the effect of the earthquake disaster, capital losses being tremendous from that catastrophe.

German marks were nominally quoted at 23 cents per trillion, or at the rate of 4,250 billion for the dollar, compared with 6,666 billion a week ago and 8,000 a year ago.

AMERICAN BANKERS MAY CHANGE RUSSIA

Group of Them Are Said to Be Examining It as a Field for Finance.

WOULD JOIN BRITISH GROUP

Contemplated Institution Would Be Run in Partnership With Soviet Government.

A group of American bankers are looking over Russia, according to a report in the financial district, and contemplate forming a Russian bank in conjunction with British capital and the Russian Government. The step, if taken, will mark one of few instances in which so-called capital has recognized the Soviet Government as a safe companion in business. The Soviet Government would retain half the capital stock of the proposed bank.

Colonel Willard Hein, representing British bankers who are now at work on the plan, is in New York City at the request of American bankers, according to the report, to discuss plans for admitting American capital into the venture. The present British plans call for the early inauguration of a bank in Russia to be known probably as the Anglo-Russian Bank. It would have a capital of approximately £3,000,000, held half and half by the Soviet Government and by the British bankers as copartners. Should American participation be obtained, it was suggested yesterday, the Soviet Government would take out an amount of stock equal to the American subscription, thus retaining a one-half interest.

The Russian banking system, recently brought into existence by the Soviet Government, has been growing steadily in importance for several months. Reports published by the Department of Commerce indicate that the Soviet Government is shifting the burden of financing industries to its banks. The contemplated Anglo-Russian bank would in time take over all the present Russian banking system, it is expected.

It is suggested, also, that it would endeavor to restore foreign property seized during the revolution.

EXCHANGE REVISES ITS QUESTIONNAIRE

Members Must Answer on Conditions for Past Month Under New Rule.

MORE SUBJECTS COVERED.

Brokers Are Asked Concerning Money Borrowed on Their Customers' Securities.

The Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange has adopted several new rules in connection with the filing of answers to the questionnaire covering the financial position of member firms doing business with the public, according to reports in the financial district yesterday. Under the new way, the member firm receives the questionnaire generally on the first of the month, and his answer must cover his position as of the close of the previous month. Under the old system, it is understood, the member generally received notice to file his answers as of a date which was understood to have been ten days from the date of receiving the questionnaire. Under this system the member firm had an opportunity to liquidate weak accounts and "sweeten" its collateral. This opportunity is done away with under the new system.

The latest questionnaires are also reported to contain several new questions. The most important addition is one which has to do with the amount of money borrowed by brokers on customers' securities. In this connection the questionnaire says:

"What steps are your firm taking to comply with that part of the resolution of the Governing Committee of July 27, 1921, which declares—'that an agreement between a Stock Exchange house and a customer * * * does not justify the Stock Exchange house in pledging or loaning more of such securities than is fair and reasonable in view of the obligations of the customer to the broker.'"

The Stock Exchange inaugurated the sending out of questionnaires to its members in the Autumn last year and thus far three questionnaires have been sent to members. While the questionnaires must be sent to members at least twice a year, answers may be requested by the Committee on Business Conduct more often or at any time the committee desires such information.

What Does A Share In An Investment Trust Represent?

Answer:—

A COMMON SHARE represents the owner's part interest in the total assets of a Trust. When an Investment Trust holds, for example, 400 different investments, each share combines "pieces" of all these 400 different securities. A share costing $100 would have a 25 cent interest in each investment of the Trust.

The individual investor of average resources could never attain such great diversification as the Investment Trust accomplishes. The primary purpose of the Trust is to provide, in its own securities, the complete diversification desired by conservative purchasers of stocks and bonds.

The operations of the Investment Trust is described in our booklet.

OIL CO. CALLS OFF $15,000,000 LOAN

AID FROM STANDARD DENIED

Reported Conference in Chicago Leads to Predictions of Several Mergers.

Negotiations between the Marland Oil Company and New York bankers with a view to floating a loan of $15,000,000 for the company have been called off. Bonds were prepared for public offering today through a syndicate headed by Dillon, Read & Co., but at the last minute the company canceled the deal.

Officers of the company said they did not need any new money. The turn in the oil industry had been decidedly for the better, they said, and with production in the principle crude oil fields declining sharply they anticipated increased business. In the Texas and California fields production has undergone a particularly sharp decline, it was said.

A report that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey had helped the independent concern by way of advancing money on oil contracts was denied. The company said its treasury was in good condition, and that the prospect of improving business obviated the necessity of a loan.

No plans are now being made to refund approximately $5,000,000 of 7½ and 9 per cent. notes of the company, it was stated, although it had been previously reported that the new $15,000,000 financing, as contemplated, was to be used one-third for that purpose and the balance for storage and other corporate purposes.

The first evidence the financial district had of any change in the plans for new financing was in the form of a sharp rise in the common stock of the company. The stock moved up 4⅝ points. It was not publicly learned until after the close of business that the plan to borrow money had been canceled.

Interest was displayed in local oil circles yesterday in reports from Chicago, that E. W. Marland, head of the Marland Oil Company, H. F. Sinclair, of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation and officials of the Standard Oil Companies of Indiana and New Jersey had attended a conference in Chicago on Sunday.

Advices from the West stated that the meeting of the oil officials was for the purpose of pooling their interests to tide them over pending renewal of consumption on a large scale next Summer. Despite this, however, there was much talk here about possible mergers but no positive information could be obtained. It is generally expected that several mergers will be announced during the Winter, but thus far there has not been the slightest intimation of a merger of Marland and Sinclair.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Staple Group Changes Show Opposite Movement—Provisions and Metals Steady.

The price trend in cash staples was mixed yesterday, in the grains, for instance, wheat and flour moving higher, while corn declined in the textiles, spot cotton reacted sharply on heaviness in the futures markets, while printcloths, catching up to the violent swing in cotton, improved ¾ cent, to 8¼ cents, and matching the year's high, touched in March. Elsewhere, gains were reported in the dairy products, 92-score butter advancing to a year's high at 54@54½ cents, eggs also improved 2 cents per dozen, to 52@37 cents, while provisions and metals were firm, lead and tin in the latter group going higher.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Monday, a week before and a year ago:

GOLD SHIPPED HERE FROM LONDON GAINS

Total of $24,000,000 Consigned This Week Largest in Two Years.

BANKERS ARE SURPRISED

Sharp Increase Partly Accounted For by Shipments to Make Payments on Britain's Debt.

A sharp increase in the amount of gold being shipped to New York from London was reported yesterday. During the last week of November, according to dispatches from London, English banks had placed on ships bound for New York £4,942,105, or approximately $24,000,000. This week's shipment, which is due here within the next week or two, approximates the monthly average for the year to date.

Inquiry among New York banks revealed a degree of surprise regarding the operation, which, it was indicated, comprised the highest weekly total attained since two years ago, when shipments of gold to New York from London reached the high water mark. Facts that came to light some time after the record of two years ago showed that the Federal Reserve System of the United States had called in balances then with the Bank of England. The Federal Reserve Bank has not replaced these balances since then, and consequently the present high volume of shipments cannot be ascribed to that operation.

Shipments from London are roughly divided into two classes, governmental and commercial. The commercial shipments represent many cases of purchase by banks of gold mined in South Africa, this gold finding its way ordinarily into one of two countries, the United States or India. While commercial shipments, involving, too, the building up of sterling credits to provide for British buying of cotton and other commodities, have been heavy during the late Summer and early Fall, it was stated yesterday that the bulk of these requirements for this year had been provided. A suggestion that British importers were placing balances here to cover hurry-up orders of American goods with the view in mind of "beating" a possible British tariff was described as "ingenious but unlikely" by one banker. Even should England impose a tariff, it was argued, importers would receive ample warning in time to buy and receive American goods before the proposed law would go into effect.

As to the possibility of new gold shipments for the British Government's account, it was noted that a payment of $92,000,000 on the debt owed by Great Britain comes due on Dec. 15 under terms of the debt-funding agreement. As a result, credence was given the report that some of the increase was in connection with this payment, a report that could not be confirmed.

The weekly shipment of $24,000,000 coming from London alone compares with a monthly average of $29,000,000 in gold for the year to date. New York port received during October from the rest of the world $24,119,004, in September $24,302,110, and in August $26,481,017. The November figures have not yet been compiled. An unofficial record of these shipments would indicate that the average shipments of the preceding three months would be exceeded. Shipments for the full calendar year 1923 are expected to exceed those of 1922, the British Government payments on American indebtedness being the principal factor.

R. H. LONG CO. EMBARRASSED

Head of Concern Once a Candidate for Governor of Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the Federal District Court late today against the R. H. Long Company, of which Richard H. Long of Framingham, once Democratic candidate for Governor, is the head.

The petitioners were three creditors with small claims, but they charged preferential payments last November when, they allege, the company was insolvent.

A Creditors' Committee reported last week that the affairs of the company and its subsidiaries, the R. H. Long Shoe Company and the R. H. Long Company, had been placed in the hands of a firm of industrial engineers.

The report said that lack of liquid assets was the principal difficulty of the company and that the committee believed creditors would fare better by avoiding a receivership.

RAILWAY'S EARNINGS GROW.

Chicago & St. Louis Shows Big Gain Over Last Year.

The net operating income of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Company for the month of October, at $692,649, was $276,290 less than the same month of last year, the ten months' income shows a substantial increase over last year. For the ten months the operating income was $9,903,701, an increase of $1,439,907 over last year. The decrease for the month of October in comparison with the same month of last year was largely due to an increase in operating expenses amounting to $453,121, as compared with an increase in operating revenues of $165,987.

RECEIVERS FOR A RAILROAD.

Lease of Keokuk & Des Moines Not Renewed by Rock Island.

Receivers have been appointed for the Keokuk & Des Moines Railway Company, according to advices to the Bondholders' Committee, consisting of F. J. Lisman, F. W. Matterson, Samuel Sloan and R. B. Lanier. The receivers, appointed at the request of this committee, are S. D. Kaufman, President of the Bankers Trust Company of Des Moines and F. S. Hughes of Des Moines.

Receivership was asked so that the railroad could be kept in operation despite the fact that the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company failed to renew its lease on the property.

No Change in Midland Bank Policy.

The Midland Bank Limited of England, which recently changed its name from the London Joint City and Midland Bank Limited will continue doing all foreign business through local banking organizations, it was announced yesterday. Most other large British banks conduct their overseas business through subsidiaries in foreign countries.

Maryland Equipment to Pay Dividend.

Holders of Western Maryland Equipment trust certificates, Series C, dated June 15, 1923, have been notified that the principal and dividend due Dec. 15, 1923, will be paid at the office of the Western Maryland company, 71 Broadway, New York City.

Tennessee Electric Shows Gain.

Net earnings of the Tennessee Electric Power Company for October were $214,072, against $152,317 in October, 1922. After paying all fixed charges, interest on the preferred stock and making allowances for depreciation, the company reports a balance of $88,854 for the month.

American Water Works Earnings.

The Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company reported net operating income after taxes of $19,752 for the month of October.

PRIVATE ESTIMATES BRING COTTON SALES

Loss of 73 to 86 Points Recorded in Selling Which Follows Publication of Trade Reports.

Whether due to unsettling effects of the elections in England and larger crop estimates or to necessity for a more general readjustment following the recent sensational advance, cotton lost ground yesterday. After selling at 37.15 at the start, December contracts broke over a cent, while the whole list touched lower quotations than were reached last Friday. A prominent Memphis publication placed the crop at 9,904,000 bales, while a conservative Southern house estimated the yield at 9,881,000. Both these sources have a record of coming very close to the actual outturn the past two years, and as the figures were higher than most recent guesses they exerted an influence on sentiment. It was a day of general liquidation, with a loss of 73 to 86 points.

Though Liverpool had advanced sharply over 40 English points before New York opened, there was evidently cotton for sale on the recovery abroad. January there sold over 21.70d, but this was more than 50 English points from last week's high records. A quantity of contracts appeared on the call and though December sold above 37 cents, later months came under pressure from the start. Blocks of cotton in all positions appeared in the ring, indicating that larger speculative interests had decided to liquidate holdings or at least reduce their lines. This selling was not confined to larger operators, but as the day wore on liquidation became quite general. Cotton poured into the ring so fast soon after the opening that a running break resulted. While May started at 26.80 and January at 26.55, January sold down 70 points to 35.85 and May to 36.15 before the market could right itself. A similar break occurred in both New Orleans and Liverpool. Abroad all early gain was wiped out and many months sold lower than any figure touched on Saturday. It was not until March had changed hands at 36 cents that a quantity wanted at the even figure steadied the market and permitted a rally of 20 points.

Two unsettling factors came from larger crop estimates than many recently in circulation and the elections in England. Both injected an element that increased the disposition to secure profits as well as tempering buying enthusiasm. Prices have advanced about 9 cents a pound since the Department of Agriculture on Oct. 18 announced its intention of issuing a special report on Nov. 2. Since then there has been a steady and often violent rise with only one reaction of a cent and a half, around 34 cents, until this setback of Friday. Prices then reacted a cent and a quarter, recovered sharply three quarters of a cent on Saturday, but yesterday's gain turned down and closed lower than figures reached the latter part of the week. Not only is cotton coming from New York, the running stock being now in excess of 87,000 bales, compared with 54,000 a year ago, but contracts have risen more rapidly than Southern spot quotations. During the month of November the Inspection Bureau of the Exchange has passed on 25,000 bales, so that the certificated stock now exceeds 28,000 bales, compared with less than 200 bales at one time in October. Under the circumstances, it was not considered surprising that a process of digestion and readjustment should develop following the phenomenal rise in values.

Several times during the session rallies of 20 to 30 points occurred, but each recovery met selling orders and lowest figures of the day were reached the last hour. Liquidation unearthed a new set of stop-loss orders, so that May broke through 36 cents to 25.90 before steadying in final trading. January sold within 2 points of 35¼ cents, while December touched 36 cents, just 170 points from early high records on the year.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

| | Open. | High. | Low. | Close. | Previous Day. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|

J. P. MORGAN RETURNING.

Banker Expected on the Majestic, Due Here Next Tuesday.

J. P. Morgan is expected to arrive here next Tuesday on the Majestic. He has been in Europe since early in the Summer.

When he sailed he said the trip was primarily for a vacation and had nothing to do with a bankers' conference abroad which, it was then rumored, was about to be called. He said he had no intention of discussing with representatives of any foreign Governments the subject of reparations or the possibility of a loan to Germany. Before bankers would care to discuss such a loan, he said, the reparations problem would have to be settled.

Spoehr Candy, Inc., May Pay in Full
Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Filing of an involuntary bankruptcy petition against Spoehr, Inc., candy manufacturers, was a "concerted plan" whereby the company and the creditors hoped to rehabilitate the organization, involving fresh capital and a new management, according to a statement made today by Conrad Spoehr, President of the company. At a meeting between creditors and the management, plans were formulated through which it is expected all claims will be paid in full. Three additional claims for $2,000 were filed against the company today in the District Court. The claims now total $125,000.

$31,500 for Cotton Exchange Seat.

The New York Cotton Exchange membership of Webb Floyd, deceased, was sold yesterday to E. E. Bartlett Jr. for $31,500, a reduction of $500 from the last previous sale. It is understood that Mr. Bartlett acted as agent in the transaction.

COTTON EXCHANGE ACTS ON 'LEAKS'

Two Members Ordered to Appear Tomorrow Before Business Conduct Committee.

SOUTHERN BOARDS WARNED

President Says Exchange Is Determined to Keep Quotations From Bucketshops.

Efforts of the New York Cotton Exchange to prevent quotations leaking to bucket shops and fly-by-night odd-lot concerns advanced a step yesterday, when two members of the Exchange were directed to appear before the Business Conduct Committee.

"The Business Conduct Committee of the New York Cotton Exchange has summoned two members of the Exchange to appear before the committee on Wednesday, Dec. 5, at 3:15 P. M.," announced Louis Brooks, Chairman of the committee.

"The committee is continuing its inquiry into the alleged misuse of the Exchange quotations and kindred matters, and it is possible that other members may be summoned before it if information now in the hands of the committee is substantiated."

Mr. Brooks said that the committee was also endeavoring to guard against the leakage of New York Cotton Exchange quotations through Southern exchanges.

"Representatives of the Atlanta and Augusta exchanges have appeared before the committee," he said, "and have been informed that if their exchanges do not safeguard the quotations of the New York Cotton Exchange the committee will feel compelled to recommend that the service be discontinued. Other exchanges which have our quotations will be informed of this policy."

Commenting on the announcement of the Business Conduct Committee, Edward E. Bartlett Jr., President of the Exchange, said:

"Whether due to negligence or whatever cause, failure of any member of the New York Cotton Exchange to exercise the utmost diligence to safeguard our quotations leaves the Exchange itself open to criticism. Without the quotations cotton bucket shops could not exist, and the Exchange is determined to stop the leaks which have been instrumental in enabling certain so-called odd-lot brokers to impose upon the confidence of persons of small means.

"The Exchange has no place in its membership for persons who do not live up to its rules, and any member found guilty of violation can expect to receive the maximum penalty."

MAY WHEAT AT $1.10 IN CHICAGO MARKET

Unexpected Decrease in the 'Visible' Fails to Bring Out Large Offerings.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—There was less resistance to a further advance in wheat today than was expected, and, while there was a small recession at one time, commission houses absorbed the surplus in the pit and shorts found offerings limited on the way up, the close being ⅞ to 1 cent higher, with May getting above $1.10 and holding the advance for the first time in a month. The pit element apparently figured on free selling on resting orders at that figure and went short, but the sales were not large.

The British bank loan to Germany led to a belief that conditions abroad were due to improve, and sufficient uncertainty exists to keep the bears on the anxious seat, while practically all of the news of a depressing character is known and little is left to the imagination.

Much to the surprise of the trade, there was a decrease of 3,192,00 bushels in the visible supply, which brought the total down to 71,808,000 bushels, against 75,000,000 bushels the previous week and 33,428,000 bushels last year. The decrease was due to liberal shipments from Duluth that failed to show up in the quantity on the lakes. This is not unusual, but under normal conditions considerable grain is reported after the close of navigation at Eastern ports, where it had been shipped for Winter storage. Deliveries on December contracts here were 16,000 bushels, and no material increase is looked for until after the close of navigation.

The Kansas State crop report showed 9,751,000 acres seeded to Winter wheat this Fall, a decrease of 1,826,000, or 15.8 per cent., from last year. Condition is 86.5, or 8.4 points above the five-year average and 15.4 points better than last year.

A house with eastern connections was a persistent seller of May corn, but on all the breaks there was persistent buying by commission houses in small lots and the finish was ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower, with December showing the most strength. Cash grain was up 1 to 2 cents and is getting out of line with futures again. Consignment notices are rapidly decreasing both here and in outside markets.

The visible supply increased 1,098,000 bushels and is 2,680,000, against 1,654,000 the previous week and 11,072,000 last year.

A good part of the 835,000 bushels of oats taken in on December contracts Saturday will be shipped out to the east. This was largely responsible for a slow demand in the spot market today. Futures gained 1½@1¾ cents.

Eastern houses bought rye and the market gained 1½@1¾ cents for the day.

Export demand at the seaboard was not active, although sales of 400,000 to 500,000 bushels of Manitobas were reported partly to go to Europe from the Pacific coast with 200,000 to 300,000 bushels of rye, mostly to Norway.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 1,745,000 bushels; week ago, 1,029,000; last year, 2,842,000. Shipments were 1,328,000 bushels; week ago, 851,000; last year, 1,116,000.

Corn receipts were 2,020,000 bushels; week ago, 2,045,000; last year, 1,575,000, and shipments, 932,000 bushels; week ago, 807,000; last year, 583,000.

PIERCE OIL CO. REPORT.

Statement Shows $5,685,940 Deficit on June 30 This Year.

The Pierce Oil Corporation had a deficit on June 30, 1923, of $5,685,940, according to its consolidated statement, made public yesterday. The deficit for the year ended Dec. 31, 1922, was $3,787,506 after interest, depletion and depreciation, compared with a deficit of $5,555,657 in 1921, after interest, depreciation, depletion and adjustment of inventories.

For the six months period the corporation and its subsidiaries had a gross profit of $3,220,630, which, after expenses of $8,192,180, left a balance of $28,446. Against this balance were interest, depletion, depreciation, &c., amounting to $1,296,761, which left a deficit of $1,268,321.

The Day in Chicago Live Stocks.
Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Despite receipts of 67,000 hogs the market advanced five to twenty cents and closed at the top, with the day's average $7.66, against $6.70 a week ago, and $8.05 last year. January ribs and bellies sold at a new high for the season, ribs gaining twenty-five to thirty-five cents on Eastern buying, with bellies up twenty cents. Lard gained five to fifteen cents. Cattle were weak to twenty-five cents lower and lambs steady to twenty-five cents lower.

$12,500,000 BONDS SOLD IN 15 MINUTES

St. Paul Union Depot Issue Quickly Oversubscribed, J. P. Morgan & Co. Reports.

OFFERINGS TODAY LIGHT

State and Municipal Borrowings for Year Will Be $200,000,000 Less Than in 1922.

The offering of $12,500,000 of St. Paul Union Depot bonds, made yesterday, was oversubscribed heavily, according to estimates at the close of business. Subscription books were closed fifteen minutes after their opening, according to the announcement of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Continued light offerings of State and municipal issues is forecast for the rest of this year, today's offerings of this class totaling less than $7,000,000. As against by an estimate by the Bond Buyer, the total of such issues for the calendar year 1923 will be at least $200,000,000 less than in 1922. "State and municipal borrowings," this publication says, "reached its peak in 1921 when long-term loans were put out to a total of $1,383,368,900. The next year showed a drop of more than $100,000,000 and 1923, as indicated, will be even smaller." For the eleven months ended Nov. 30, the 1921 total was $1,069,623,000, and the 1922 figure, $1,196,198,708, and the 1923 period, $938,007,085. These three years mark the only times when borrowings of this kind have exceeded the billion-dollar mark, the average borrowings of States and cities prior to 1919 having been $300,000,000 a year.

One of today's offerings is of $2,730,000 Moffat Tunnel Improvement District 5½ per cent. gold bonds, due serially from 1926 to 1952. These are priced to yield approximately 5 per cent. The Moffat Tunnel District is a civil subdivision of Colorado, created by the State Legislature, to finance the construction of a tunnel through the Continental Divide. The bonds are the remaining portion of a $9,000,000 issue. Offering of $3,600,000 of these bonds was made earlier in the year.

A new issue of $2,850,000 of Tulsa, Okla., 5½ per cent. water works bonds, dated Dec. 1, 1923, and due serially from 1927 to 1947, is being offered by Batchelder, Wack & Co., Bonbright & Co., C. W. Whitis & Co. and Prudden & Co. The bonds mature $560,000 on Feb. 1, 1927, and $112,000 annually from 1928 to 1947. The 1927-1933 maturities are priced to yield 5.10 per cent.; the 1934-1938 maturities to yield 5.15 per cent. and the 1939-1947 maturities to yield 5.10 per cent.

The bonds are a direct and general obligation of Tulsa, which has an assessed valuation of $87,317,000 and no assessed debt of $1,863,608. They represent the undistributed portion of a total authorized issue of $6,800,000 voted in 1921 for a water supply system, soon to be finished.

Prudden & Co. are offering an issue of $144,000 Stark County, Ohio, 5½ per cent. road bonds, due serially on Dec. 1, from 1927 to 1933 inclusive, at prices to yield 4.70 per cent. for the 1927-1928 maturities and 4.70 per cent. for the longer maturities.

Hambleton & Co. will head a syndicate which will offer shortly $3,000,000 of Missouri Power and Light Company first and refunding 6 per cent. bonds at a price, the offering price, it was understood, would be close to par.

May Drop Gasoline Contract.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

A special meeting of the stockholders of The American Credit Indemnity Company of New York will be held at the office, No. 184 Fifth Avenue, New York City, New York, on the 20th day of December, 1923, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the purposes of considering the following propositions, viz.:

1. To increase the capital from $350,000.00 to $1,000,000.00, $350,000.00 of said increase to be in the form of a stock dividend of 7,000 shares of $100 each, out of present surplus and profits, and $300,000.00 thereof to be sold.

2. To reduce the par value of all shares of stock from $100.00 to $25.00 per share, and authorize the directors to call in all outstanding stock certificates and issue new certificates in lieu thereof which shall correspond with said changes in capitalization.

3. To authorize the directors to sell 12,000 shares of capital stock having a par value of $25.00 each at not less than $50.00 per share, first offering the same to stockholders and then offering all not taken by stockholders to officers, agents and employees and then any stock still remaining unsold to such person or persons as they may seem best.

4. To authorize the directors to sell part of said new stock to agents and employees upon the instalment plan, provided that no stock certificates shall be issued or delivered by them until the stock authorized thereby has been paid for in full and no contract for sale of stock shall permit it a longer period than two years for payment therefor in full.

5. To adopt new by-laws.

By Order of the Board of Directors.

JOHN F. McFADDEN, President.

LEO J. NOUSS, Secretary.

ITALIAN COMPANY FINANCE.

New Incorporations While Old Shares Are Declining.

The index number of the principal shares dealt in on the Italian Stock Exchange fell from 81.45 at the end of September to 80.11 at the end of October. The index is based on the price of 129 shares, and the basic index of 100 is computed from the price of the same shares at the end of 1918.

During October 84 new limited companies were formed and 77 existing companies increased their capital with an issue of new capital equal to 247,670,290 lire. On the other hand, 21 companies were wound up and 19 reduced their capital, involving an aggregate of 210,891,219 lire. Therefore, the net new investments for the month were 36,779,080 lire. This brings the net investments for the first ten months of 1923 to a gran. total of 2,058,961,301 lire.

CORN CROP, WINDFALL OF WESTERN FARMERS

Remarkable Results in Quantity and Value Produced by Kansas and Nebraska.

Harvest estimates for Nebraska, the Kansas City Reserve Bank states in its December bulletin, "proclaims corn as King of crops in that State. This year's production of 277,868,000 bushels and an average yield of thirty-four bushels per acre is the second largest in the history of that State, as this year's production has not been exceeded since 1894, when the total reached 288,590,000 bushels. However, that crop was only worth 13 cents a bushel, a total value of $38,516,000, whereas the 1923 crop, even on a basis of 90 cents per bushel, would total in value $250,200,000. Last year's crop in Nebraska was 182,400,000 bushels, with the price 59 cents a bushel. The report said that 98 per cent. of the corn is of merchantable quality.

"The preliminary estimate places the Kansas average corn yield at twenty-three bushels per acre this year, and indicates a total production of 154,849,000 bushels, the largest corn crop Kansas has produced since 1915. It is 36,456,000 bushels more than the 1922 crop and 43,720,000 bushels more than the five year average from 1917 to 1921. The bulk of this year's Kansas crop is in the northern half of the State, where the yields are exceptionally good except for a strip of territory about two counties wide, extending north from the line between Ellsworth and Ellis.

"Seventeen counties comprising a square in northwestern Kansas show the best average yield, ranging from thirty to forty bushels per acre. About thirty counties of northeastern Kansas show average yields of twenty-two to thirty-nine bushels. These two districts carry 36 large a percentage of the acreage that they bring the State average up to twenty-three bushels, although the other fifty-eight counties ranged downward from twenty-one bushels to as low as four bushels per acre. The Northwest had an unusual combination of more than normal corn acreage and far above normal yield."

Railroad Club Dinner Tonight.

The New York Railroad Club will hold its annual dinner this evening at the Hotel Commodore. Dr. William Starr Myers, Professor of Politics at Princeton, will speak on "Thoughts on Our Present Discontent."

National City Opens New Branch.

The National City Bank announced the opening yesterday of a new branch at Fifty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue, opposite Carnegie Hall. This makes the third National City Bank branch in the uptown district, the others being at Madison Avenue and Forty-second Street and at Fifth Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street.

General Motors Adds to Its Force.

The payroll of the General Motors Corporation showed 100,611 employes during October, a new high record for the company, according to a statement issued yesterday. The total compares with 90,765 in October, 1922.

American Water Works Hearing.

The American Water Works and Electric Company reports for the month of October a net income of $264,684 after the payment of all charges, an increase of $50,102 over October, 1922.

Allows Employes to Buy Stock.

The United Shoe Machinery Company is allowing employes to buy its common stock at $29 a share. Each employe may take from one to twenty shares and pay for them in weekly instalments from his wages.

YOUNG SLATED TO GO ON APPRAISALBOARD

Washington Believes North Dakota Representative Will Succeed Judge Hay.

WAS HARDING'S CHOICE

Coolidge Likely to Carry Out Predecessor's Wish on Appointment Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Representative George Morley Young, Republican, of North Dakota, who is entering his sixth continuous term in Congress, is likely to be the successor of Judge Eugene G. Hay of Minnesota as a member of the United States Board of Appraisers at New York City. President Harding had decided to appoint Mr. Young when Judge Hay should go on the retired list, and it was learned tonight that President Coolidge does not now contemplate offering the place to any one else.

Mr. Young is not understood to be a candidate for the position but he is slated for it because of his familiarity with tariff legislation and custom matters, as a result of his service as a member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

No date has been set for the retirement of Judge Hay, but the understanding is that on account of impaired health he for some time has been anxious to go on the retired list. Should President Coolidge appoint Representative Young he would have to resign as Representative. The appointment of Judge Hay's successor will mark the disposition of the first political perquisite in New York State by President Coolidge.

The Board of Appraisers at New York City is composed of nine men, serving for life, who hear appeals in customs cases that formerly went on appeal into the United States District Courts. The board handles appeals from appraisers in all ports.

$1,000,000 SHIP SUIT.

Italian Line Charges Conspiracy by United States Shipping Board.

The Italian Star Line, Inc., through its attorney, Lawrence S. Miller, began suit in the Federal Court yesterday against the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation for $1,000,000 damages, which it claims to have suffered by an alleged conspiracy to have a receiver appointed for the company. The complaint, made by E. Paul Yaselli, President of the company, states that his company purchased from the defendant the freight steamer Liberty Land for $605,125.19, that monthly payments of $39,125 were to be made until the vessel was paid for, and that on April 10, 1920, 21½ per cent. of the total price of the vessel had been paid. The stipulated monthly payments had been made in May and April of that year.

Before July 28, 1920, the complaint states, the Shipping Board notified the plaintiff that further payments would be on a 10 per cent. basis, and that on Oct. 7, 1920, $1,499.59 had been paid on this new way. About Dec. 6, it is alleged, the conspiracy complained of resulted in the appointment of a receiver and the defendant in this way acquired possession of the plaintiff's property and records.

The receivership, it is stated, grew out of a demand by the defendant for the payment of $114,000, which the plaintiff claimed was not due, and payment was refused because there were other urgent obligations that had to be met. Later, when the $114,000 was offered by the plaintiff it was not accepted and the receivership proceedings were instituted.

POLITICIANS MILK COWS.

Brooklyn Quartet Distanced by a Regular Operator.

John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Kings County, and County Clerk William E. Kelly, also a Democrat, met F. J. H. Kracke, Appraiser of the Port of New York, and ex-State Senator Charles C. Lockwood, Republicans, in a milking contest yesterday in front of Borough Hall, Brooklyn, all were in white overalls and the contest was to arouse interest in the opening of the campaign to sell Christmas seals to aid in the work of stamping out tuberculosis.

Five cows were brought down to the business section of the borough on a large truck. The fifth cow was milked by a man who refused to give his name, but at the end of the contest the strange man was so many quarts ahead of the politicians that no second place award was made.

DENIES FIRING A STORE.

Staten Island Man Released on $2,500 Bail on Arson Charge.

Rudolph Wedemeyer, 23 years old, of 8,835 Amboy Road, Great Kills, S. I., was arraigned in Stapleton Police Court yesterday before Magistrate William Croak on a charge of arson, and through his counsel, Arthur Simonson, pleaded not guilty. He was released in $2,500 bail for examination Friday.

Fire Marshal William Emerson and Detectives McCann and Boylan of the New Dorp Police Station charge Wedemeyer with having set fire to a millinery store owned by Thomas Nolan at 7 Gifford Lane, Great Kills, early Sunday morning. Wedemeyer's mother said that Nolan and her son were good friends. Nolan bore out this statement.

Wedemeyer is a nephew of Justice Arnold J. B. Wedemeyer of the Municipal Court at Stapleton, S. I. He is an automobile salesman.

MISLED BY BANANA SONG.

Portuguese Brings a Shipment, Hearing of Dearth Here.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 3.—"But there are no bananas in America except mine," protested George Gomes, staggering clear of two enormous bunches of the green fruit which had impeded his progress from the deck of the Fabre liner Britannia to the State Pier this morning.

George said that everywhere in Lisbon he had heard America's lament about the banana shortage, and being an honest fellow, had thought to turn an honest penny here by investing a small fortune in the fruit ere he quit his native land for the United States.

Despite the mirth excited by his appearance with the bananas, George refused to believe that his financial coup would not be entirely successful.

Court Enjoins Conde Nast Strikers.

STAMFORD, Conn., Dec. 3.—A temporary injunction has been granted by Superior Court Judge John W. Banks restraining strikers at the Condé Nast Company's printing plant at Sound Beach from interference with other employes. The hearing on the injunction trial set for Dec. 14. The company seeks a permanent injunction and $50,000 damages. The civil action is returnable Jan. 1.

Gen. Peck's Will Provides for Horse.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 3.—Under the will of General Henry E. Peck, filed today, the income of a trust fund of $2,000 is to be used to care for his favorite mount, Andy, during the remainder of its life. The horse may not be sold.

POWER SHOW OPENS.

Exhibits Range From Tiny Models to Machines Weighing Tons.

Important developments in power development and conservation are shown in the second annual power show, which opened yesterday and will continue all the week at Grand Central Palace. The National Exposition of Power and Mechanical Engineering, as the exhibition is officially styled, is planned to interest and instruct every one who uses heat or power, the small householder as well as the mechanical engineer, the power equipment expert and the large manufacturer.

The exhibits range from tiny models to machines themselves, some of them weighing many tons; from a model of Sir Isaac Newton's locomotive of 1680 to the latest coal and labor saving devices. Motion pictures on general subjects, such as coal and steel, as well as on highly technical subjects, are being shown.

I. E. Moultrip, who is in charge of the construction of a plant in Boston with turbines designed to carry from 3,200 pounds pressure per square inch, nearly ten times as much as that of the super-pressure Hell Gate plant, is showing the plans. There is also a model of the Hell Gate plant.

Exhibitions of splint and cannel coal, peat, wood refill waste and many forms of briquetted coal are shown in the fuel section. Of the American fuels shown the newest is Virginia anthracite. There are said to be large deposits of this fuel awaiting development as soon as adequate railroad facilities are provided. New types of briquettes made of coal dust with tar and petroleum binders also are shown.

Fifteen models showing the development of the locomotive are made of polished walnut, ivory, bone and bits of glass. They are the work of Ernest Warther of Dover, Ohio, who spent ten years making them. Each model can be run by its own power.

McADOOS ARE SUED HERE.

Ex-Secretary of Treasury and Son Named in $484 Claim.

Papers filed in the Supreme Court yesterday disclosed that William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, and his son, William G. McAdoo Jr., have been sued with their alleged partner, Joseph Schaffer, for $484. The suit is brought by the Weakley-Watson Miller Hardware Company of Brownwood, Tex., for hardware sold the firm of McAdoo, Schaffer & McAdoo in 1920.

The elder McAdoo filed an answer yesterday denying that anything is due from him, and got an order compelling the plaintiff to file a bond for $250 in the case on the ground that the plaintiff is a nonresident.

TENEMENT HOUSE DEALS.

Frederick Brown Sells Flats on Second Avenue Corner.

James H. Cruikshank purchased from Frederick Brown the northwest corner of Seventy-second Street and Second Avenue, consisting of six flats, with stores, on a plot 128 feet on Second Avenue and 75 feet on Seventy-second Street. The buyer has resold to Samuel Siegel the northwest corner of Second Avenue and Seventy-second Street, a five-story flat, with two stores, on a lot 21 by 75. Cleary, Goldsmith & Glynn, Inc., were the brokers.

Adolph L. Simon and Emanuel B. Morgenstern, composing the firm of the Manal Holding Corporation, have resold the northeast corner of 111th Street and Seventh Avenue to an investor.

The house yields an annual rental of $12,000 and was held for $80,000. It contains two seven-room suites on a floor and measures 25 by 100 by irregular. The sellers acquired the building three days ago.

Coughlan & Co., Inc., sold for P. H. Fern to Charlton W. Crane the five-story apartment house at 79 La Salle Street. The purchaser intends making extensive alterations.

David Lion and Theodore Yankauer sold the four-story tenement, with stores, 336 East 115th Street, which they recently purchased under foreclosure, to Salvatore Dematteo, who has purchased for investment. The brokers in the transaction were Castellano & Caucci.

Butler & Baldwin, Inc., have resold for a client the recently acquired property at 685 Amsterdam Avenue, a five-story and basement tenement, on a lot 25 by 100, held at $50,000. White, Goodman & Co. were associated as brokers.

Otterbourg, Steindler & Houston have sold for a client the five-story double flat 118 West Eighty-fourth Street, on lot 25 by 102. The Wood, Dolson Company was the broker.

Harry J. Schum, sold for Martha Martin to Max Sperling a five-story tenement, 232 West Twenty-fourth Street, on plot 28 by 98. The purchaser owns 230 West Twenty-fourth Street, increasing his plottage to 67 by 98.9.

DEVERY ESTATE SOLD.

Far Rockaway Properties Brought $158,550 at Auction.

Properties at Far Rockaway belonging to the estate of William S. Devery were sold at auction last Saturday by Joseph P. Day for a total of $158,650. The sale comprised a large waterfront mansion, furnished dwellings and building plots, which the late Mr. Devery, one-time Police Commissioner of New York City, acquired during his lifetime. The sale was held at Far Rockaway in the former Devery mansion.

The two-and-a-half-story dwelling at 2,946 Mott Avenue was sold to Morris Rosenfeld for $7,000, and the adjoining parcel, 2,940 Mott Avenue, sold for $7,300 to J. H. Greenspan. 2,926 Mott Avenue sold for $8,000, while 2,904 Mott Avenue brought $9,000. The vacant plot at the southeast corner of Carlton and Chandler Avenues brought $6,050.

1,361 Cedar Avenue, a two-story dwelling, sold for $9,000, while $8,600 was obtained for 1,360 Cedar Avenue, a similar dwelling. The vacant plot immediately in the rear of these two houses brought $5,200.

The former Devery residence was offered, and knocked down in three separate parcels for a total of $46,200.

BUYS EAST SIDE PLOT.

Dwelling Valued at $100,000 Added to Holding.

William Goldstone purchased from the estate of Sarah V. Benson 20 East Fifty-third Street, a four-story and basement brownstone house on a lot 20.7 by 100.5 feet, adjoining the southeast corner of Fifty-third Street.

Mr. Goldstone bought the corner property three years ago and now controls a plot 100.5 feet on Madison Avenue by 48.6 feet on Fifty-third Street. The property just purchased was held at $100,000.

Brown, Wheelock, Harris, Vought & Co. were the brokers in the transaction.

$100,000 Bronx Garage.

A $100,000 garage is to be erected on the site of Niblo's Garden, a Bronx amusement landmark, at the southeast corner of Third Avenue and 170th Street. The property, which fronts 92.4 feet on the avenue and 323.3 feet on the street, has been acquired by the newly formed Niblo Realty Corporation, of which Joseph Blum, M. Saltman and M. Adler are directors.

Resale Near Duke Estate.

Charles M. De Rosa & Co., Inc., resold for the Bank Realty Company 106 lots of the tract of land which they recently bought at Somerville, N. J., adjoining the Duke estate. The purchaser will immediately develop the property.

Private Dwelling Sale.

The Alentaur Realty Company sold to a client of Pepe & Brother the property 35 to 41 Morton Street, which consists of two four-story dwellings, on lots 25 by 100 each.

WAS HELD AT $365,000

Investor Buys Building Recently Completed on the West Side.

The southwest corner of Madison Avenue and Ninety-ninth Street, improved with a seven-story store and apartment house, has been purchased by the L. J. Realty Company, Inc., from the Monner Realty Corporation. The building has been held at $365,000. G. Edward Loht and the United States Realty Company were the brokers in the transaction. Nathan H. Stone represented the buyer.

The nine-story apartment house recently completed by Anthony Paterno at 310 West Eighty-fifth Street, between West End Avenue and Riverside Drive, has been purchased by an investor. The building occupies a plot 75 by 102.2 and has four apartments on a floor, two fours and two fives. It has been held at $725,000.

The property yields an annual rental of $92,500, and was sold by the 310 West Eighty-fifth Street Company, Anthony Paterno, President. F. V. Calder & Co. were the brokers who negotiated the transaction.

The six-story elevator apartment on a plot 125 by 100 feet at 656 West 162d Street was purchased by David B. Bartelstone, an operator, and negotiations for a resale of the property are pending. The building has an annual rental of $45,600 and the parcel was held at $285,000. Irving H. Wolfe negotiated the sale. The building is known as The Crest Court.

The two five-story store and apartment buildings at 1,515 and 1,517 Madison Avenue on a plot 54 by 70 were purchased by Nathan Mast and Isaac Rosenberg, tenants of the stores, from S. H. Jackson. L. L. Quasnia represented the buyers.

The five-story apartment at 305 West 118th Street was sold by Rose Tandler to the Reil Corporation, Jacob S. Blatt, President.

Edgar A. Shoemaker purchased the Lygon Arms, a nine-story apartment house, on a plot 58 by 100, 47 to 51 East Sixty-first Street, from James A. Mears through the W. H. Ebbitt Company. It has an annual rent roll of about $125,000.

I. N. Rosenberg sold to David and Joseph Hershkowitz, investors, the six-story apartment house, 50 by 100, at 522 and 524 West 112th Street, between Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue. The property has an annual rental of $22,500 and was held at $140,000. L. Silverman was the broker who negotiated the sale.

Edward A. Arnold sold for Louise M. Scheel to Agnes J. Cannon the five-story apartment house, with stores, at 2,402 Eighth Avenue. The improvement rents for $5,600 and was held at $35,000.

Isidor H. Kempner sold 149 West Sixty-second Street, a five-story apartment house, on a plot 25 by 100, to Albert Vogel, a shoe merchant. Mr. Kempner recently purchased the property from Lawrence McGuire.

BUSINESS PROPERTIES.

Two West Side Loft Buildings in $375,000 Deal.

Mary J. Fahey sold through Berwin & Co. to a client of Deschuch & Co. the two six-story and basement loft buildings at 125 to 145 West Seventeenth Street on a plot 130 by 92 feet and having an annual rental of over $70,000.

H. J. Schum resold for Sol Freidus and Morris Steinberg the two six-story buildings at 327 to 331 West Twenty-seventh Street on a plot 106.2 by 98.9 to the Minan Company, Inc. The property was held at $250,000.

Broadway Corners Leased.

The J. & E. Realty Corporation leased for the Gladwin Realty Company the southwest corner of Seventy-fifth Street and Broadway on a long-term lease.

The same brokers also leased, for Greenberg & Fisher, the Calvin apartment house, on the northwest corner of Eightieth Street and Broadway, fronting 130 feet on Broadway, on a long-term lease.

The Greencach Realty Company has leased the entire second floor of the Marcella Building, 277 Fifth Avenue, to the Reiss-Premier Pipe Company, which will occupy as a salesroom. Sanford M. Salke was the broker in the transaction.

Thoens & Flaunlacher, Inc., have leased for the Brotherhood Investment Company the store and basement at 424 Seventh Avenue to Loft, Inc.

This is part of the property taken over last Spring by the Brotherhood Investment Company, which is now altering the Thirty-third Street frontage at 205 and 207 for banking purposes. Loft, Inc., will remodel the Seventh Avenue frontage and occupy it as a candy store and tearoom. The lease is for a term of years at an aggregate rental of about $175,000.

The American Railway Express Company has renewed its lease with the Equitable Life Assurance Society for the third to eighth floors, inclusive, at 111 and 119 West Nineteenth Street, through to 110 to 118 West Twentieth Street, each floor being 100 by 184 feet, from Feb. 1, 1924. The Rowantree-Sekley Company was the broker.

Stansfield Place Sold.

David Stewart sold the Stansfield place, situated on the westerly side of Palisade Avenue just south of Kappock on West 228th Street, Spuyten Duyvil-on-Hudson, to Francis S. Peterlio, the well-known west side builder. The property consists of a stone and timber dwelling, large stucco garage, with two acres of land fronting 250 feet on the Hudson River and 125 feet on Palisade Avenue. After extensive alterations Mr. Paterno will occupy.

Builder Buys in Fieldston.

M. A. Campagna, Washington Heights builder, purchased through Joseph P. Day from the Delafield estate a plot on the west side of Fieldston Road, approximately 200 feet north of West 246th Street. Mr. Campagna plans to build a residence on this plot for himself, which has a frontage of 95 feet on Fieldston Road, running back 120 feet.

Syndicate Buys on Park Avenue.

William A. White & Sons sold 1,192 to 1,198 Park Avenue, the southwest corner of Ninety-fourth Street, on a plot 100.8 by 80 feet. The property is now improved with four old-fashioned flats. The purchaser is a syndicate composed of Samuel A. Herzog, Edgar A. Levy and Benjamin Mordecai. The property will be placed in the market for resale.

Auction Johnson Foundry Tomorrow.

The entire equipment and supplies in the twenty-nine buildings and yards of the Isaac G. Johnson & Co. foundry at Spuyten Duyvil will be sold at auction tomorrow at 10 A. M. by Jacques Cohen, auctioneer.

Auction Results.

THE BRONX MARKET.

Apartment Houses Properties Continue in Demand.

The two four-story apartments, 25 by 100 each, at 239 and 241 Bedford Park Boulevard, were sold by the Jolido Corporation, Joseph Liberman, President, to an investor. The houses were held at $65,000.

Joseph Hyman purchased 903 Whitlock Avenue, corner of Tiffany Street, a five-and-one-half-story building on plot 50 by 100, with four stores. It was held at $125,000. Isaac Hyman represented the purchaser.

Ralph M. Ginsher, as broker, sold for I. Sherman the 4 by 100 modern apartment house at 81 Kelly Street to Garfunkle & Kaufman, investors. The rents were over $18,000, and the property was held at $114,000.

The same broker also sold for H. Schwartz the 33 by 150 parcel at 2,156 Prospect Avenue to a client of J. Eisenstein for $21,000, and also sold for R. Voss to H. Katz the two-family dwelling at 806 Freeman Street for $10,000.

The Manida Building and Construction Company, Inc. (A. Gastman, President) sold the corner plot of ground, 50 by 100, on the corner of Manida Street and Oak Point Avenue, Hunts Point section, to the Fox Foundry Works (F. Fox, President), which is planning to erect a six-story factory and foundry on this site at once. Additional ground adjoining this plot is under consideration, and if possible the entire frontage on Oak Point Avenue will be bought up for the factory and foundry purposes. L. Berkowitz was the broker.

PARK AVENUE CORNER SALE.

Frederick Brown Buys the Old Alvarado Apartment.

The old Alvarado apartment house, on the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Eightieth Street, has been purchased by Frederick Brown, operator, from Edgar A. Levy, Benjamin Mordecai and Samuel Herzog, who bought it recently, apparently for the purpose of removing the structure and erecting a modern apartment building on the land.

The Alvarado is built on a plot of more than four lots, fronting 102.2 feet on the avenue and 92 feet on the street. The building is seven stories high and of the "U" type—that is, a building with three wings, or two courts.

It was erected about thirty years ago. Park Avenue at that time held no promise of ever being more than a mediocre highway, an avenue of ordinary flats.

The Alvarado corner is one of the few available for improvement in that part of Park Avenue. There are 9,450 square feet in the site. The building on it now rents for $74,000 a year. Julian T. Saxe negotiated the deal.

Long Island City Corner Sold.

Judson A. Harrington has sold for Cyrille Carreau to an investor the unrestricted plot at the northeast corner of Nelson Avenue and Van Dam Street, Long Island City, with frontage of 100 feet on Van Dam Street. This corner plot is on the same block as the Packard Building, and is located 500 feet south of Queens Boulevard.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — Pressure was relatively low and falling Monday night almost generally over the eastern half of the country, but over the far northwest, and it remained low in the vicinity of Bermuda, while high pressure prevailed over Newfoundland and from the northern Rocky Mountain States westward to the Pacific Coast. There have been local rains within the last 24 hours in the southern lake region, the great central valleys, the Gulf States and Northern New England. The temperature has not changed materially in any part of the country during the last 24 hours and it was above normal Monday night almost generally east of the Rocky Mountains.

There will be rains almost generally over the States east of the Mississippi River within the next 24 hours and weather conditions will remain unsettled on Wednesday with a probability of rain in the Atlantic States, the lower lake region and the extreme upper Ohio valley. The temperature will not change materially, although somewhat colder weather will overspread the lake region, the Ohio valley, Tennessee and the East Gulf States Tuesday night and Wednesday.

The latest thing in skating outfits

HERE is the latest thing in skating outfits—Alumo Skates and Skating Shoes. When you flash by on a pair of Alumos, you know that your skates are distinctive looking. They give you more speed, too, and are so light that you scarcely feel them. Alumos are the only aluminum skates. Three models—racing, hockey and arena in polished or satin finish. At leading hardware or sporting goods dealers.

The Greatest Bargain Sale in the History of the

ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA

Only a Very Few Sets Remain of the Famous Handy Volume Issue AT HALF THE PRICE of the Regular Cambridge Issue

THERE is only one way to be certain of securing the Encyclopaedia Britannica in the Handy Volume Issue. Our small remaining stock is nearly exhausted. Already three of the five bindings have been completely sold out. Only a few sets remain in the most popular binding, Maroon Cloth—still fewer in Sheepskin. These are the bindings most in demand, and of which our original stock was largest. BUT—only a few remain in each. To secure one of these last sets, ACT AT ONCE!

These sets are the 12th and latest edition in 32 volumes, including the three volumes prepared since the close of the war, making the Britannica the most up-to-date reference, fact and historical book in the world. All the sets are printed on genuine India paper.

Remarkable Demand for These Sets

During the last few weeks thousands have seized this unprecedented opportunity to secure the Britannica in its most convenient form, and at the greatest price reduction ever offered. The demand far exceeds our calculations. Every mail brings in new orders by the score.

Last Date December 24

But we cannot keep up with them much longer. Already the end is near. This greatest Britannica bargain of all time is not scheduled to close until December 24, but the end may be reached almost any day now. When our last set is sold, the sale is over. And so we say—act quickly, if you want one of these sets. To delay will mean almost certain disappointment.

The Handy Volume Issue Will Never Be Reprinted

This means the disappearance from the market of a triumph of bookmaking, at which publishers and public alike marveled. Greatly increased costs and changed conditions in publishing make it impossible for us to reprint this issue without raising all our prices. This we positively refuse to do. The Handy Volumes offered to-day are the last ever to be had.

Within Reach of All

People in all walks of life, from newsboy to merchant prince, have purchased the Britannica. While these Handy Volume Sets last, you can enjoy new ease in buying, through our Deferred Payment Plan. A deposit of $5 puts one of these remarkable sets in your home, and the balance may be paid in monthly sums. Truly, everyone can afford to buy. And no one can afford to be without the Britannica.

The Best Christmas Gift of All

What a Christmas gift! In the beautiful mahogany finish bookcase which is given free with every set, the Britannica is truly a princely gift, one that will be prized by all the family for years and years.

To Make Sure of Getting a Set

Because our stock is so low, we print below two coupons. Neither obligates you in the least. One will bring to you full information. The other, the Reserve-Deposit Coupon, when accompanied by $5, will reserve a set for you while you read our book of specimen pages and decide whether or not to buy. Your Reserve-Deposit will be either returned in full, or credited on the purchase price.

Seize this opportunity AT ONCE.

LATEST EDITION IN THIRTY-TWO VOLUMES

Beautiful Bookcase FREE

With each Handy Volume Set we will give absolutely free—this handsome mahogany finish bookcase, with leaded glass door, especially designed for this issue by Maple & Co., world-famous cabinetmakers.

These sets are on display at our Sales Office,

342 Madison Ave. (at 44th St.), New York City, or at Henry Bee Co., Arcade Book Store, 50 Broadway and 43 New St., New York City where you may call and personally examine the different bindings and the free bookcase.
